

HOW TO WEAR THE BONNET.

Invaluable Suggestions to Women who Have Difficulty with Head Gear.

The fashion of having strings on large hats seems to be a regular rage. The silly fashion of having huge streamers pendant from the back of a hat is seen no more...

A woman with a broad face should wear a bonnet that sets on the top of her head—not resting on her ears and brought in a curve back from the forehead.

If the wearer has a pale complexion let her affect dark blue, or blue of the clear electric grayish shade. Dark red adds a color to the face.

Strings that hide the pretty part of a woman's side head, where her hair grows in pretty curves back from the ears, are not an improvement.

Man's Idea of a Woman's Club. It is unfortunate, perhaps, but it is really true that to the untutored mind the word Sorosis brings up a vision of stately, short haired ladies...

It unbends a little at its banquets; it has then to lower its intellect to the level of its guests, but even then there is a flavor of woman's suffrage in the chicken salad, the croquettes...

Emblematic Signs Going Out. There is a notable decay in the use of emblematic signs on shops in our cities, the barber's pole, the druggist's colored waters, the cigar pump...

ODDS AND ENDS.

Fire this year has cost $50,000,000. One New York hotel rents for $250,000 a year.

The male of the silkworm moth travels at the rate of 100 miles a day.

The grade of the Brooklyn bridge roadway is 3 1/2 feet per 100 feet of length.

The newest thing in note paper is of a delicate heliotrope, with a silver moon ograun.

A method of blasting by electricity has been tried in Sweden, with reported good results.

True worth never seeks credit for more than it is; that is left for imitators and counterfeiters.

It is easier to forgive a friend for the wrong he did us than for the lie he told to keep it from us.

A man is always taller in the morning than when he goes to bed. When you are asleep you "stretch and grow."

Dr. Koch's enormous correspondence is entirely in charge of his wife, who permits no other calls to interfere with her duties as her husband's secretary.

The mother of the late Henry C. Work, the author of "Marching Through Georgia," died at her home in Hartford on the day of General Sherman's death.

That we lost the race because we stopped to point out the right way to a wanderer will be remembered by him, though our names are not capitalized in the next day's newspapers.

The Window in Art and Literature.

Many a famous picture has a window for its setting. Noah sending forth the dove from the little cubit window. The mother of Siseria looking out at a window as she cried through the lattice.

Poor Enoch Arden, tempted by the glowing window of Philip's house, saw framed in that "comfortable square of ruddy light" his happiness and his despair.

The Open Window to the magazine of the Shut-in society. Through it the dear feeble folk catch a glimpse of the great, busy world, where their heavy feet may not go.

"Look out, not in," is a law of physical as well as of mental hygiene. It is like lifting the lid of Pandora's box. Woes fly out, leaving the blessings to be counted.

Bronson Alcott's Potato Bugs.

The Listener heard a singular story about Bronson Alcott at Concord the other day, told to illustrate his remarkable guilelessness of nature.

The neighbor worked very industriously clearing his vines of the beetles, which he stripped off into a tin pail and then put into a fire which he had built near by.

"My friend," said he, "I wonder how you can be so cruel as to burn those insects." "Have to do something with them," said the neighbor.

"Oh," said Alcott, "I gather them off carefully into a basket, and then, as gently as I can, throw them over the fence into your field!"

Rode Ashore on an Elephant. Years ago there was a tragic shipwreck on the Maine coast near Mount Desert. The vessel was transporting Van Amburg's caravan.

It was the menials. "I think," said a fond Texas parent, "that Tommy is going to be a poet when he grows up."

"You had better grease him all over. He is going to have the menials, and if you grease him they will break out all over him, and then he will feel better."

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR. Its peculiar efficacy is due as much to the process as to the ingredients themselves.

Nothing like it. They are advanced will prove a potent cure. No Home should be Without It.

It takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. All who lead sedentary lives will find the best preventive of indigestion, constipation, headache, biliousness, etc.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to get up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons' Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the liver to action.
