THE DELEGATES to the Pan-American Congress will start on their projected Southern tour on the 18th inst., and will return to Washington on May 10. It will be a hurried trip, and there will be little time granted to gain more than a very superficial view of the South. They will pass through North Carolina, going South, in the night, going over the Wilmington and Weldon road; and on their return the nearest point at which they will approach us will be Chattanooga. So Asheville will lose its opportunity of becoming known to the people of Mexico and the Southern and Central American republics.

WE REGRET very much to learn that our Congressman Cowles has lost a son by the accidental discharge of a pistol. He was a cadet at a military school at Oxford, was about 18 years old, and a lad of much promise. This is similar in its poignancy to the melancholy end of the son of Judge Avery some months ago. In both cases the hopes as well as the affections of the parents were centered upon sons who might sanguinely be expected to sustain the honors of the family; and in both cases the State may claim a share in the loss, because the calamity cut short the career of those who might have worthily honored it.

THE DAILY CITIZEN.

LEADING NEGROES in Raleigh have started a newspaper under the charge of John H. Williamson as editor. The editor says: "The time has come when the negro shall act more for himself and not allow himself to be shuffled and bartered by carpet baggers and negro haters, as in the past. As we have been liberated from our old masters, we now wish to be liberated from Boas Manning, 'negro saviour' Russell, Shaeffer, and the whole crew. The editor of this paper has a thousand times more respect for Governor Fowle, Governor Jarvis, ex-Governor Seales, Senator Vance and Senator Ransom than either of them." One class has promised everything and done nothing for those they hold in political slavery; the other has promised nothing in the way of rewards and offices, but has done everything to advance the material interests of the negro, and to secure him the benefits of education, and in all things have manifested genuine interest and sympathy in a race dependent upon sincere interest and sympathy for its well being and advancement. The eyes of the negro have been a long time sealed to facts. It is strange that men so intelligent as John Williamson, James H. Harris, Stewart Ellison and other leaders at Raleigh should have been so long blind to the deception practiced upon them. They have been deluded by hopes and promises which they are now convinced were deceptive.

We are glad to see the movement, not for party advantage, for we do not propose to count, more than we have in the past, upon the negro vote. But taken given that the negro is beginning to think for himself, that he approaches the proper conception of his relation to citizenship, not as a banded, distinct race element, blindly hostile to one party, as a blindly submissive to another, but as an American citizen, which the law now recognizes him to be, with the same obligation resting upon him to acquaint himself with the nature of the public question submitted to his judgment, and decide through the workings of his own intelligence. And heretofore the race has been voted in solid body in unquestioning obedience to party direction.

TOURER who never wears in his perversion of Southern men and matters sometimes unwittingly tells what is true, as for instance, when he says: "The trouble with all legislation affecting the South since the war has been that it is based on sentiment rather than a knowledge of conditions." There has never been a candid or intelligent effort made to acquire these conditions. It suits the purpose of legislation to assume an attitude of hostility to the Southern whites towards the negroes; an attitude of sullen hostility upon the part of the negroes towards the whites; injustice and oppression by the one, suffering and prostration on the part of the other. And it has been ignorantly and sentimentally assumed that race difference penetrate no further than the depth of the skin, and that color was an efficacious boundary line when once the badge of slavery was torn off; that the negro would do as the white man would have done, and would rise at once to the moral and social condition to which nature was assumed to have assigned him; and not having yet done so, artificial and unjust repression must have been applied to prevent it. The Southern people, the white and the black, understand each other mutually. It is only when there is application of political stimulus from without interposed, that dissatisfaction is aroused, the whites indignant to justice, the negroes to contentment. The one denies nothing that is right and just; the other asks nothing that is unreasonable, and is often ready to rebuke injudicious advocates, as they did in the case of the Kansas man Kelly the other day, a congressman, who addressed a colored assemblage and vehemently urged upon it the extreme measures of social equality, mixed schools, &c. He was promptly made to understand by his more sensible audience that he did not know what he was talking about, and that his sentiments were offensive in the highest degree.

The petition sent from Free republicans to President Harrison asking that the name of J. B. Ives be withdrawn, until a further petition asking for the appointment of another man can be forwarded, has borne fruit.

A private letter was received in this city this morning. It was signed by Private Secretary Harford and stated that the document had been received and would be heeded. The signers are jubilant and will at once begin work on the second which will be sent on to Washington as soon as possible.

