THE DAILY CITIZEN.
FACTS AND COMMENTS.
THERE were 122 arrivals at the principal hotels in Asheville yesterday. That is a fact that speaks for itself.
The Lexington grand jury in session at Columbia, S. C., has brought in a true bill against F. C. Coughman and Pierce G. Taylor for the lynching of Willie Leapheart in the jail last month. Solicitor Nelson will have five lawyers against him for the defense.
IT APPEARS THE CITIZEN more than an ordinary amount of pleasure to state that every dollar's worth of the stock of the Asheville Loan, Construction and Improvement Company has been spoken for by parties who want to take it at par. It shows the faith taken in Asheville.
DID YOU notice THE CITIZEN yesterday with its report of two immense deals? Did you notice a word about them in any other paper? THE CITIZEN is always awake to the best interests of Asheville. When anything occurs of importance to the city THE CITIZEN will tell you all about it. Its purpose is for the good of the city. You know whether it is doing its duty.

WE are Danville, Ind., a nine of female baseball players played a match game on Sunday. They defeated the local team by a score of 23 to 12 and 2,000 people saw them do it. After the game the women were arrested. That is right and proper. No female baseball club has any right to defeat a nine composed of men, even if it is on Sunday, and they ought to be made to answer for their action. Women are getting altogether too proud in this generation.
TWO magnificent new hotels.
That is what is assured for Asheville during the coming season.
They are bound to come.
For one all the land has been secured. That is at Montford Park, near Richmond Hill.
At the back of the other are a number of prominent local capitalists and John H. Inman, and it is sure to be built.
Asheville is coming to the front with a pace as gratifying to its admirers as it is painful to its rivals. Over a half million of dollars are to be spent here this season for hotels.
Just think of it!
With the hotel facilities Asheville already has, a half million more of dollars are to be put into new ones.
Asheville's future is certainly most promising. In fact no place in the country has brighter prospects than this. Asheville is all right.
TWO PICTURES.
LOOK ON THIS:
Elliott F. Shepard, whose chief reputation lies in the fact that he married Vanderbilt's daughter and that he is an adept at abuse of the South, raved more violently last week than ever before. The occasion was the unveiling of Lee's statue.
AND THEN ON THIS:
George Vanderbilt, brother-in-law to the War and Distress editor, has invested $6,000,000 in Asheville. Last week, with his mother, he was at Asheville looking over the elegant palace he is building there.—State Chronicle.

THE LYCEUM LAST NIGHT.
The Weekly Discussions by the Members.
At the regular meeting of the Asheville Lyceum society Mr. Lock Craig was the principal speaker. The subject being "the work for the democratic party in this next campaign." Mr. Craig said this was an age of gold—the almighty dollar held sway and men were more or less governed by it. Monopolists and money kings had conquered the land, and unlike William the Norman, did not propose to divide equally with the men who had aided them in the fight. It was wrong that a few men should revel in wealth in which the laborer does not properly share. The men who wear the honors earned by labor are the laborers themselves.
Great wealth is the evil of this generation, said the speaker, and the democratic party is the party to correct it. Let free trade be the cry and not tariff reform; men should trade according to their impulses. The great west was developed without protection, and should free trade be established, America would drive all competitors to the wall. Protection gave to men the right to put into their pockets the hard earnings of the laborers. No laborer should be taxed.
Rev. Wm. Ward, did not think free trade desirable. General Hampton, a guest, thought the democratic party should stand by the Cleveland platform of 1888. Colonel Lusk thought democracy and Romanism very much alike. Both should be smothered out. Ballot reform was badly needed. The State election law was inequitable. Mr. Chester said the law was not made for such as himself and the Colonel.
Mr. T. A. Jones thought free trade and a pure ballot good things, but favored anything that would keep the Southern States in the hands of the white people no matter what. Mr. Gaines thought the party should outline a new policy, and that the Southern Democrats should shape that policy.
Mr. J. H. Herring thought candidates and speakers should be chosen for their fitness and not for zeal.
The subject chosen for the meeting three weeks from date was "Asheville of the next generation," and the speaker appointed was W. T. Pennington.

Nearly a Fatality.
Myrtle Olmsted, the 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. V. H. Olmsted, of Washington, D. C., made a mistake yesterday which came near resulting fatally. Mrs. Olmsted brought her daughter, an invalid, here yesterday and went to General Vance's, five miles from the city, to spend the summer. The girl, when taking her medicine, instead of taking a teaspoonful of cough medicine took arsenic by mistake. She soon became dangerously ill and Dr. M. L. Neilson, of this city, was sent for. Medicine had been given to the patient and when he arrived he gave her some medicine to neutralize the effects of the poison and the patient spent a quiet night and was nearly recovered this morning.
A Novel Celebration.
Hon. Richmond Pearson proposes to celebrate the 4th of July at the new 75-acre lake and race track. He will convey the people to and from Court Square to Montford station by means of the electric cars and the Richmond and Danville Railroad company. Six excursion trains will run, one every fifteen minutes during the day. He proposes to build one mile of lake shore road in one hour, with a very large force of hands. The lake will be named "Lake Marjorie."

