LAST HOURS OF KEMMLER.

LISTENS TO THE PLAYING OF A BANJO. Some changes to be made in the Electric Chair - The Body of Kemmler to be Demanded by His Brother, It is Said. No information has reached Asheville as to the execution of the law to-day in the case of Kemmler sentenced to die by electricity at Auburn N. Y. this week. The New York Sun thus reports the latest news in this connection: Warden Durston was vigorous in his assertions that Kemmler is as well, physically and mentally, as he has been at any time since his confinement. No body believes this, and when the time comes for Kemmler to die it is likely there will be a frightful scene. Mr. Durston said that he sent out the negroes as witnesses on Friday last, requesting them to report at the prison Tuesday night. The Warden walked off when questioned about the condition of the electrical apparatus. It was rumored, however, that the dynamo and its connections are in good working order. The current is not yet altogether steady, but it is sufficiently steady to kill a man instantly if there is any virtue at all in electricity as a death-dealing agent. There is still a change to be made in the chair. Recent experiments have shown that in the present arrangement it is quite possible for a man to wriggle around so as to evade for a moment the full force of the current. The two electrodes will be repositioned, touch the body on the top of the head and at the base of the spinal column. The head of the victim is strapped tightly to the chair, and the electrode is pressed hard upon it by a stout spring. Even if the victim should work his head loose from the stops the springs would keep the electrode tightly pressed upon it. The electrode at the base of the spine, however, has no spring, and experiment showed that a terrified man could wriggle so as to lift his spine just clear of the sponge. If this should happen as the current was turned on a horrible scene would probably be enacted. Enough of the electric current would undoubtedly enter the victim's person to madden him, and he would probably struggle and cry out in a horrible manner until through exhaustion he sank back, when the electrode would touch him fairly and still his agony. A strong spring will be attached to this electrode also, and an additional strap attached to hold the body firmly down. Some interest was added to the situation by a rumor that Charles Kemmler, the brother of the condemned man, had resolved to come to Auburn and claim his brother's body immediately after the execution, and before the physicians could hold a autopsy. The rumor was confirmed after a letter had been received by the murderer from his brother, but whether the letter contained any statement to this effect it was impossible to learn. Heretofore the relatives of Kemmler held their tongues about the matter, and have taken no more interest in his position apparently than if he was a stranger to them. If Charles Kemmler does demand his brother's body the law, it is believed, will uphold him. If such a demand is made and properly complied with, it will be a serious matter to the officials, who are probably attracted more from a desire to study the effects of an electric shock upon a human body than from mere curiosity. Kemmler himself seems to be happy and content, but to a few of the inmates, he and his friend, the murderer Fish, were allowed to spend a few hours together this morning. Fish straddled on his banjo, and Kemmler sat on the table, swinging his legs and singing to his accompaniment. He seems to be well enough physically, and has got back these last few days into his normal apathetic mood. He pays little attention to talks about his approaching death, dutifully tells his spiritual advisers that he don't fear death, and immediately falls to writing cards and singing dismally. Whatever religion Kemmler ever got into probably still retains. There is the best of inside authority for saying that Kemmler's religion was the simple acquiescence of a vacant mind in the truth of statements made him by persons who he had learned to look upon as friends. He said yesterday that he was perfectly willing to die, but it is evident that he hardly, if at all, realizes what the confession means. It is highly probable that Superintendent Barnes of the Fire Alarm Telegraph at Ketcher, whom Warden Durston recently engaged as electrical expert, will have nothing to do with the execution. Superintendent Barnes had intended to start for Auburn at noon to-day, but got a telegram from the warden telling him not to come, but to await there a letter. It has since been learned that Mr. Barnes has been doing considerable talking of late, and the warden has become incensed at him. It is possible that the letter will inform Mr. Barnes that his services are dispensed with. Warden Durston's rather ostentatious announcement of the engagement of Electrician Hunter of Buffalo is regarded as an indication that he will take Mr. Barnes's place. Mrs. Durston is visiting the house of her friend, Mrs. Kapello, at Lawrence, near Kockaway, Long Island. She will remain there until after the execution.

The appeal court has affirmed the sentence of six months imprisonment on the operators of the recent copper syndicate, but has reduced the fine of 100,000 francs imposed on him. The court rescinded the sentence of three months imprisonment imposed on Levesrier, but sustained the lower court, fining him 600 francs.