Married at Charlotte.

Mr. J. S. Bixby, manager of the Asheville Telephone Exchange, and Miss Florence Jamison, of Charlotte, were married yesterday at noon in Charlotte. The couple arrived here last night, and will live for the present on Cherry street. Mr. Bixby has made many friends here during his stay of less than a year, who will extend to him their congratulations. A reception was given them last night at Mrs. McConnell's, on Cherry street, and a large number of friends of the groom were present.

The Board of Aldermen hold their regular weekly meeting in the city hall tonight.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

THE FINE SHOWING OF THE LOCAL POSTOFFICE.

LAST QUARTER THE BEST IN ITS HISTORY.

An Idea of the Vast Amount of Work Done There—Another Clerk is Needed.

Asheville's postoffice is booming along in a decidedly happy manner. For the quarter just closed the receipts from stamps and stamp envelopes and box rents amounted to $4,645.99. This exceeds the receipts of any other quarter since the postoffice was established by nearly $1,000.

Postmaster Cannon has no record farther back than December 31, 1888. For the quarter ending then the receipts were $3,351.09; at March 31, 1889, they were $3,573.51; for June 30 they were $3,374.44; for September 30 they were $3,756.70; for December 31, or the quarter before last, they were $3,863.32. The exact increase over the other largest quarter in the history, or of the quarter ending December 31, 1889, is $781.38.

During these three months 157,372 pieces were handled by the carriers. In January the number was 42,170; in February 49,534 and in March 65,673. This shows a marked increase for each month of the three, and it is only about one-third of the amount of mail handled at the office. And all of this is done by a working force entirely too small for the present needs. Other offices that do less business than Asheville have a larger corps of assistants.

Mr. Cannon is at present laboring under difficulties and has taken steps to remedy the evil, although, as he says, it cannot be hoped for at least three months.

"Our working force," he said yesterday, "now consists of four clerks in the office and five carriers. The office force is not as large as it should be, but the appropriation for clerks for this fiscal year, which closes July 1, has already been made, and is not sufficient to justify employing another clerk. Although the work has been gradually increasing for several years, the same force is now at work, with the exception of the carriers, that we had four years ago. I hope to have another clerk on or before the first of July. The mail matter handled now is about 60 per cent. greater than when I took charge of the office in January, 1889."

BYRON CITY BOOMING.

The Little Town Moving Bravely to the Front.

Editor Citizen:—We are quietly moving up. In the matter of sure and steady improvement we will compare with any little town on the Murphy Division. Twelve months ago our population would not have exceeded two hundred. Now it will number upward of three hundred and fifty. There were only six mercantile establishments, now the number are ten. Then there was one manufacturing establishment, now there are four. Now we have a first class hotel, a grade newspaper and an excellent literary school, fifteen months ago we had neither. We have a substantial and commodious railroad depot, a good agent and telegraph operator, an elegant Methodist church, one for the Baptists in course of construction and a modest brick academy, a fine school for religious and literary exercises. There are at present more than a dozen private residences, business houses and offices proposed, and most of them in progress of erection.

The administrators of the Bryson estate have recently concluded a survey for the further sale of lots, and we have new hopes for continued building.

The man who passes through Bryson City and wonders where there is room to build has only to stop and investigate. Leaving the valley to the west on a slightly elevated plateau, commanding magnificent views, we have any amount of space. We have native, progressive and prosperous citizens' hurrying to and fro, with a foreign element who represent to an extent the two best requisites for the successful building of any town, capital and energy. Combined with these we have a class of strong armed farmers, surrounding all to sustain us; we have our forests filled with valuable timbers in arms-reach, a rich and inexhaustible mountain range in easy access. There is no reason for adverse feeling and we are hopeful.

It Has Borne Fruit.

NORTH CAROLINA NOTES.

Raleigh's street sprinkler is doing business.

The track is being laid for Winston's new street railway.

Salem's streets are to be illuminated by thirty-two arc lights.

A vault is being built in the cemetery at Concord to cost $5,000.

Elizabeth City is to have a number of new oyster packing houses.

Congressman Henderson, of Salisbury, has recently become a happy papa.

Greensboro's streets are to be marked and the houses properly numbered.

The Tyson & Jones buggy company at Carthage last year cleared 15 per cent.

