"GET RID OF THE FLIES."

Every housekeeper in Asheville has the worry of Flies. Fly Paper is sticky and only a little less bother than the Flies. We sell the Harper Fly Trap, the best made at only 18 cents each (sold in other Stores at 25 cts.) they are handy, easily cleaned, never wear out and get there in ridding the house of Flies. One or two in each room will soon abate the nuisance. Our Ice Cream Freezers, Hammocks and Croquet Sets are reasonable and are priced as low as the same goods can be bought in any city on the continent. We are selling Lace Curtains, and goods for half curtains, (of which we have some lovely patterns) at prices that always please. Our second supply of Brass Curtain Rods is expected daily, the other lot was priced at exactly one half per foot as the same goods were quoted at elsewhere, but that is the way our prices run, sometimes one half, or two thirds, always lower than anybody else in all lines and we keep everything. The biggest line of Ribbons in town. Everything at

THE DAILY CITIZEN.

Senator Vance was born in Buncombe county, N. C., May 13, 1830. He was educated at Washington College, Tenn., and at the University of North Carolina. He afterwards studied law and was admitted to the bar in January, 1852, and during the same year he was elected attorney for Buncombe county. Later he was a representative from his State to the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses. He entered the Confederate army as a captain in May, 1861; he was made colonel in August the same year. In August, 1862, he was elected Governor of North Carolina and re-elected in 1864. He was elected to the United States senate in 1870, but was refused admission and resigned in 1872. He was nominated again in 1872 but was defeated. In 1876 he was for a third time elected Governor of the State. In 1879 he took a seat in the senate in place of A. S. Merrimon and was re-elected in 1884. His term of service will expire March 3, 1891.

FACTS AND COMMENTS.

The newly elected Congressman Vaux who succeeds Randall evidently does not believe in swearing. He affirmed when qualified on Wednesday.

The Asheville CITIZEN undoubtedly is one of the very best dailies in the State and gave good reports of the Assembly. —North Carolina Presbyterian.

A CHATTANOOGA man dropped dead the other day while on the way to the postoffice to mail a letter for his wife. Men should be very cautious in undertaking to mail letters for their wives. The men who put their wives' letters in their pockets and forget to go to the postoffice for two or three weeks do not run this risk. —Wilmington Star.

While the board of aldermen are doing a most praiseworthy thing in having several of the most narrow streets of the city widened, THE CITIZEN respectfully calls their attention to College street and asks them in the name of a long-suffering humanity to either repair the street or purchase a few row-boats to be used by residents along that thoroughfare during a rain storm. The street, while it is one of the most popular in the city is in a terrible condition and is a disgrace to progressive go-ahead Asheville.

ROBERT P. PORTER, superintendent of the coming census, is drawing back in his hole with all the agility commensurate with his dignity. Evidently Robert started out with the idea in his head that the office of superintendent of the census was an autocratic one second not even to that of the Czar of all the Russias. A little later and the great American people had entered a protest and had politely sat down on the gentleman. Since then, to use the parlance of the gambler, he has been "hedging" and it is highly probable that his list of insulting questions will be withdrawn.

RICHMOND did honor to the memory of General Robert E. Lee on Thursday and a half million of people helped them to do it. It was the most glorious celebration ever held in the South. In its report of the event the Richmond Dispatch has the following to say of Governor Fowle:

As Governor Fowle halted for a time in front of Lee Camp and many of the veterans crowded around him, he said in reply to a remark on "not having the fear of Mr. Shepard before our eyes," "No; I have never been in this section." As the Governor at the head of the twenty-two companies of North Carolina troops drove off Lee Camp gave three cheers for North Carolina.

The chief executive officer of the Old North State has a name of his own for Shepard. But what matters. The rose under any other name smells just as sweet, and so does the polecat.

HOW PLEASANT IT MUST BE to "Col." Elliott F. Shepard, the alleged editor of the New York Mail and Express when he thinks of all the time he has taken up in pouring out his venom on the South and of the result of his weak supplication to congress to put down his so-called treason at Richmond. Of course congress has paid no attention to him. There are already altogether too many weak-minded men in position in Washington to suit congress, and they do not have to go to New York for them.

Shepard is to be pitied. Denied a brain by nature he never had any thing but a vacuum for a working capital until he married a millionaire. Then he got a start and since that time he has done well, in that he has worked up from the veriest nonentity to the greatest ass in the country. Newspapers should not throw mud at Shepard. He don't deserve it. Eventually he will be an insane asylum, the place where he should have been long ago, and then all will be explained.

ASSEMBLY ECHOES.

WHAT THE COMMISSIONERS HAVE TO SAY.

ONLY KIND WORDS FOR ASHEVILLE AND THE PEOPLE.