THE STATE'S LOSS. Col. J. S. Miller of Statesville died there Saturday. M. W. Curry, aged 82 years, of Charlotte, is dead after an illness of two weeks. Captain Walter W. Lenoir, one of the best known citizens in the State, died at Shull's Mills, Watauga county, at 69 years of age. Winston Daily: Died at her home in this city, Mrs. P. P. Broadway, aged about 47 years. She was taken slightly ill only last Sunday. BAD AND GOOD CROPS. Oxford Day: The peach crop this year is an utter failure. Greensboro Workman: The wheat turn out is quite discouraging. It is very common to hear of those who have not made seed. The quality is poor, some of it hardly fit for bread. Concord Standard says: Mr. John W. Widenkoff, of No. 9, sowed 55 bushels of wheat and expected to gather 600; but his crop only reached 272 bushels. —John C. Wadsworth made 63 bushels of wheat from seven planted. Last year Wadsworth sent four wagons to haul in his rent—15 bushels.

100,000 MAJORITY. Alabama Seems to be Somewhat Democratic. The details of the result of the Alabama election are thus given in a Birmingham dispatch: The democratic ticket swept the State and came in a winner by over 100,000 majority, according to the latest estimates, and Colonel Thomas G. Jones has been practically unanimously proclaimed Governor of the State. In this city the voting has been remarkably quiet. The negroes kept away from the polls and seemed to take no interest in the election. Shortly after noon to-day there had been 1,000 votes cast in heat twenty-first, the residence portion of thicity and of the entire 1,000 only three were republicans. The majority for the ticket in this county would doubtless be in the neighborhood of twelve thousand. News has been received from all the counties in the State, and it is doubtful if any of them will give a republican majority, even in the black belt where the negroes outnumber the whites in some places twenty to one. The republican vote is lighter than it has been for years. One ticket in Col. Jones' own county, Montgomery, may go republican, but this is due to the fact that there are 350 negroes to six or eight whites. The Force bill agitation has driven thousands of republicans into the ranks of the demerits' party. The State ticket as elected is as follows: —Governor, Thomas G. Jones, of Montgomery; Secretary of State, J. D. Barron, of Clay; Treasurer, John L. Colles, of Montgomery; Auditor, Cyrus D. Hoque, of Perry; Attorney General, William L. Martin, of Jackson; Superintendent of Education, John G. Harris, of Sumpter. A COLORED ALLIANCE. Political Situation in South Carolina Further Complicated. COLUMBIA, August 6.—The political situation in South Carolina is to be further complicated by the colored Farmers' Alliance, an organization, jumping into the political arena. State Alliance Lecturer Powers, says the colored Alliance has 35,000 members in South Carolina. The chief purpose of the order is mutual benefit, and this, he contends, can be gained as well by entering politics as by establishing stockhouses. The colored Alliance of the State have a great gathering at Aiken to-day. After the meeting representatives from all the county Alliances will meet at a convention to discuss the political situation and make arrangements for the presentation of Alliance candidates. They will probably endorse Tillman. Can't Control Swinburne. LONDON, August 6.—O'Brien asked in the house of commons yesterday if the government would prosecute the poet Swinburne for the poem in the Fortnightly Review, which, he said, was grossly calculated to incite the murder of the Czar. O'Brien was proceeding to read the poem when the speaker called him to order, saying that parliament could not control the poems of Swinburne. This remark was received with laughter. Drove Nails into His Head. EASTBOURNE, August 5.—Thos. Wickens, a tradesman here, some time ago made an attempt at suicide by driving four long nails into his head with a hammer. They penetrated into his brain to the extent of three inches, and were withdrawn with great difficulty. To the amazement of the doctors, Wickens has completely recovered. CONDENSED TELEGRAMS. SCORED BY MR. CUMMINGS.

