THE DAILY CITIZEN. PRESIDENT DIAZ of Mexico declares in his message that the republic is flourishing financially. The republic to the north of her is glad to hear it, and extends hearty congratulations.

THE TORNADO of March 27, 1890, will be remembered as one that carried death and ruin to four States. The destructive blizzard at New York in 1888 occurred also in March, on the 12th of the month.

OUR FLEET in Behring sea have captured another British schooner engaged in stealing seals. The British schooner had broken her rudder and could not get out of the way, and that was how it happened.

WHEN GRANT was President it was considered remarkable that the public debt could be paid at the rate of a million a month. Now it is diminished at an average of more than a million a week, and nothing is thought of it.

THE CORONER'S JURY IN THE CASE TO-DAY. A Number of Witnesses Sworn and Tom Harris Discharged From Custody—Leah Bound Over to Court.

The coroner's jury in the Harriet Williams murder case met in the court house this morning to hear the remainder of the testimony. The room was crowded. A few minutes before it was opened the two prisoners, Leah Foreman and Tom Harris, entered the court accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Jones.

The citizens of Durham have nominated M. A. Angier to run for mayor on the citizen's ticket. The Second Presbyterian church of Charlotte is talking of building a new house of worship.

John Agner, a one-armed ex-Confederate, who had called court at Salisbury for eight or ten years, is dead. A Reidsville drug firm offers a valuable souvenir to the most popular young lady and gentleman of that city.

Mrs. Sarah Chamberlain, of Greensboro, took a large dose of fluid extract of nux vomica by mistake for a tonic remedy and died in a short time. The weavers in the cotton mills at Lexington struck for higher wages.

Wakefield W. Price, an eighteen-year-old lad of Charlotte, died of meningitis and the physicians said they could have cured him if he had not smoked cigarettes. A stratum of coal has been discovered near Wilmington on the farm of W. N. Whitted.

Mr. Jonathan Edgerton, of Pikeville, lost his barn and stables, about one hundred feet of shelter, five carts, one wagon, one buggy, a large lot of hay and all his farming implements by fire. The Winston Republican says a county convict camp will be established on the Wilkesboro extension, near the village of Old Town, for the purpose of opening and working a stone quarry.

The latest from Rocky Mount is that Sylvia Drake could not get a bond for postmaster, and that Lee Person, also colored, had been appointed. It is said that his bond was made up in Washington City. Edward N. Butler was shot from ambush near Clinton and will die. He made a dying declaration, implicating a young man of that place, who is known as a desperate character.

Captain John W. Hill, of the schooner P. Cora, was drowned in Pamlico Sound. He was lowering the anchor when his feet caught in the buoy rope and he was dragged overboard. No help was near at the time. Four convicts overpowered their guard near Madison, relieved him of his gun and $73 and escaped. They have been seen once since. All of them were wearing citizen's clothing. They have not been captured.

Cards are out for the marriage of Mr. Henry L. Cook, a prominent young lawyer of Fayetteville, to Miss Minnie Hill Watson, daughter of Mr. Walter Watson, Wednesday, April 23. The ceremony will take place in Hay Street M. E. church, at Fayetteville at 8 p. m. Dan Overby and a companion named Smith filled up on Burlington whiskey and started for home. Near the Haw river Overby fell from the wagon and broke his neck. Smith was too drunk to appreciate the situation and the body was not found until the next day.

Near Rural Hall, on the Winston-Wilkesboro railroad, last Wednesday, the horses attached to the wagon of Tandy Harris got frightened at the train and ran away. Harris was thrown out and caught between the brake lever and the hind wheel and received injuries from which he died. A large party of completely masked men rode up to the jail in Roxboro, knocked at the sheriff's door, and when he opened it rushed in and compelled him to surrender the keys. They then went to a cell in which the deputy revenue collector had placed a quantity of illicit whiskey for safe keeping. After they had recaptured his they shook hands with the sheriff, loaded the shoo on a wagon and forming in regular marching order left town as quietly as they entered it.

At 3.30 o'clock the jury decided the evidence sufficient to bind the Foreman woman over to the next term of the criminal court. No formal verdict was agreed upon.

BLOOD ON HER SKIRT. EVIDENCE AGAINST LEAH FOREMAN DAMAGING.

Leah Foreman was called. She had seen Leah on the night of the murder going past her home on Old Depot street and toward the place where the murder was committed. When Leah passed the house she asked her to come in but the reply was she had no time. When asked where she was going the accused woman replied that she was going to the devil and that if she was not seen any more the witness might know she was in h—l.

Anna Miller also saw Leah on the Saturday night. She asked her why she did not come and see her and the reply was that she didn't have time. Then Leah replied apparently without cause that she was going to kill somebody or somebody was going to kill her. The witness passed on.

