COMMITMENT OF PENALTY.

A special telegram from Raleigh informed us on Thursday night that Gov. Fowle had committed the death sentence of David Bell, of Madison county, to have been executed on the 16th inst., to imprisonment for life at hard labor in the penitentiary.

It is no love of capital punishment, no gloating for the blood of a victim, that we take occasion to dissent from this special exercise of executive clemency, but because, in the law defining the nature and fixing the penalty of the crime for which Bell was convicted was right, then the occasion for his vigorous enforcement had arrived. There was an atrocity and brutality about this special act which has few parallels in such offences; there was a violation of the confidence imposed upon his honor and his manliness which stamped Bell as a man with whom no dealings could thereafter be had, a man who had wilfully and wickedly thrust himself beyond the pale of humanity, and beyond the reach of human mercy.

It is no love of capital punishment, no gloating for the blood of a victim, that we take occasion to dissent from this special exercise of executive clemency, but because, in the law defining the nature and fixing the penalty of the crime for which Bell was convicted was right, then the occasion for his vigorous enforcement had arrived.

We do not understand how or why it is that in criminal cases, after Judge, Solicitor and jury, after careful hearing and sifting of evidence and weighing of arguments, have reached the momentous conclusion of guilt, they should start back with alacrity, as it were, at what they had done, and make haste to recede and rescue the victim, as they may construe him to be, from the fate to which they had solemnly consigned him, as if they had done awful wrong. They have no right so to trifle with those grave responsibilities. If they were right in the first instance they should bravely stand to their conclusions. It is not they, as individuals, who have done it, but the sworn officers of the law; it is not their caprice nor their passion, their hate or their prejudice that solves the question of guilt or innocence.

Every one, almost, who has visited Knoxville has met Mr. Perez Dickinson, a retired merchant of wealth, and has been taken by him, or sent out by him, to his beautiful and extensive Island Farm, a visit never to be forgotten as a specimen of fine agricultural development, or as a perfect specimen of landscape farming. Remembering with pleasure such visits have given our old friend, all who know him will be pleased to hear of a piece of good fortune which has occurred to him. During the war Gen. Burdick destroyed a quantity of cotton belonging to Mr. Dickinson for the value of which subsequently he obtained a judgment before the court of claims for $80,000, for which his attorney in the case, Col. Woods, was given a draft by the treasury department, payable to Mr. Dickinson. Woods wanted as his fee one-fourth of the recovery, or $24,000, which Mr. D. refused to allow, and also refused to endorse the draft, still in Woods' hands. The draft was subsequently returned to the treasury, and Secretary Fairchild issued two new drafts, both payable to Dickinson, but gave one of $24,000 to Woods, the other to Dickinson. The latter refused to endorse either, and Woods brought suit to establish his right to a lien on the judgment, which suit was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Eventually these two drafts were also returned to the treasury, and acting Secretary Batchelor has just ordered a draft for the full amount of the claim to be issued to Mr. Dickinson, leaving the question of fees to be settled between the parties.

Dr. Parker Prays cream Van-Old, Roseline, Ongaline and Diamond nail powder having now become the ladies' favorites, at F. L. Jacob's drug store, these popular manufacture articles may always be found, together with pocket emery board, orange wood sticks, nail scissors, files and other such requisites. Also a complete line of drugs and toilet articles, in addition to the Hele Soda Fountain from which ice cold drinks are dispensed. Corner Main street and Patton avenue.

The expression "the long and the short of it" is never better understood than when man longs for money when he is short of it.

KEEPING IT UP !!

We tried to write our advertisement announcing our gift of Lawn Dresses so plainly that no one could misunderstand it. We have never meant that we would give a Lawn Dress with One-Dollar's worth of any of our goods sold, but only with a Dollar's worth of Dress goods, and we especially excepted White Goods. Our reasons were these: We are going to quit keeping all kinds of Dress Goods, except White Goods, and in order to clear them out we give these Lawns away. Lots of Ladies have availed themselves of our offer, but we have quite a pile of the Lawn yet which we shall continue to give away, while at the same time we sell the Dress Goods that go with it at cost. Our stock of White Goods, Flouncings, Lawns, India Linens, plain and dotted Swisses, Barred Muslins, and other thing goods suitable for the season is very large, and we guarantee the prices to be as low as those of anybody. Our White Goods, Embroideries, Hamburgs, Laces and Edgings are all new, fresh goods. No need to clean them after you get them, but new goods, and sold as low as others that are fly-specked and shop-worn, and in many cases lower. If people will examine before they buy we will be content. We wish we could impress upon our people the fact that our store is the place to buy their shoes. We probably have the largest stock in town outside of a regular shoe store, from a Ladies' Pebble Goat, button, that we warrant solid leather, top, bottom, inside and out, for $1.25, to a fine French Kid, and in many cases lower.