THE KITTYERY NAVY YARD RESOLUTION. Mr. Cummings Charges That the Force at the Navy Yard is Increased for Partisan Purposes—Boutelle's Reply. WASHINGTON, August 6.—In the house yesterday, Mr. McKinley, from the committee on rules, reported as a substitute for Mr. Cummings' resolution asking the Secretary of the Navy for the reasons for the increase of the force at Kittyery Navy yard. In speaking of the resolution Mr. Cummings said that he rose in defense of public morals and public law, which had been menaced by high public officials. The orders increasing the force of the Kittyery Navy yard looked as though the design was to use the executive power for partisan purposes. He charged that the Kittyery yard was used for political purposes, and quoted figures to show that previous to the election the list of employes was much larger than it was a month or two afterwards. The majority of the men employed came from Maine, the state of Thomas Brackett Reed. He quoted at length from the testimony taken by the Whitcomb committee in 1876 to show that the policy of the Republican party had been to use the navy yards to expedite political ends; and this policy was worse than the shotgun policy. Fifteen years ago a republican secretary of the navy had stated that the Lancaster was not worthy of repairs, and that the Monogahela was in tolerable good condition, with a speed of ten and a half knots. [Laughter.] These were the vessels the present secretary of the navy certified that the needs of public service required to be repaired. [Laughter.] It was the republicans and not the public service that demanded the increase of the force at the Kittyery yard. The re-election to congress of the speaker of this house and the reelection of a representative from the first district of New Hampshire were desired. Thus the public would read the secretary's certificate and they would read it aright. But for the necessities of the republican party these wretched hulls would be left behind the lead line where they belonged. The committee on rules had reported as a substitute for his resolution, the resolution which referred the whole offense to the offender himself. Mr. Boutelle explained that Secretary Tracy had simply discharged the duty devolved upon him under provisions of the naval appropriation bill and all the work he had undertaken was required by that bill. He read (amid the applause and laughter of his party colleagues) a similar order issued under Mr. Cleveland's administration. AFFAIRS OF CONSEQUENCE. FOREIGN. Gen. Venosky, Russian minister of war, is increasing the means of transportation on the Trans-Caspian railway. The French senate has voted 100,000 francs for the establishment of frontier posts to prevent the entrance of cholera into France. The rapid development of the cotton trade of Turkistan has resulted in a complete blockade, the depots along the line of railway not having facilities for transporting cotton. Fifteen American consuls are holding a conference at the American consulate in Paris on the mode of applying the McKinley bill in Europe. Over 100,000 troops will take part in the military maneuvers to be held by the Czar in September. Emperor William will arrive at Peterhoff August 24. A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says Vice-President Pellegrini threatens to resign. Celman has offered every post in the cabinet to the opposition leaders but each has declined the offer. The tenth international medical congress was opened in Berlin to-day. Two thousand five hundred German and 2,500 foreign doctors, including 500 physicians from America are present. Among the British doctors attending congress are Sir James Paget, Sir Andrew Clarke, and Prof. Stewart of Dublin. Among the Americans are Drs. Draper, Jacoby, Bussey and Sexton. HOME. A fire destroyed half the business portion, and forty residences of "What Cheer," Iowa, Monday. All employes of the Carbon Iron company, Pittsburg, Pa., have struck because an attempt was made to start the puding department with negroes. Herman R. Baldwin, of Richmond, vice consul for many years of the governments of Brazil, Spain, Portugal and Uruguay, was found dead in bed of apoplexy. The reception tendered President Harrison and Secretary Blaine at Cape May was a brilliant affair. Two thousand five hundred persons attended and shook hands with the president and secretary of state. Mrs. P. A. L. Smith, of Danville, Va., who last winter asked the legislature to pass a special act allowing her to practice law, will soon begin the publication of a newspaper there. She will advocate the right of women to practice law. WASHINGTON. The nomination of Stephen M. Eaton to be postmaster at New Orleans has been favorably reported from committee. The majority report of the locus committee on elections in the contested case of Goodrick vs. Black, from the second Florida district, decides that Goodrick is entitled to the seat. The conference committee on the sundry civil appropriation bill has made considerable progress towards the adjustment of differences between the two houses. The two principal points of variance are items for the election of a new wing of the Watervliet gun foundry and the construction of heavy ordnance by private firms. In the course of a long discussion in the senate yesterday Mr. Edmunds illustrated a remark by Mr. Vance (to the effect that one of his arguments was an old story) by an anecdote of a thief who said when told that one of the ten commandments was "Thou shalt not steal" that that was an old story, and Vance retorted to the amusement of the democratic side that the protectionists had got to the point where they did not even make an excuse for stealing.

ANTIMIGRAINE.

NEVER FAILING CURE FOR HEADACHE. TRADE MARK REGISTERED. ABSOLUTELY SAFE, PERFECTLY SURE AND ALWAYS SPEEDY. Cures Every Variety of Headache AND NOTHING ELSE. Has earned for itself the enviable reputation of being the finest, most effective and reliable article in the market for the speedy relief and cure of every variety of that common trouble, HEADACHE. The immense favor which has greeted it from all quarters, proves its true merits and acceptability to the public. It is something which almost everyone needs, and those who have once tried it, will never be without. For its curative powers it does not depend upon the subtle influences of such poisonous drugs as ANTIPYRINE, MORPHINE, CHLORAL AND COCAINE. Since it does not contain an atom of either of these. It is absolutely free from injurious chemicals, and can be taken by young and old without fear or serious results. It is not a Cathartic, does not disarrange the stomach, and contains no noxious or sickening ingredients. The peculiar advantages of Antimigraine consist in its being thoroughly reliable as a cure for any kind of headache—without respect to cause—leaving no unpleasant or annoying after-effects, as in the case of other so-called "harmless" remedies. These qualities make it the most popular and saleable article in the market, wherever known. DIRECTIONS FOR USE. The dose for an adult is two teaspoonfuls in a wine glass of water. Dose for children in proportion, according to age. In either case the dose can be repeated every thirty minutes until a cure is effected. One dose will always drive away an attack of Headache, if taken when first feeling the premonitory symptoms; but if the attack is well on, and suffering is intense, the second or third dose may be required. Usually a greater number of doses is required to effect the first cure than is needed for any succeeding time thereafter, showing that the medicine is accumulative in its effects, tending toward an eventual permanent cure.
