

THE DAILY CITIZEN.

The Citizen is the most extensively circu- lated and widely read newspaper in Western North Carolina.

SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1889.

EXTREMES.

Yesterday morning we saw exposed for sale in our markets Florida vegeta- bles in abundance--tomatoes and other products that come with our rather tardy midsummer.

It is truly such a country as time be- fore had never ushered in, such a condi- tion as never before opened to human ex- perience.

THE PERMANENT ARCH.

The suggestion to erect in the city of New York, at some appropriate spot, an Arch commemorative of the completion of a full, rounded and prosperous cen- tury of the national existence of the United States, has taken shape; and contributions to the undertaking are rapidly and generously being made.

The form of the memorial is a noble one. It is a Triumphal Arch, it is true; but a tribute to peace, not a tribute to strife; a tribute to human wisdom, not the incarnation of war; the triumph of reason, not the record of ambition and the mem- orial of blood and misery.

As the great scene first opened in New York, so there it is fit that it should be perpetuated. And as what was there done was done for all of us, it seems but proper that all the country should unite to make this great tribute a common one.

A PLEASING SPECTACLE.

The farmers at Birmingham with the jute trawl on its knees affords one of the most gratifying spectacles of the genera- tion. Organization is the only protec- tion for the laboring man and the farmer and when it is made universal and its councils are wise and firm they stand on equal ground with capital to demand justice.

A Pleasing Sense

Of health and strength renewed and of ease and comfort follows the use of Syrup Pils, as it acts in harmony with nature to effectually cleanse the system when costive or bilious. For sale in 50c. and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

such methods is no less than that which recognizes the economic advantage of increasing the demand for cotton by using it to cover itself, and by patroniz- ing the cotton mills within their own fields.

CONDITION OF FARMERS.

The reform club of New York is en- gaged in collecting replies from all over the country to the following questions:

- 1. Are the farmers in your community as prosperous as they have ever been? 2. If so, to what do they chiefly owe their prosperity? If not, what has been the chief reason of the change? ... 7. Do farmers' sons show less will- ingness than formerly to become farmers? If so, why?

EDITORIAL POINTS.

John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, ap- pointed yesterday by the President to be fourth auditor of the Treasury, is a ne- gro.

It is pleasant to hear that Mar- shall Wm. C. Jones, of Kansas, who was engaged in the Oklahoma land-grabbing business has been removed.

Montana is Democratic whether in spite of or because Russell Harrison operates from that territory, can not be exactly determined.

After the robbers of paymaster Wham's party are caught the government, in all probability, will proceed to investigate the question as to whether sufficient pre- cautions were taken to prevent the am- bush and robbery. The fact that eight out of eleven soldiers were wounded shows that they made all the fight they could, but that is an entirely different question from the inquiry as to precautions.

THE RUSSIAN MORALIST.

The main point of Count Tolstoi's teaching is that Christ's words are to be taken literally, especially in the three principal doctrines of poverty, control of the sensual element in human nature, and love to humanity in its strictest sense.

As to the first he writes: "I un- derstand now that he alone is above others who is humble with others and makes himself the servant of all. I un- derstand now why those who are great in the sight of men are an abomination to God, who has declared war upon the rich and mighty and invoked blessing upon the poor and humble. Now I un- derstand this truth, I have faith in it, and this faith has transformed my per- ception of what is right and important, and what is wrong and despicable. Ev- erything which once seemed to me right and important, such as hon- or, glory, civilization, wealth, the complications and refinements of ex- istence, luxury, rich food, fine clothing, etiquette, have all become for me wrong and despicable. Everything which for- merly seemed to me wrong and despicable, such as rusticity, obscurity, poverty, austerity, simplicity of surroundings, of food, of clothing, of manners, all have now become right and important to me. I can no longer give my support to any- thing that lifts me above or separates me from others. I cannot, as I once did, recognize in myself or in others titles, or ranks, or qualities aside from the title and quality of manhood. I can no longer seek for fame or glory! I can no longer cultivate a system of instruction, which separates men from men. I cannot, in my surroundings, my food, my clothing, my manners, strive for what not only separates me from others, but renders me a reproach to the majority of mankind."

The strangest and most commented on of his articles is, however, the "fourth temptation," or the non-resistance to evil, taking literally Christ's precepts about being smitten upon one cheek and turning the other. Self-defence is no justification for a resort to violence with Tolstoi, and he has declared that in case of an invasion it is Christian to the in- valued land to submit.

Miss Caudillo--No, I can't say I like your bonnet. It is too bare, it seems to me. Mrs. Malaprop--No, it isn't hand- some, is it? But my son-in-law is in Vienna and he has promised to send me some lovely Austrian feathers.
