A GOOD, BUT NOT NEW, SUGGESTION.

The Wilmington Messenger commends as a wise, and also a new idea, that a convention composed exclusively of Northern citizens residing in the South be held at some suitable point for such assemblage. The same suggestion with the view to the good to arise from such gathering was made by THE CITIZEN not very long ago with the declaration at the time that such a convention was not a new thing; for a convention was held in Knoxville, Tenn., some time in 1886, called and managed exclusively by Northern settlers, though attended, by invitation, by representative Southern men to evince the cordial blending and hearty co-operation of the two peoples. In the same year a similar convention was held in Raleigh, composed of Northern visitors and Northern settlers; and also by many Southern invited guests; and the gratification at the illustrations given of mutual good feeling and of the prosperous condition of the Northern settlers was very pronounced. It is possible only temporary general good grew out of these meetings; for the members of the conventions returned to their several homes without any formal declaration of their experience. This was unfortunate, for it still left the field open to the enemies of the South who persisted in their plan of calumny and misrepresentation, and left the question as to the social and industrial relations of the Northern people among us still an open one.

What the News and Courier says is true: "We have observed that the right kind of Northern men make the best kind of Southerners." Not only from interest but from sympathies they are identified with us, and the longer they dwell with us, and the more "the right kind" come among us, the stronger becomes the bond of intersectional union and the more remote the occasion for crimination and misrepresentation. But not only is the quiet exercise in their new homes all of the rights, privileges, immunities, profits and pleasures of their new homes a part of the lesson which has taught our Northern friends to overcome distrust and prejudice, but it is their duty to let the outside world know the real facts of their experience. The very fact that they remain with us, that their numbers increase, that they prosper, that they feel at home, is emphatic contutation of the stereotyped allegations to the contrary.

Now let another convention be called composed exclusively of Northern men residing in the South; and let them prepare and issue an address to the people of the United States, setting forth the actual condition, not only of the South, but of their relations to the South and its people. Signed, as it ought to be, by names well known at the North, we have no question that much of misunderstanding will be cleared up, and much, if not all, of the capital of the political agitator become profitless.

The idea advanced by one of our State exchanges to boycott the products of the North, while founded upon the principles of achieving State industrial independence, is not only premature in suggestion, but would be unwise in practice. A community of peoples not yet ready to provide themselves with what use and habits have made indispensable not only to luxury but to comforts and necessities is in no condition to assert industrial independence, and in no temper to practice a sentimental depriving themselves of that which a practical boycott would deny them. It is hitting off the nose to spite the face. Nor is there economical wisdom in the exclusion of the commodities of other sections. The happiness, the comforts and the prosperity of countries depend upon mutual interchanges of natural products and the works of manufacture; and mutual interest promotes good will and kindly feeling. The erection of a Chinese wall as a barrier to intercourse and interchange is only allowable in a state of existing hostilities or as a remedy for commercial oppression. Exactly the reverse conditions exist, or at least are desirable and to be cultivated between the North and the South.

The aim of the suggestion is to force the South to industrial independence and compel it to use its resources of energy and skill to provide itself with all its needs. But to bring this about by enforced boycott will be hostile to healthy public sentiment. It will be regarded as the visionary dream of enthusiasts who overlook probabilities or possibilities. Steps towards industrial independence cannot be forced. They must follow the course of gradual natural development, and we have good reason to be encouraged by the progress of this development. All that is required of us is to improve our opportunities; and then it will be the proper patriotic course of our people to give the preference, all things being equal, to what is produced at home. Let us abandon the idea of the boycott; but let us emulate the Northern people in their industry, their sagacity and their skill. One difference between us and them is that we fail in industry to turn to account what is around and before us. We have recently seen two notable instances where great value has been found in two articles, one until now held to be absolutely worthless, the other of only limited local use. While in New Bern we saw matting recently made from a green waxy rush which grows thickly along our whole coast in the salt marshes in exhaustless quantities, and until lately without the least possible value attached to it. A Newbern gentleman recently gathered a quantity of it, out of curiosity, and sent it to a Northern manufacturer to test its value. It was recently returned transformed into the most beautiful matting we ever saw; and with an order for all that could be furnished with the offer of $20 a ton. Here is a new profitable industry created out of a hitherto unvalued article.

