CHICAGO AND ST. JOSEPH. M.C. .. OUR ILLUSTRATED PARTET T. WINGED FEET.

Heavily trample steeds of war, Which shake the earth with their tread; Marshaling hosts are heard afar And fill the nations with dread; But through the din are, soft and fleet. coiselessly moving winged feet.

Ruthlessly crowds surge to and fro With conflict, turnult and strife; Merrily others dome and go In all the revels of life; But here and there we chance to meet Noiselessly moving winged feet.

They may not be in stately hall With gilded trappings around; Nor yet in mansions great and tall, Where wealth and comforts abound; More oft we find in lane and street Noiselessly moving winged feet.

Quiet as comes the morning light Which brings the beautiful day; Softly as fails the shades of night Our cares to banish away; So come sometimes to lone retreat Notselessty moving winged feet. Lightly they climb the garret stair Enter the cottager's door, Bringing relief against despair, Enriching homes of the poor

Welcome these give, with Joy replete: Noiselessly moving winged feet. Charity maketh no display; No sound-of trumpet it brings; Light are its tasks, be what they may, Burdens to it are as wings; Heaven and earth conspire to greet Photographing Stars. When we place in the focus of the telescope a highly sensitive photo-graphic plate, the vibrations of the rays of light throw themselves assidu ously on the plate and steadily apply to the task of shaking asunder the molecules of silver salts in the gela tine film. Just as the waves of ocean by incessantly beating against a shore will gradually wear away the mightiest cliffs of the toughest rock, so the innumerable millions of waves of light persistently impinging upon a single point of the plate will at length effect the necessary decomposition and so engrave the image of the star. It will be obvious that this process will be the more complete the longer the After a long experience I have come to be conclusion that two-thirds of all the exposure which is permitted, and thus can give exposers of many minutes, or of one, two, three, or even four hours; and all the time the effect is being gradually accumulated. Hence it is that a star which is altogether too feeble to produce an impression upon the most acute eye fortified by a Brown's fron Bitters is a specific in all competent, when a sufficient exposases of swamp fever, intermittent fever, ure has been allowed, to leave its record on the plate. Thus it is that pho-tographs of the heavens disclose to us the existence of myriads of stars which could never have been detected except for this cumulative method of obser vation that photography is competent to give.—MacMillan's Magazine. It has often been said that the in dustrious newsboy, though shoeless and poorly clad, has in him the mak of the successful business An incident which occurred La Sallo street the other night was a potent argument in favor of this assertion. Near the corner of Washington street a big bully picked a quarrel with a small but wiry newsboy. The latter was not looking for a light, but he responded nobly to the call and was punishing the big fel-low severely, greatly to the delight of a crowd of his friends who would have gladly rushed to his assistance had he appeared to be getting any the worst of it, when up rattled the patrol wagon. Of course the officers took the wrong man, and the valiant gamin was hustled into the wagon in short order. Then it was that his business instinct asserted itself. As the wagon started off he singled his 'partner" out in the crowd of boys and yelled instructions to him as to the proper care of his route the next His faithful associate ran along with the wagon for a block or two, making a mental pote of the unfortunate friend, and the instructions given were carried out to the letter. A newsboy who thinks so much of his business and his newspaper route in the face of such a misfortune as a ride in the patrol wagon is bound to make his mark in the world sooner or later. - Chicago Herald. One cold day during the war, a fugitive slave was standing before a fire in Washington warming himself.

"Where did you come from, uncle?" asked a pro-slavery bystander. "From Culpepper, sah." "Leave your master?" "Yes, sah." "Was he bad to you?" "No, sah; very good, kind master, sah." "Gave you all you wanted to cat and wear, did he?" "Yes, sah, never wanted for nuch of anything, sah." "Well, don't you think you'd be much better off with him as a slave than grubbing around The Job Was Open. him as a slave than grubbing around Washington for yourself?" "Well, sah, the job up dah is open for any one dat wants it," responded the negro dat wants it, responded the negro calmly, and in the laugh that went up the admirer of slavery disappeared.— Chicago Mail.
