Immigration Convention.

As the public are already aware, the southern immigration convention will be held in Asheville on the 17th of December, and will continue two or three days.

The selection of Asheville, a place relatively small, though happily far from being unknown, is a triumph upon which the people of the city have good reason to felicitate themselves, because it is tribute paid to those wise efforts at development and improvement through which the city, aided by what nature so bountifully and beautifully has done for it, has challenged the admiration of the country, and deems itself able successfully to compete for honors heretofore tacitly awarded to older, larger and experienced cities.

The honor is to Asheville; and now it rests upon that people to bear it, not only worthily, but splendidly. They must see to it that pretentious vanity alone has not inflamed our boast; that we are able not only to sustain the claims we have made, but to surpass them; that our pretensions are not pretensions, but solid possessions; that what we assert as ours is not vain shadow but solid substance; and that, particularly in reference to ability to entertain a great number of visiting guests, our capacity to do so is immeasurable and exhaustless. What we have done before, in the entertainment of great religious assemblies, of medical and masonic conventions, of railroad and insurance conferences, only strengthened our confidence by proving our capacities.

Therefore in this coming convention, giving token of being much larger than any ever before held here, we have same assured confidence of the success that attend the smaller predecessors, of giving pleasure to ourselves, and of winning the hearts of our guests. We feel so confident of the hearty cooperation of every citizen, and of every institution and association that we feel that appeal for their co-operation would be intrusive. For, laying sentiment aside, it is an appeal that silently addresses its voice to every interest, public and private.

The purpose of the convention is to secure the united and harmonious action of all the southern states in the matter of added population and capital for the south, the arrangement of railroad rates establishment of general offices at prominent points, and through mutual action the creation of a bureau of immigration.

The convention will utter its voice from Asheville; it will turn its eye with telescopic vision upon Western North Carolina; it will call attention with trumpet tongue to the marvellous wealth of this new El Dorado. Of course, it will do this incidentally; it will do so none the less effectively.

That Boycott Circular.

We confess to being surprised that the Statesville Landmark takes the position that Col. Polk's last circular to members of the alliance on newspaper criticisms of the order is an attack on the liberty of the press. The Landmark says the circular recommended the "boycott of all newspapers that comment unfavorably upon the aims and purposes of the alliance or that indulge in hostile criticism of its chief officers." This is hardly exact. The circular says:

"When any paper by vicious and malicious misrepresentation of any officer of whatever rank, from the lowest to the highest in our order, or any member of the same, or by unfair methods against our order, shall seek to impair our strength or unity that any and all such papers shall no longer receive in any manner the countenance or support of members of our order."

"Hostile criticism" and "vicious and malicious misrepresentation" are not the same in this connection; and we hardly think the individual members of the alliance would be blamed if they refused to pay for and read a paper that maliciously misrepresented the order.

As we said some weeks ago when the circular was first brought to light, it is an attack on the freedom of the individual rather than on that of the press. Some few members of the alliance may refuse to read the Landmark if they think it falls under the ban of Col. Polk's circular; yet that excellent paper will be just as free as before to hit a head that wears horns. But the man who allows Col. Polk's advice to lead him to do what he would not do if the advice came simply from an individual with no office back of him to make his words seem weighty, has surrendered his judgment and is the less free by just that much.

The "Sun" and Mr. Cleveland.

Judging by the extract we printed yesterday from a New York Sun editorial on Mr. Cleveland it is evident that newspaper will stop at nothing to defeat him as a candidate for renomination to the presidency. Mr. Dana does not like Mr. Cleveland; does not like his democracy; does not like his tariff reform idea though they are democratic if anything is.

The Sun's ideal is the Tammany organization in New York. We confess not to be greatly impressed with that kind of democracy and think the party would be better off without it. There are many reputable and intelligent men among the members of that body, but as a political organization it is far from being worthy of imitation. Perhaps Mr. Cleveland, as the Sun intimates with brutal coarseness, voted against Tammany Tuesday. We believe he could do that and still retain his hold on the great mass of the democratic party, as the most eligible, the most fit man for the presidency now before the people. We do not say that had we been in New York Tuesday as a legal voter there we should have voted for Mayor Grant's opponent. With Tammany on one side and Platt on the other it was a good time to climb a tree. We simply want to enter a protest against the kind of warfare the Sun is making on Cleveland. It is indecent, brutal, unpolitic and, to the extent that the Sun will have some silly imitators, menaces democratic success in 1892.

A Fault in Our System.

The Richmond State says:

"We must recollect that the baffled conspirators will continue to control both branches of congress during the next session, and that the force bill, which has already been passed by the house of representatives, could easily be passed by the senate if the republican senators should desire to see it become a law. We must not forget that the men who cheated Mr. Tilden out of the presidency still control the republican party."

This points out a serious fault in our present political system. The newly elected representatives should at once take the seats of the men whose policy the country has declared against. What an anamoly, that the legislators who have been repudiated by popular verdict emphatically pronounced, should go on governing the country for an instant even! They have been shown the door, and ought to go.

The New Democrats.

The lie of the republican party in North Carolina since that time [1876] has been as the lie of a snake with a bruised head but a spasmodic wriggle in its tail. It has been a black body with a white tip to its tail. Its black body has been peaceable, quiescent and kind, but credulous, and influenced by the venom and greed of the white, brigand and selfish tail. That white tail is this year showing more venom than usual.—Elizabeth City Economist.

