To a certain extent general advertising creates a want. It announces new things and familiarizes the public with old ones. General advertising is of as great value to the advertiser in keeping an established article before the public as in introducing a new one. The most successful business men realize this, and they never let the public forget their existence. The oft-repeated assertion that advertisements are not read is proved to be a lie of the most senseless kind by the advertiser's record of results. —Journalist.

Mr. Ewart's Latest.

We are delighted and astonished at Mr. H. G. Ewart's versatility. Man in time plays many parts, but few have approached the subject of this brief sketch in double-back-action work on three horses, in as many rings and under an equal number of tents.

We were just about being reconciled to Mr. Ewart in the role of alliance-at-law or attorney-at-alliance when behold! he throws off his disguise and appears bedecked with feathers, in a breech-clout made of a copy of the Farmer and Mechanic, his war paint flushed with political excitement, his tomahawk stained with the life blood of some red beets, grown before his legal wigwam down in Hendersonville. In other words, Mr. Ewart in the combined character of Pontiac, Red Jacket, King Philip and all the rest of 'em has been over into Swain county where, our Cherokee correspondent informs us, a meeting of Indians was called by United States officials to hear some of the old wise heads of that race make a talk. Imagine the surprise and disgust of the Indians when—enter H. G. Ewart, not so very old, not much of an Indian, and not alarmingly wise!

Our correspondent, an Indian, writes us: "I think it was a sneak;" and the word fits the case so accurately that it will be a long day before Mr. Ewart again succeeds in calling together the Indian voters of Swain county to see him in his impersonation of a very old and wise Cherokee. You can't fool an Indian twice with the same Ewart.

Hic Fabla Docet.

There was once a Bull whose Chief Desire was to get into a China Shop to secure the Votes of the alliance. But his character as an attorney for the other Beasts of the republican Field was such that admission was refused. He went away and Shrewdly dressed himself up as a Shepherd, said his name was Oowart, and presenting himself at the China Shop was admitted. But his True Character being presently discovered he was driven out with a club well applied, though not till he had done some Damage.

Moral: You can't disguise a bull except by taking his hide off which can best, be done in Joint Debate.

When Mr. Ewart ceased the practice and abandoned the profession of law, engaging in farming, leaving everything connected with the practice of law behind, he was no more a lawyer then than President Lincoln was a rail splitter while occupying the presidential chair, or Grover Cleveland a sheriff while in the same position.—Asheville anti-Mechanic and Farmer.

True in part, esteemed bleeder of census clerks. But Lincoln remained a lawyer to the end of his days in all the essentials that the alliance of to-day would object to; and the same is true of Grover Cleveland.

THE Mississippi constitutional convention's election ordinance as adopted is substantially a copy of the Dortch law of Tennessee. Ballots are to be printed and distributed at public expense and are official ballots. The time allowed each voter to prepare his ballot is ten minutes, unless others are waiting, when he shall be limited to five minutes. White supremacy is assured in both houses. It is to be hoped that the problem has been so solved as to quiet all contending factions for years to come.

THE railroad officials refuse to give any information whatever beyond the fact that there was a bad wreck.—Philadelphia Times.

Such was the position taken by the Philadelphia and Reading Saturday after a score of persons had been killed on that road, and as many more injured. Imagine fathers, brothers, sisters, mothers appealing for news that would determine whether their loved ones were alive or dead and being met by the railway officials with a refusal to give any information though possessed with all the means of getting it. Is the Philadelphia and Reading officered by fiends?

Is This a Slander on Old Pitt?

Falkland Cor. Durham Recorder.

Some of the wealthiest people in Pitt don't respect the Sabbath much since curing tobacco time; they never stop for the Sabbath; some go fishing, etc. But I don't know that it will make much difference with them when they are called to be judged, for the Bible says, it is just as much impossible for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven as it is for a camel to go through the eye of a needle.

Scottendales is a place of wickedness
And of course a place of woe—
If the Devil don't get the most of them
I don't know where they will go.

Saturday night and Sunday too
A fishing they must go,
Sunday morning—their prayer they never knew,
There is no such thing as religion on that hill—
If the Devil don't get the whole shebang,
I can't tell who will.

A Fair Specimen.

From the Tarboro Southerner.