Another instance was presented to us at Fayetteville. The white cedar or juniper abounds in that vicinity. It has been used time out of mind locally to make pails, &c., but had not been the subject of manufacture. Now a large establishment, run by steam, with appropriate machinery, converts the juniper, which is furnished by the country people around, giving them a market to the extent of $20,000 annually, into buckets, churns, measures and similar utensils of such admirable quality as to have found a ready market all over the country to such extent that the demand exceeds the supply, compelling a doubling of capital and great increase of facilities for manufacture.

Here are two new industries, with the multiplication of these the State will acquire the industrial equality without the use of the boycott which is offensive, unpracticable, or if practicable, detrimental.

THE DIRECTORS MEET.

What Was Done at Morganton for Insane Patients.

Mr. James P. Sawyer returned yesterday from Morganton where he has been to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Western North Carolina Insane Asylum.

Mr. J. W. Wilson was re-elected chairman of the board. The present executive committee, viz: Maj. Wilson and Messrs. I. I. Davis and J. G. Hall was re-elected. There were further re-elections as follows: Dr. W. P. Ivey, assistant physician; Mr. F. M. Scroggs, steward; Mrs. C. A. Marsh, matron; Mr. Jno. A. Dickson, clerk of the board. There are 484 patients in the institution. These are being supported at a per capita expense of $187.50 per year, and a macadamized road is being built from the Morganton depot to the asylum, other improvements are being made and all necessary repairs kept up without exceeding the appropriation. This great charity is being conducted economically and with the utmost efficiency, and in all respects in a manner worthy of the people whose benevolence supports it.

He Must Lose Both Eyes.

Mr. W. E. Halliburton, of this city, who was very badly hurt by a dynamite explosion on the Knoxville and Cumberland Gap railroad some time ago, returned to the city last night from Atlanta. He went to that place a few days ago, accompanied by his wife, to have an examination made of his eyes. He hoped to be able to save one at least. On the completion of the examination the physician informed him that nothing could be done for them, and he would be compelled to lose the sight of both.

The Wagon Ran Over Him.

Charley Bailey, who meets all trains in the capacity of porter for the Grand Central hotel, met with a painful but not serious accident yesterday. While on his way to the depot in a one-horse wagon, a bolt connecting one side of the shafts to the axle came out. Charley, who weighs about 300 pounds, attempted to jump to the ground but lost his footing and fell under the wheels. The wagon was not very heavy and only inflicted slight injuries on his head and breast.

A Compound Fracture.

Capt. Lee Wynne, formerly a conductor on the W. N. C. R. R., had both bones of his leg broken on Monday. He was riding on an engine on the K. C. G. and E. road near Knoxville, when the engine jumped the track, breaking Mr. Wynne's leg and scalding him very badly. Dr. Williams of this city was telegraphed for, and attended to the injuries. The doctor says that there is a chance for saving the limb, and his patient is doing very well.

An Author Dead.

Mr. W. Cotten Downing, an author of some note, died suddenly at the Glen Rock hotel last night of heart disease. Mr. Downing has been here for some time and intended to locate here permanently. His body will be taken to his former home in Pennsylvania.

Hendersonville Notes.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., March 6.

Editor Citizen:—Engineer Ramsey, with a corps of assistants, started yesterday from this place to make a preliminary survey of our new railroad to Edgewood. Another engineer is over in the Mills river section, making investigations and obtaining rights of way.

A large lot of pipe for the water works has been unloaded from the cars and can now be seen at the depot. The ditch for these pipes has been cut to Mr. H. G. Ewart's mill, near the inhabited portion of the town.

The members of the Baptist church here have given their pastor, Rev. John Mitchell, D. D., leave of absence for a month. He starts to-day for the mild climate of Florida, and it is earnestly hoped that his old enemy, rheumatism, may leave him there, never to trouble him again.

HENDERSONVILLE.

Railway Accident in England.

LONDON, March 6.—As the night express train from London to Scotland was entering Carlisle last night, the engineer could not stop the train with the brakes owing to the slippery condition of the tracks. The train shot by the platform of the station and dashed with terrific force into an engine that was coming toward the platform on the same track. The engine of the express train remained on the track and drove the other engine a long distance down the line. The first two carriages attached to the express train were telescoped and four of their occupants were killed.

Masonic Meeting.

A special communication of Asheville Lodge, 410 A. F. & A. M., will be held this Friday, evening at 7.30. Brethren of the fraternity are cordially invited.

J. A. CONANT, Secretary.

THE OLD NORTH STATE.