Different Interviews From Many Sources. Dr. Vance's Charming Tribute.

The Charleston World contains the following, which is taken from an interview with the Rev. Dr. Thompson, one of the commissioners to the Assembly:

A reporter for the World called upon Dr. Thompson yesterday and asked for his impressions about the meeting. Dr. Thompson began by relating the place being most beautifully situated. There nature is in its most attractive loveliness, and in every direction are presented most magnificent views. He spoke of the unbounded hospitality of the people, who spared neither time, effort nor money to make the stay of the commissioners agreeable. He then spoke of the arrangements made by the officers of the church for the convenience of members, and the dispatch of business.

Dr. Thompson concluded by saying that the Assembly was one of the most delightful he ever attended, and that from the present outlook the future is full of the brightest hope for the Southern Presbyterian church. Dr. Thompson stated to the reporter that Col. Steele, of the Battery Park hotel, a former Charlestonian, extended daily courtesies and hospitalities to members of the Assembly, and in every way showed himself the right man in the right place in a great hostelry.

The North Carolina Presbyterian, published at Wilmington, says:

The General Assembly is over! This highest court of our church adjourned on Saturday. There was decided talent and there was great energy among the brethren gathered together to do for the best interests of our church and of Zion at large, and this among the clergy not only, but the non-clerical constituency as well. Taken all in all, it was a body representative of the mental and spiritual brain and brawn—if we may use such figure in this connection—of our church. The Assembly was royally entertained, of this there is but one opinion. The good Presbyterians of Asheville surpassed themselves in the lavishness of provision for the comfort of their guests and in happy manner in which that provision was displayed.

The Christian Observer, which contained so handsome a tribute to Asheville in its issue of last week, gives two columns more this week to the same subject. It gives a very accurate picture of the church, which was prepared expressly for this purpose, and publishes a historic sketch of the church, giving the latest statistics of its growth and then it adds:

We have never seen the churches of a city so centrally located, and yet so quiet as the three that are on Church street in Asheville. They are only about three hundred yards from the court house, or the principal places of business, and yet being here in the midst of the former center, they are out of the noise, dust, and street cars. Around them there is a beautiful stillness. The Presbyterian church by recent additions has been made an exceedingly convenient house. The organ is placed behind the pulpit, but the organist and choir are at one side, at the left of the preacher, instead of being in front of him. The interior is tasteful and the finish of the interior in oak graining is attractive.

As we draw near to the close of the sessions of the Assembly, a brief retrospect is natural, and may be convenient to the reader.

The first thought that comes over the mind is the beautiful illustration afforded by this Assembly of the power of divine grace in the human heart. Here we have, perhaps, one hundred and sixty commissioners from the different presbyteries, men of diverse origin, variant education, and no less variant, so different ways of thinking. They are brought together to discuss that which is of importance and value far greater than money. They feel that their own usefulness on earth, and the salvation of souls in eternity, is to be affected by the decisions here reached. There is every incentive to excited feelings or bitter words. But in all the proceedings we have not heard an illtempered word, or seen an illtempered expression. Would this be so among idolaters? Would this be so even among men of the world? What hath God wrought to produce such gentleness in all these hearts—that among so many there should not be one discordant note!

Rev. Dr. Wilson, stated clerk, writes: Everyone was charmed with Asheville and particularly with the finely organized entertainment provided by a hearty people and a generous church.

A Phenomenal Prospect.

The governor of Tennessee and every person who is familiar with the history of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad—on the banks of the Tennessee river, has been undertaken on such a high plane that it is destined to have phenomenal growth and existence. Coal, iron and limestone are all in immediate proximity, and the coal being immediately on the banks of the Tennessee river, it, and all industrial developments at this locality, will have the wonderful benefit of cheap transportation which a navigable river affords. One-tenth of twenty gross proceeds of the sale of lumber, which is to be on the 10th and 11th of June, is to be reserved and set aside for church and educational purposes. Railroad and other transportation lines have given reduced rates of fare for this occasion, and it affords an opportunity to visit a section of country rich in historical reminiscences, and to make investments where profits upon the same investment are better. Ex-Congressman Logan H. Roots, a banker of national reputation and wonderful success, is president of the company, and H. L. Kimball, who has been noted for the successful conduct of great enterprises, is to be the general manager, devoting his entire time to the industrial developments; while a million dollars aside from the proceeds from the sale of lots is to be used for development.

"Old things have passed away, all things have become new, and the parable of the fig tree—the scene of the great action next week."

NORTH CAROLINA NOTES.

Monroe's new mayor is named Polley. A new cotton factory is going up at Franklinsville.

Honey in great quantities has been found on Pilot mountain.