NORTH CAROLINA NOTES.
The law school of the University opens July 1.
Gastonia is going to revel in the luxury of a national bank.
It is said that the Atlantic Coast Line shays may go to Rocky Mount.
Mr. Pierre Cox, of Raleigh, who was injured in New York and whose life was despaired of, has recovered.
Green county claims a goose that is 75 years old and Cleveland goes it five better and claims one 80 years old.
The number of dogs at Reidsville has set the people to thinking whether or not they should be declared a nuisance.
A movement is on foot at Matthews to organize a joint stock company for the building of an academy at that place.
Monroe is to have a Fourth of July celebration. Among the prizes offered is one of $100 for the best time in a reel race.
The Odd Fellows of Durham are going to throw themselves on July 4. The preparations are for an immense celebration.
According to the Observer the Fayetteville bucket factory is the focus of life and energy. In its sad affliction it has the sympathy of the State.
The State Chronicle is doing all in its power to get the citizens of Raleigh into the building of a hotel. It is a worthy object. The Chronicle should succeed.

The North Carolina republican association held an anniversary meeting at Monumental hall in Washington and officers were elected for the ensuing year.
Congressman Brower wants to be a candidate for re-election to congress, but many of his friends, who fear the result, have written to him asking him to withdraw his name.
Burlington academy, the preparatory school of Trinity College for Durham district, will be opened at Burlington on August 15th, under the management of Prof. W. E. Ormond.
A wealthy syndicate of Northern capitalists, representing one million of dollars, has purchased the Miller gold mines, located five miles from Rutherfordton. The mines are very rich.
John King, a young man of Leaksville, went swimming with a companion in the river at that place. Suddenly King sank, and before it was discovered that he was in need of assistance, he was drowned.
Of a town party recently held in Reidsville the Review remarks that "The spacious yard, carpeted with its velvet verdure, softly yielding to the footsteps of many lovely girls." Reidsville girls must have Chicago feet.
Durham has an organization known as the Commonwealth Club, which has for its object the good of that enterprising little city. The club carries out its purpose faithfully and a blessing one hundred times over to Durham.

The North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association meets in Morehead City on July 8, 9 and 10. At the same time and place the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy meets to examine such candidates for license to practice pharmacy as may appear.
The idea of an ex-Governor of the great and dignified State of North Carolina as a township census enumerator is a right comical one, but we have that spectacle and the Hon. Curtis Hooks Browning, Wayne, is the gentleman.—Statesville Landmark.
About six thousand ocean blue fish were caught by Morehead City and Beaufort fishermen one day recently. There were so many that the local ice house was unable to furnish ice in which to pack them for shipment, and the Atlantic hotel furnished four tons of ice.
Mr. E. W. Manship, who lives near Laurinburg, says that during the thunder storm last Saturday night he looked out of a window and saw a ball of fire the size of his double fists go whirling by, whistling like a rifle ball, and strike an oak tree, splintering it to pieces.
Abe Matthews and a man named Henderson had a scrape in Wilkes county over the distribution of some corn. Matthews had an iron harrow tooth and killed Henderson with the first blow. The dead man was the husband of a step daughter of the murderer.
A negro called Big Jean was captured at Marion for stealing some property at the Three C's works. Another negro named Noah Briscoe was left to guard him while the rest of the fore went after help and while they were gone Jean drew a gun and filled his jailer full of holes. Briscoe will die.
Some of our sister counties have been bragging about the youthfulness of some of their marrying couples, but now they may take a back seat; for Moore always gets there. Last week our register issued a license for the marriage of Mr. Hardy Saunders, a swain of 8-3, to Miss Sarah Brewer, a blushing maid of 6-4 summers.—Carthage Blade.

The medals at Trinity College have been awarded as follows: Hesperian Debater's Medal, Mr. James Hallock Crowell, of Reading, Penn.; Hesperian Declaimer's Medal, Mr. Alex. H. White, of Jones county, N. C.; Columbian Debater's Medal, Mr. Wm. I. Cranford, of Montgomery county, N. C.; Columbian Declaimer's Medal, Allie H. Powell, of New Bern, N. C.
Sam Jones has promised to come back to Charlotte next spring if the people will erect a permanent tabernacle for his use. The present tabernacle is a temporary structure, and will be torn down after the Music Festival. The need of a large auditorium for special occasions has been discussed by many of the citizens of the town, and the result is a determination to have a permanent building to seat about 7,000 people. Active steps are soon to be taken with a view to having the permanent tabernacle erected by next May, when Mr. Jones is expected to return to Charlotte.
When the Falls of Neuse paper mills gets down to business it is claimed that they will make paper cheaper than any mills north of the Mason and Dixon line. Getting down to business with this company means the arrival of some recently purchased pulp machines. Now the wood pulp is all shipped to the mills from Harper's Ferry. This is a costly business, as in 24,000 pounds of the moistened pulp, as it is shipped, sixty per cent is water, leaving only 9,000 pounds dry weight. The order for the machinery has been given, and the pulp will be made from North Carolina timber.