The worst of it is about the fair. Since this thing has occurred Chicago of course will want to make The Bog the National bird.

Charlotte has three Presbyterian societies.

Elkin is to rejoice in a new cotton factory.

New Bern talks of organizing a baseball club.

Monroe is wrestling with a man's size case of measles.

Hickory has a bran new building and loan association.

Governor Powle was fifty-nine years old on Monday last.

Jesse Brown will be executed at Craven on April 4, for the crime of murder.

The business done by the Golden Belt bag factory will amount to $100,000 every year.

James W. Tommy, the oldest citizen of Lincoln county, died Tuesday at the ripe old age of 106.

A party of fifteen people left New Bern this week for Texas. They will settle in Waco.

Winston is going to make its own ice and will soon have a factory with a capacity of ten tons a day.

The will of the late E. J. Lilly, of Fayetteville, leaves $5,000 to the Hay street Methodist church of that place.

Farmers on the east central part of the State are jubilant over the fact that the oat plant lice are rapidly disappearing.

The Yadkin river will be tenderly remembered by the fish commissioner next year with a large number of yearling trout.

A negro of Chatham county is said to be so fleet of foot that he can run down a rabbit, and frequently does it for amusement.

The Eureka gold mine, near Thomasville, has proven itself to be not a gold mine in name only. It recently sold for $115,000.

A stable and ten horses belonging to R. J. Southerland, of Raleigh, were destroyed by fire. The loss will not fall below $10,000.

Four year old Willie Pharr, of Mooreville, got too near the fire while his mother was out of the room, and he was burned to death.

H. A. Foote, jr., editor of the Carthage Blade, has gone and done it. On Wednesday he was married to Miss Dannie Ferguson, of Sanford.

The Sanford Express says that the butter sold in the local market is no more than chemicals with the yolk of an egg added "to give it cast."

James Riley, of Charlotte, celebrated the anniversary of Harrison's inauguration by feeding his left arm to a cog wheel in a cotton factory.

The dog poisoner is abroad at New Bern, and two valuable St. Bernards have closed their earthly career through his instrumentality.

Jane Moore, mother of Lige Moore, the negro who was recently executed at Greensboro, has just received a pension for $3,000. Her husband was in the Federal army.

Norris & Carter, a big dry goods firm of Raleigh, has assigned. The assets are not overwhelmingly large, while the liabilities will touch the snug figure of $75,000.

Senator Reburn, of Pennsylvania, has purchased Durant's Island in Dare county, and it will be occupied by a shooting club. The island is six and one half miles square.

The Rev. T. W. Bobb, of the Chowan Baptist association, has been asked to step down and out. The reason for this proceeding is said to be the reverend gentleman's fondness for the flowing bowl.

Winston made a handsome thing out of its police force last year. The fines collected amounted to $5,000, and the cost for the maintenance of the law was $3,200. The difference in favor of the city is $1,800.

The truck farmers of Goldsboro are wearing long faces since the recent cold spell. They claim that much of the garden stuff has been injured so that it will be of no use and it is too late in the season to plant again.

The rumor that the Jamesville and Washington railroad had been absorbed by the Wilmington and Weldon is without foundation. The road is being improved, and there is a strong probability that it will soon change hands.

Henry Fogerty left a barroom in Catawba county on Saturday night and a most comfortable jug accompanied him. The night was cold and his lifeless body was found by the roadside on Sunday morning. He had been frozen to death.

A prisoner found guilty at the recent term of the Yadkin county court of disturbing a religious meeting, was evidently in the habit of carrying his nerve along with him. His latest crime was walking up the aisle during the services and offering the minister a drink of whiskey.

The Cabarrus county Farmers' Alliance has adopted the following: Resolved, that the members of this alliance will not buy goods from agents passing through the county, or offering goods otherwise to the people unless the goods so offered are recommended by our county business agent.

The coupling broke on a freight train a few miles east of Charlotte on Tuesday evening. It had twenty-five cars, and when they struck a down grade the detached section came a whooping. The result was that thirteen cars were completely demolished and a negro brakeman hurled against a telegraph pole. Both sustained slight injuries.

The Danville Register recently offered a prize of $10 in gold to the woman who would write the best letter on "how to make good husbands." The paper stipulated only that the communications were to contain no more than 100 words.

Mrs. A. M. Allen, of Danville, owns that $10 now and her effort contained to a word the number specified.