Mr. E. G. Gambrell has been elected superintendent of the Raleigh cotton factory.

Ex-President Cleveland has been invited to attend Charlotte's celebration on May 20.

Mr. Charlton Pope died near Scotland Neck of typhoid fever. His illness was very brief.

Col. David Settle, of Greensboro, announces that he is in the race for congressional honors.

Seven hundred and fifty-eight thousand pounds of tobacco were shipped from Winston in March.

Eighty-four sub-alliances have been organized in the State since the first of January—about one a day.

One thousand five hundred has been contributed for the coming musical festival at Charlotte in June.

Sam Christian's gold mine, at Montgomery, has suspended and a number of workmen are out of a job.

The Charlotte board of aldermen have ordered a vote on the issue of $75,000 in bonds for street improvements.

James Sheffield, a brave member of the Third North Carolina regiment, is under the weather and in St. Peter's hospital at Charlotte.

Dr. Alex McDonald died at his home near Sandford of the grip. He was 75 years old and a ruling elder in Eu phraiah church.

A number of young men in Charlotte have formed a society, all the members of which bind themselves to pay cash for everything they buy.

Seventy-five negroes from Halifax county went to Pittsburg, Penn., to work in the coal mines. They are to be paid from $1 to $1.50 per day.

Rev. W. R. Gwaltney, pastor of the Baptist church in Greensboro, has gone down to Kuffin to assist in organizing a church there of that denomination.

Daniel Stinson, one of the leading sawmill men in the State, died yesterday at Newberne, his home. He was a native of Maine and was sixty-seven years old.

There are over 1,300 convicts in the State of North Carolina, but only 19 are in the penitentiary. There are 56 male convicts and 35 are doing a life term.

Scotland Neck reports that some farmers who have lost their hands by the labor agents have resolved to hire white labor, as there is no dependence to be put in contracts made by the colored men.

David W. Cowley, son of Congressman W. H. H. Cowley, accidentally shot and killed himself at Horner school in Oxford. The unfortunate man was 18 years old and very popular. The remains were taken to Wilkesboro.

Three of the revenue officers who were engaged in the killing of the negro McManer near Hillsboro last winter, have been discharged. The judge held that they did no more than their duty. The verdict gives general dissatisfaction.

J. R. Edwards, a white man, fatally stabbed a negro named James Orr in Sharon township, Mecklenburg county. Orr was abusing a child and Edwards took the latter's part with the above result.

The Charlotte Female Institute is preparing to make a handsome exhibit of drawings and paintings at the Southern educational exposition during the session of the teacher's assembly at Morehead City, June 17.

It is reported that Julian S. Carr, one of the stockholders of the Atlantic hotel, of Morehead, N. C., will donate $20,000 to the State, provided that the permanent encampment of the State guards be moved to that place.

The executive committee of the State agricultural and mechanical college have decided to begin work at once on a handsome and spacious building for the mechanical department. The professor of mathematics will have charge of the construction and the scholars will do much of the work.

The recent death of old man Billy Whitley, of Stanley county, at the age of 117 years, has directed public attention to old men, and the Chatham Record produces Mr. Chas. Cox, of that county, who is 104, never wore glasses, goes fishing and can still call hogs so as to be heard three miles.

A Raleigh dispatch says that there is very little talk so far this year about locating a town, though there will probably be voting on that question in some towns, townships and counties. There is a gradual extension of the districts in which the sale of liquor is not permitted, and for ten years this extension has been in progress.

The fund for the erection of a monument to the memory of the singers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence still grows at Charlotte. Dr. George W. Graham contributed $100 to the News fund. That makes the News subscription to date tot up $1,100. To this, $850 from the old fund is to be added.

A plan is on foot for the removal of the county almshouse and workhouse from a point six miles in the country to Raleigh. It is proposed to purchase from the State Camp Russell as a site, and on it erect suitable buildings of a substantial character, and to also remove the jail to the same site. The county convicts are under the new law sentenced to work on the public roads, and Raleigh is the centre of the system of roads.

At a meeting of the general committee of St. Peter's Episcopal church at Charlotte to consider matters relating to the building of the new church, the subcommittee was instructed to at once proceed and get the work under way. It is proposed to begin work on May 1. The church will be of North Carolina brown stone and pressed brick, and will be an exceedingly handsome building, costing $15,000.