A notice posted at the court house furnishes a fair sample of the spelling, capitalization, punctuation and chirography of some of the negro Rad leaders:

TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF TOWN SHIP NO. 1

You are here by Notified to meet at The Court House in Tarboro on 22th of September Witch Will See on Monday to hold a convention to nominate a Township Constable meet at 11 o'clock, A. M. by order of Ex Comt one from Each Precinct from Precinct no. 1 George Lloyd from Precinct No 2 Ed Simonds from Pre No 3 Joseph Brown this 8 of Sept 1890.

To be Solved in Asheville.

From the Charlotte Chronicle.

There has been a constant and acrimonious discussion for years about the tariff, the farmer's alliance, and the national control of railroads. But the subject that comes nearer the hearts and has a direct and indirect bearing upon the happiness of all classes and all persons, is rarely ever mentioned in public print. It is never alluded to on the hustings or the rostrum. It is the problem of housekeeping and cooking.

There are No Free Traders.

From the New York Post.

The furious free trader, who wants to abolish all duties instanter, is a creature of the protectionist imagination. If he exists in any other, he exists in only very small numbers.

Expediting Legislation.

From Puck.

Reed's rules to "expedite legislation" have worked so well that the betting is now even as to whether or not this session of congress will end in time for the next one to begin.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Transylvania county has nominated W. W. Zachary for the house.

The democratic convention of Stanly county nominated for the senate, (Stanly and Cabarrus) Eli Shankle; for the house J. P. Nash. The nominees for the legislature were instructed to vote for Vance.

The republican congressional convention for the Eighth district met, says a telegram to the State Chronicle, and made no nomination. Cowles stock is booming and the democracy is wide awake at Lenoir.

If Mr. Ewart sustains the McKinley bill he aims the deadliest blow at the alliance. If Colonel Long supports Mr. Ewart he, too, is antagonizing the alliance; but above all, he should not abuse his position as lecturer to support Ewart and thus go back on his order, whose officer he is, and whose pay, for non-partisan lectures, he receives.—Asheville Democrat.

At the democratic mass meeting and state convention of clubs at Raleigh on the 24th Governor Fowle will make the address of welcome to the visitors. The next day's speeches will be at Brookside park. Among the speakers will be Senators Ransom and Vance, Congressmen Bunn and Henderson and Captain Baldy Williams. Thirty clubs will be there from New Berne to Asheville.

It has been suggested that the republicans who are making so much fuss about the changes in the North Carolina election law are under the impression that it is the Payne bill that passed the senate. The Payne bill was very much like the election law in republican Massachusetts and practically established an educational qualification. If it had been enacted into a law it would not have been so oppressive to the poor and illiterate as the republican Rhode Island laws. But, after the Payne bill was introduced, the democrats decided not to enact it into a law.—State Chronicle.

OUT ON THE FARM.

A prominent farmer told us to-day that there was a scarcity of hands in the country, and it was hard to get cotton picked as fast as desired.—Concord Standard.

A careful, well posted farmer told us Tuesday that the peanut crop of Wilson county will be in the neighborhood of $75,000 bushels this year.—Wilson Advance.

A field of tobacco containing about two hundred and fifty thousand hills under Colonel Cunningham's management near Cunningham is a beautiful sight to behold.

Paul Miller (col.), the champion cotton picker in these parts, picked 304 pounds of cotton on Mr. R. E. Gibson's farm. Paul says that he is going to pick 400 pounds to-day.—Concord Standard.

Just a little sunshine,
And a lot of rain;
Make cotton fall out
And the prices wane.
—Tarboro Southerner.

Mr. John L. Ferguson, who lives at the dividing line of Jonathan creek and Cataloochee, Cherokee county, will send some sapling clover to the state fair this year that is five feet tall. He has a very large field that will average five feet all over it.

Western North Carolina is without doubt the finest apple region on the Atlantic slope. The whole south ought to get its apple supplies from this section, and yet even the central eastern parts of North Carolina get their supplies of winter apples from the North.

At the big tobacco break last Wednesday Miss Kate, the very worthy daughter of Capt. Calvin Barnes, had some of the finest tobacco ever seen in this section. One lot sold at $7.53 per pound, another lot sold at $5 per pound and another lot at 75 cents per pound.—Wilson Mirror.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

—The graded schools of Raleigh have enrolled 1,487 pupils.

—Tuesday night at Burlington, 4,000 coffins went up in smoke. They were stored in a warehouse of the Burlington Coffin company. The loss is $20,000.

