A noticeable thing about advertising of late years is the gradual increase in the truthfulness of it. People are learning that it does in year old in an advertisement any better than it does anywhere else. The theory that "a sucker's born every minute and he's just as likely to come in here as anywhere else," won't do for a permanent thing, -Royers, Peet & Co.'s Advertising Manager, New York.

ARD TO TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT

(1) NEARLY EVERYBODY exaggerates when talking about FLIES. "There are more'n a million FLIES in our kitchen." "I never did see such a sight as the FLIES have made of our new house." "I believe these FLIES will eat me up."

(2) SUCH ENPRESSIONS are common everywhere. But of course they are not exactly true. And then the FLIES are really useful as scavengers indoors, just as buzzards are outdoors.

(2) NEVERTHELESS clean, neat housewives won't tolerate them—the FLHES. Hence wire screens. And, hence again, this advertisement.

4) E. T. HURROWES & CO. make the best wire screens. Being the best, they cost more than poor ones. But they are worth all they cost. Try them. You don't have to pay for them until you have tested them a position to it. He opposed it, he said, month. They's blue to pay for them until you have tested them a

that the committee will take occasion to inform the senate and the country whether or not the language used by the senator was parliamentary, and what language may be used by senators in relation to each other, whether in attack or in defence. The senator used language about me which I did not hear. He wrote language in the report accusing me of all the crimes in the decalogue, and he has now, this morning, charged me he has now, this morning, charged me with being a coward for not replying to that which I did not hear, and to that which he afterwards wrote in the Record which he afterwards wrote in the Record report. When the senate has decided on what language is parliamentary to use, I will take occasion to defend myself from all imputations of the senator from Blorida. Mr. Hawley-I suppose that the matter should go promptly to the committee on privileges and elections, and that it is hardly proper to continue the discussion of it. But the remarks made a few mintempt me to say that however much he may reproach the senator from Florida tempt me to say that however much he may reproach the senator from New Hampshire for not having responded to his bitter and personal onslaught, I, with most of the senators on this side, would have protested in language as indignant, as if it was directed against them, against that gross violation of parliamentary law, which he says he committed the other day and which I say he did not. Mr. Harris contended that the resolu-

The question was taken on Mr. Sherman's motion to refer the resolution to the committee on privileges and elections,

The Evans ville and Terre Haute bridge was carried away before the train went down by a county road bridge, and the Indianapolis and Vincennes bridge washed down against it. The engine and baggage car fell into the creek, and the engineer and fireman are supposed to be under the engine, which is a total wreek. Conduc-tor Cooley was slightly injured. The ladies coach and the sleeper fell on in a resolution which is now before the senate, and which I am willing to have referred to the committee on privileges and elections, what the conduct of the senator from Florida has been. I have recited the words which he used, and the alterations which he made in the official report. The facts are stated in the preamble. The facts are true. The complaint which I made was that the senator had inserted in his remarks words which he had not uttered. I did not complain in the resolution of the language which he did utter as being unparliamentary. But at 11.36 for August, the market became dorsease, and the call ring was almost deserted. Little selling was done by longs who wished to unload, and buying by those who do not like the position of the spot market, and are unwilling to remain short over night.
