MISCONCEPTIONS.

We quoted in yesterday's issue a potion of a letter from Asheville to a Mussachusetts journal, evidently written by a visitor whose range of view was very limited, and his sojourn too brief to admit of its enlargement. The information which was contained in the extract we published was specially obtained and per feetly reliable; what we now refer to be evidently the result of original erroneous impressions, not subsequently effaced to intelligent observation of the question treated of. The writer opens his letter with the following paragraph:

"There is a marked difference of opinion between leading democrats on how the negro shall be treated. Governor Hill, o New York, in his Atlanta speech, say that the whites should take the negro of hand and lift him up. Henry Watterson said that the blacks didn't know enough to rule and probably never would know enough. Therefore the blacks must be forever kept out of office. These are the Northern and Southern views of the case. One is liberal. The other is marrow and vengeful. In this generation narrowness of thought is having its day. And it day in regarding the race question is no

In contrasting the two views presented the one, the Northern, is certainly liberal but it is visionary and inadmissible in be proposed to be carried out to the extent of that free and equal installations office dreamed of by the writer of the letter. The other, the Southern view may be narrow; it certainly is not venge ful. If it be narrow, it is because the freed negro has fully estal lished his unit ness for the duties and responsibilities of office in its most important relation Southern experience gives ample an costly illustration of that incapacity and even though it be a narrow view, the South has no purpose to subject itself t any farther experiment. It will trust th management of its affairs to the roa which apart from fundamental ethics logical differences, has find the training of centuries to bt it but its work, rather than to that which, with its only twenty five years' experience in feedom, has only succeeded in making direks and drakes a every serious matter to which it has esaved to put its hands. It is not venge full for there is no vengeance to be viited upon the colored race; rather kindle and grateful teeling, towards the object and passing away generation at least The Southern people know the megathoroughly know hisegood analysis; and also know his deficiencies, not the least of which, if it were needed for him to to office, which necessity is not upon them his incapacity to till them up to the just standard of public requirement.

But why yengelil? Because, it that element enters into exclusion from office. the Northern States have shown more vengeful feeling than the Southern. We sell as a specimen of fine invention. have never heard that in the Northern States the negro was ever rewarded with shins, no sherifalties, no clerkships, no solicitorships, no judgeshins, no legislative or congressional rewards, nothing that and several colored men are on whatever to reward the colored voter for for naurder his preponderance, as the undentable balance of power, in giving party victory to the party to which the writer of this let-ter so unmistability belongs. The na-hanged. The jail was gnarded all his ter so unmistabably belongs. The national administration, for party pur-poses, has made some selection for office sherin is one who is inclined to have just from among the kw really competent negroes in the country. But that was an abstract consideration. We have seen that the moment President Harrison that the moment President Harrison with the moment president for the street, and they made came in contact with the negroes in the close relation of domestic service, he got fid of them at once—exto product—and purged himself of the foul association. A sport of the series as if the present ex-Southern President would have done no such thing. His estimate of the negro would have been the true one; he would have been the true one; he would have been sent down to keep the peace that have been sent down to keep the peace to get the peace of the peace of the peace of the peace to get the peace of the peace to get the peace of the peac Southern President would have done no eitement will have some serious endihave taken him as a good, true, docile. The law is a dead letter here so far as th affectionate friend; but he would never colored man is concerned. I expect that have made an officeholder of him.
