ARCADIA IN A CANYON. A Queer Colony of Vegetarians—Prosperous

The route from San Diego to the desert slope on the eastern side of the partially described in Wednesday's Sun, stopped midway at Ballena, 2,750 feet above the sea. From this point the road ascends through a narrow canyon shaded with ancient oaks, which soon open out into a great valley of surprising beauty. Turning south a side road leading to San Vicente runs down a long canyon where some interesting people, devotees of the vegeta-rian cult, have made their homes. Loans Securely Placed at 8 They, too, wandered down from Col ton, a distance of 130 miles or more nearly three years ago.

The party comprised Mr. Le Beuf, his wife, and their ward, Miss Hadley, all from St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Le Beuf pushed a large wheelbarrow be fore him tilled with their possessions, and the women notable for their short hair and bloomer dress trod cheerfully along beside him. They were seeking a location for a home on government land, and they chose it in the wildest part of the canyon. Le Beuf's health had broken down in kindergarten work at St. Louis, and for this reason they came to the coast. The invalid had found the weight of ordinary clothing intolerable, and both of the women had therefore adopted the bloomer costume, with high shoes of gray cloth buttoning up the leg instead of the usual trousers. Mr. Benf went to work clearing the land, and in a short time had stretched a circular canvas over the saplings for their dwelling, making it resemble a bee hive. Linseed oil was rubbed on the cloth to make it waterproof niture was constructed of the natural woods with their bark and mosses.

garden was planted and grain sowed.

Then Miss Hadley found a pocket in the rocks a little higher up the can yon, which pleased her, and she filed pre-emption claim to eighty acres. A canvas dome also arose on her clearing, which is now a marvel of productiveness. Miss Cook, another vegetarian, came out from Missouri to assist her. These industrious young women now have one and a half acres in grain, with not a weed on the en tire place. They make their own flour. They have sweet peas, onions, lettuce, celery, etc., with blackberry bushes and various other small fruits. They chiseled ten steps in the granite rocks leading down to a spring which breaks a fissure in the rocks. A cellar built in the bank contains some 200 bottles of a peculiar grapo cordial, which is Los Angeles has a modest girl who their only drink. It is boiled down without being sweetened, and is considered a sort of grape cure.

These resourceful people manufact nre all their own garments, including shoes. Le Beuf's garments are some what like a bathing suit.

Several years ago a man named Weidenmiller, also a vegetarian, ap peared in the eanyon, and week before last he brought Miss Hadley down to San Diego in the stage, and here they were married. Miss Cook continues to reside with them. The two men work on the ranches thereabouts as opportunity offers, while the women devote their leisure to books and the cultivation of the gardens. -San Diego

Bunaway Husbands.

Perhaps one of the saddest effects of the late war which yet remain is the great number of people who are still missing from their former homes and their old friends and relatives. For instance, I had an uncle who came home shortly after Apportatiox. He arrived about 8 o'clock one afternoon at his home in Kentucky, dismounted and kissed his wife fondly, walked about the place for an hour with her, scarcely speaking and very moody. Then mounting, remarked: "Mary, I'm going off for a little while; be good to yourself and the baby until I come back," and he has never been seen by a relative since. We have indirectly heard of him a number of times, but on going to the point where he had been seen he had, invariably, just left. We traced him to a point in Dakota, linally, where he had established quite a large sheep ranch, but a week be-fore his nephew got there uncle had sold at a great sacrifice and left. Southerners can relate hundreds of such cases from personal knowledge. There are secluded regions in the Ozark country which are inhabited only by these broken hearted men, now hermits, self isolated from society and their relatives. Their fast nesses seclude many a husband of a supposed widow, or father of children who have mourned him as dead for more than a quarter century.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cutting a Lion's Claws. At the Clifton zoological gardens a In the Callon zoological gardens a lion in the collection had for some time been tortured by a claw growing into the flesh of its left fore paw, but owing to the uncertain temper of the owing to the uncertain temper of the king of beasts it was not considered prudent for any one to try and relieve him. The only way open to the keep-ers of the maimed lion was to place it in such a position that it could not turn round and then to seize a happy moment for the extraction of the claw. This was done by inducing it to leave first one cage and then another until it was confined in one so small that it could not spring either to the right or to the left. Then, while its injured paw was protruded through the bars, the claw was promptly whipped out of the flesh, into which it had grown more than half an inch.—Philadelphia Will Steal Tobacco but Not Gold.

In the largest jewelry shops in New York, where $5,000 worth of gold is used in a day, the gold is not weighed out to the workmen, and nothing but the honesty of the employes prevents loss. But while the gold is allowed to be thus exposed, tobacco has to be locked up because it has been found that the man who would not steal a grain of his employer's gold would not hesitate to appropriate his neigh-