North Carolina Odd Fellows are talking of building an orphan asylum.

Work has begun on the building for the Davis Military School at Winston.

It is believed that a valuable gypsum bed has been found in Fayetteville.

New machinery has been put in the Laurel Bluff cotton mill at Mount Airy.

The Salisbury cotton mills, Salisbury, are said to be clearing $60 profit per day.

The Hanes canning factory at Lexington paid handsomely last year on tomatoes.

Mr. G. Waston, of Sanford, N. C., has discovered a rich gold mine in that vicinity.

Gorris' saw mills in Sampson county, were burned accidentally. Loss $3,000; no insurance.

Work has been begun on a telegraph line from Boone to Blowing Rock, Watauga county.

A contract has been made for the grading by convicts of 33 miles of railway in Stanley county.

Frank Bragg, the youngest son of the late Governor Thomas Bragg, died in St. John's Hospital in Raleigh.

The Morganton Herald has enlarged from a seven to an eight column paper and is fast coming to the front.

The county convicts are now at work on the grounds preparatory for the erection of the Davis Military school buildings.

The Calhoun county colored fair has been organized with Whit Shankle president. The fair will be held on the 13th, 14th and 15th of August.

Thirty employes of the Bull tobacco factory went out on a strike a few days ago. They are still out and their places have been filled by other hands.

The Presbyterians of Charlotte have voted to erect a new house of worship. That is, if all of the necessary funds can be obtained before work is begun.

THE CITIZEN acknowledges with pleasure the invitation to attend the annual ball complimentary to the class of 1890 at Chapel Hill, Thursday evening June 3.

There are now 146 convicts on the Murphy branch of the Western North Carolina railway and it will probably be completed during the coming October.

A Pamlico man went riding with a colored woman of bad character and his neighbors took him out one dark night and beat him until he was black and blue.

The family and farm laborers of Jonas Chappell, six miles east of Raleigh, have all been poisoned, it is alleged by eating bacon. The physicians had to work hard to save them.

Arden and John Evans, two small colored boys, were playing with a pistol at Greensboro, when the weapon was discharged, killing Arden instantly, the ball passing through the neck.

A party of six ladies and gentlemen representing the Centenary church at New Bern, attended the funeral of Dr. Mann, at Winston. He was the pastor of that church at the time of his death.

Col. J. D. Cameron has been mentioned for the chair of history about to be established at the State University. No better selection could be made for such an important position.—Franklin Times.

Mayor Cottrell, who has so terrorized the people of Cedar Keys, Fla., not long ago married a niece of Congressman John S. Henderson. Cottrell was in Salisbury a fortnight ago. His wife is an estimable woman.

Rev. M. V. McDuffie preached a sermon at Raleigh in which he scored the Catholics. A few nights after his house was stoned and it is thought that the Catholic element of that city had something to do with it.

The steamer Washington, of Leachville, that has been running between Morchard and New Bern, and which sank some time ago has been raised, floated, and thoroughly overhauled and put on the route again.

The house of Eliphas Barnett, a thrifty colored man, living near Spartanburg, three miles below the city, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. Every piece of furniture and every piece of crockery ware was broken to pieces.

Among other things which the North Carolina Cherokees have to put up with is a band of sixteen pieces of which their own people are the players. Chief Smith has two sons in it. It is said that the Indians are remarkably proficient with their instruments.

A writ of habeas corpus was sued out in the case of Ike Williams, under arrest for the murder of Samuel Bryan, and heard before Associate Justice Davis, of the supreme court. The prisoner was discharged, the court holding that there was not sufficient evidence to hold him.

A correspondent from Hood's to the Charlotte Chronicle says: A cow that had been bitten by a mad dog about a month since, went mad on Sunday. She belonged to Mr. Rushing, on John W. Morris's place. The dog was killed at the time by Mr. Morris and others. The cow was attacked with fits and a thirst for water, but could not drink. It is supposed to be certainly hydrophobia.

The outlook for the progressive town of Oxford is just now more promising than ever. Its latest stride to the front was the organization of a Land, Improvement and Manufacturing company, which was recently inaugurated with $150,000 capital. With this immense sum and what may accrue to it they propose to buy and sell lands and mining property, to construct water works, gas works, street railways, factories, hotels, etc. This is a grand step in the right direction and the results will be beyond estimation.

"The Southern States," says Dixie, "should make a grand display at the World's Fair. Each State should have an exhibit which would show the world just what her resources are, and what the capitalist and immigrant can expect to find, when they seek her borders. The Southern expositions held in Louisville, New Orleans and Atlanta have been of incalculable benefit to the South, having brought millions of dollars to our mines, quarries, cities and manufactures. The outside world must see what we have, and the World's Fair will be the place to advertise our resources."