Ida Hausten and Mary Benson were called. The latter swore that Leah had been at her house every night for a long time except the night of the murder. Barry Park told the story of the finding of the body, and of seeing Leah the night before near the old depot.

Jennie Williams, the sister of the accused, swore that the accused woman drank and that she lived with Harris without being married. She had seen the bloody skirt but could not identify the one in court. She swore that that was not the one. She had not seen Leah faint at the house. Knew that she did not faint. The witness testified that Leah had once threatened to kill her and that she was afraid of her. Her sister fainted at the grave.

She testified that she would not be a gainer in property in the event of her sister's hanging and left the chair, having materially weakened Leah's case. When Deputy Sheriff Jones' name was called there was a stir in the court room. He has had charge of the case and some startling testimony was expected. Mr. Jones told the story of the case as he had worked it up and of the arrest of Tom Harris and Leah Foreman. The latter had told him two stories of her whereabouts on that night and had also denied the statements credited to her by the Bailey and Miller women.

At the conclusion of his testimony Tom Harris was discharged from custody. There was no evidence against him, and the case was given to the jury. During the trial Leah Foreman's foot was measured and proved that it would exactly fit some tracks made in a corn field on the night of the murder. Mr. Hardwick represented Harris. It was through his advice that the prisoner refused to talk when seen a few days ago. He has stoutly maintained his innocence from the start and there can be no doubt of it. Locke Craig represented the solicitor. Leah Foreman had no attorney.

At 3.30 o'clock the jury decided the evidence sufficient to bind the Foreman woman over to the next term of the criminal court. No formal verdict was agreed upon.

Goldsboro has $5,000 in the public treasury and is out of debt. Lumberton claims to be on the eve of a substantial business boom. Martin & Joyce's store at Ayersville was broken into and $60 taken. A postoffice is to be established at Island Beach hotel near Wilmington. The Fayetteville Observer is 65 years old. Eleven Raleigh boys played cards on Sunday, were caught at it and fined $10 each. A cat fish was found in a trap near Burlington that had no eyes or signs of them.

Col. Fred Stitt says he is a candidate for congress to succeed Hon. J. S. Henderson. The citizens of Durham have nominated M. A. Angier to run for mayor on the citizen's ticket. The Second Presbyterian church of Charlotte is talking of building a new house of worship.

The Farmers' Alliance at Asheboro decided to buy the Traganal land property and build a depot. Col. W. H. S. Burgwyn, of Henderson, will deliver the commencement address at the University this year. Hon. J. C. Buxton, of Winston, says the Fifth district is solid for a democratic congressman in the house.

John Agner, a one-armed ex-Confederate, who had called court at Salisbury for eight or ten years, is dead. A Reidsville drug firm offers a valuable souvenir to the most popular young lady and gentleman of that city. Kinston wants both a male and a female college and the citizens are talking of starting them on their own hook.

Whent in the vicinity of Forest City is looking much better than formerly and prospects for a fine crop are exceedingly bright. The Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad's completion caused all Wilmington to turn out and celebrate the event in grand style. Monroe Johnston, a colored convict, escaped from the county chain gang on the Beattie Ford near Charlotte. He has not been recaptured.

D. J. T. G. Mittag, who is designated by the Charlotte Chronicle as a scholar and philosopher, and who until recently lived in that city, is dead. Mrs. Sarah Chamberlain, of Greensboro, took a large dose of fluid extract of nux vomica by mistake for a tonic remedy and died in a short time.

The weavers in the cotton mills at Lexington struck for higher wages. The proprietors refused and after lying idle one day the strikers returned to work. The silence was rudely broken by the fire alarm at Durham a few nights since and before the companies could respond Charles E. Crabtree's house was burned. Wakefield W. Price, an eighteen-year-old lad of Charlotte, died of meningitis and the physicians said they could have cured him if he had not smoked cigarettes.

A stratum of coal has been discovered near Wilmington on the farm of W. N. Whitted. It is said to be valuable and its proximity to the seaport will make it more so. Captain George N. Waite, a popular conductor on the Richmond and Danville has connected himself with the Atlantic and Danville. Mr. Charles Manly, a Raleigh man, succeeds him.

Mr. Jonathan Edgerton, of Pikeville, lost his barn and stables, about one hundred feet of shelter, five carts, one wagon, one buggy, a large lot of hay and all his farming implements by fire. The Winston Republican says a county convict camp will be established on the Wilkesboro extension, near the village of Old Town, for the purpose of opening and working a stone quarry.

A special train of nine cars passed through Goldsboro recently from Florida. It had on board the force of waiters from the Ponce de Leon hotel, of Jacksonville, on their way home to spend the summer. The latest from Rocky Mount is that Sylvia Drake could not get a bond for postmaster, and that Lee Person, also colored, had been appointed. It is said that his bond was made up in Washington City.