—Mr. A. P. Holland, of Goldsboro, has the contract for grading and laying out the grounds of the state encampment at Asheville.—Winston Daily. Asheville? Nix.

—The board of directors of the state penitentiary has submitted their quarterly financial report to the governor, showing expenses over earnings to be $4,536.

—A meeting of the North Carolina board of pharmacy will be held in the city of Raleigh on Tuesday and Wednesday of fair week for the purpose of examining candidates.

—Gov. Fowle issues a call for subscriptions for the purchase of monuments for 164 North Carolina soldiers whose unmarked graves are in the confederate cemetery at Fredericksburg, Va.

—The hanging of Alexander Morton, the negro woman, who was sentenced to die October 17 for murdering a woman at Kinston, will not come off at that time. An appeal to the supreme court puts off the execution till December.

—The train from Durham, due at Raleigh at 7 p. m., when a mile west of Cary struck an old white man named Solomon Carpenter, and killed him instantly. His skull was split open, and his body was thrown some distance.

This writer, after spending some time there (as a visitor) believes that the convicts on the Yadkin railroad are treated with as much kindness as are day laborers on our farms. They are fed well, get good sleeping quarters and are cared for in the best of manner.—Concord Standard.

—The bonded debt of Mecklenburg county is to be refunded on November 1. It amounts to $300,000. Capt. Vail, chairman of the board of county commissioners, says the bonds will be refunded, the new bonds bearing only 5 per cent. interest, and running for thirty years.

—Mr. W. P. Batchelor, so well known as the owner of Pamlico, is back in Raleigh from New England. Rumor has it that he has an offer of $30,000 for Pamlico, but doesn't want to sell even at that big figure. Next month Pamlico will trot in the great race for a $15,000 purse.

—Tuesday night of last week the entire family of Mr. I. F. Jordan was poisoned by eating boiled custard flavored with vanilla. All were very ill for several days, but we are glad to learn that they are now well. The poison is thought to have been in the flavoring.—Greensboro Democrat.

—We doubt if in Wilmington there is a single well the water of which can be drunk with safety. Eight or ten years ago analyses were made of several wells in different parts of the city and all were condemned as more or less poisoned. Such is our recollection.—Wilmington Messenger.

—Toisnot Rural Home: We learn that J. W. Smith, of Fremont, while cutting down a tree near his house last Friday, fearing that it was going to fall on his dwelling, called to his wife to run out, which she did but in the wrong direction, as she was caught under the falling tree and instantly killed.

—Checks arrived from headquarters last Saturday night, to pay off all the work of grading the railroad to date, and the contracts are being pushed to completion as rapidly as it is possible. There are at present about ten miles of road bed graded altogether. Work will be continued without abatement, and it is expected that the next contracts let will be from the Transylvania county line up the river toward Brevard.—Brevard Carolinian.

THE SUN.
—FOR—
1890.

Some people agree with The Sun's opinions about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind.

Democrats know that for twenty years The Sun has fought in the front line for Democratic principles, never wavering or weakening in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves with fearless intelligence and disinterested vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the common purpose; it is not The Sun's fault if it has seen further into the millstone.

Eighteen hundred and ninety is the year that will probably determine the result of the Presidential election of 1892, and perhaps the fortunes of the Democracy for the rest of the century. Victory in 1892 is a duty, and the beginning of 1890 is the best time to start out in company with The Sun.

Harper's Magazine.

Theodore Child's series of papers on South America, now being published in Harper's Magazine, is attracting wide attention not only on account of the freshness and timeliness of the articles, but also because of the valuable character of the information which they contain, and the evident good judgment which controlled the writer while making and recording his observations. The second article, which appears in the Magazine for October, is entitled "Agricultural Chili." It contains an account of a visit to the agricultural provinces of that country, describes the Chilians' methods of farming, irrigation, wine culture, etc., and states some interesting facts regarding immigration, labor, and wages. The description of some of the growing cities and towns, and Mr. Child's account of railway traveling in that region, will be read with surprise by many persons who are accustomed to regard the South American states as countries but little better than half civilized. The article is very fully illustrated from drawings by T. de Thulstrup, W. P. Snyder, W. Hamilton Gibson, W. A. Rogers, H. Bolton Jones, Frederic Remington, George de F. Brush and T. V. Chominski.