Oh, no, it didn't. A goodly piece of it came to a reasoning sense of the foul company it was keeping and came over to the democratic party.

"Will the party at large continue to follow its leading, or will they cast him out as an unclean thing?"

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican asks the question. The republican party will not cast him out. To do so would be confession and confession would imply repentance, and the republican party has not advanced that far yet. And it probably never will.

The Atlanta Constitution lost a little red cannon and so that city couldn't celebrate the election properly. What two cannon can do as accomplished by the work of the Order of Noise Makers here Thursday, never occurred to the esteemed Georgians. The Georgian may be origin, but too much watermelon has prevented him from being fertile in ideas.

A CHANGE of 60,000 votes in Pennsylvania means that there are a great many voters in that state who were better than their party. Delamater was Quay's man and Delamater is beaten. The rest of the state ticket was not Quay's and it is elected. Was there ever before so loud a voice calling a man a thief?

MRS. HAMMERSLEY, who became the Duchess of Marlborough a few years ago, has become quite like one of the nobility. Heavy judgments have been rendered against her on default for debts contracted at Birmingham, England. They aggregate $676,121, and are for money loaned her in that place.

I HAVE come here not with the purpose of eulogizing the administration, but to bear my testimony that as Pennsylvania votes on next Tuesday the nation may vote two years hence.—James G. Blaine, last Saturday night.

Thanks, Mr. Blaine.

A SUBSCRIBER of THE CITIZEN at Weaverville writes: "The brave contest for democratic truth that you have just concluded is worthy of a place in history. Long may THE CITIZEN wave!"

IT is a year or more before the new speaker of the house will be elected. Hence the men who are now announcing themselves as candidates are somewhat previous.

SINCE I was ten years old I have been trying to make the world better by my living in it.—W. Duke, of Durham.

And yet Mr. Duke makes cigarettes.

NOT OFF-YEAR NEGLECT.

The Voters Knew What They Were Doing.

From the Springfield Republican.

It was neither off-year indifference nor carelessness that defeated the republicans on Tuesday. There has been no indifference and off-year neglect of politics in this campaign; on the contrary, the country has been stirred to a degree of interest hardly exceeded in a presidential contest. The voters of the country knew what they were doing Tuesday and why they did it, and took the control of congress away from the republican party because that party had abused its opportunities. This is the obvious fact, so obvious that no one but the wilfully blind can mistake it.

The "Landmark" is Not Guilty.

From the Statesville Landmark.

The Winston Sentinel says there never was a campaign in which the democratic press of the state fell so far short of its duty. The Landmark pleads guilty, but what is the Sentinel going to do with the Charlotte Caronicle and Mecklenburg Times, the State Chronicle and the News and Observer, the Chatham Record, Davie Times, Wilkesboro Chronicle, Asheville Democrat and CITIZEN, Salisbury Watchman and Herald, Morganton Herald and especially the Lenoir Topic?

THE SENATE.

Possibilities of Democratic Control of that Body Soon.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

To-day the upper house of congress stands thirty-seven democrats, forty-seven republicans. When it meets in December the new states of Idaho and Wyoming will have elected two senators each. This will increase the republican majority to fourteen. Thus it will stand until the new congress meets.

But then it will drop. Senator Blair, the grandma of the Blair bill, will retire to private life. His brother senators will heave a sigh of relief when a democrat takes his seat.

And the senate will no longer be bored with the single-sentence, tiresome and feeble harrangues of old man Evarts of New York. Instead, they will probably be able to listen to crisp and able arguments from David Bennett Hill, William C. Whitney or Grover Cleveland.

And Ingalls will no longer electrify the senate with his magnificent bursts of oratorical eloquence; he has been submerged with "invisible soap and imperceptible water"—a victim of the Farmers' Alliance. In his place will be an alliancesman—a democrat.

Those three changes will reduce the republican majority of the senate to eight. South Dakota, Illinois and Wisconsin are now democratic states. The terms of Senators Moody, Farwell and Spooner of these three states respectively expire on March 4th next. In the event their successors, who are to be elected at once, are democrats, then the republican majority in the senate will be reduced to two.

In that event, and it is certain, the senate is ours.

The first thing the next congress will do will be to admit into the union the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. Each of them exceeds in population the states of Wyoming and Idaho, just admitted by the republicans. And all three are democratic. They will send six democratic senators to change the political complexion of the senate, and give the democrats four majority.

Even if the democrats only get a senator each from Wisconsin and Illinois, which is absolutely certain, they will then have a majority of two.

But South Dakota will send a democratic senator to succeed Moody.

The senate will soon be ours, too.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

—The assertion has been made that the Wake Forest student is the hardest nosed animal in North Carolina."

—The greatest drawback to the growth and prosperity of our town is the high prices our people are asking for their property.—Murphy Scout.

—The Murphy Scout learns that Amos, the supposed murderer of Gibson, which occurred at Hiwassee, Ga., several weeks ago, was seen in Stecoah, Graham county, Sunday week ago.

—The Western North Carolina conference convenes in Concord, N. C., Nov. 26. The North Carolina conference convenes at Wilson, N. C., Dec. 10. Bishop Keener will preside over both bodies.

—We learn from Mr. N. G. Phillips, who returned from Graham superior court last Saturday, that the people of that community were saddened and shocked at the announcement of the death of Mrs. Colvard, mother of ex-Sheriff J. J. Colvard.—Murphy Scout.

—Mr. M. L. Sigman, of this township, tells of a girl in his immediate neighborhood, between three and four years old, who chews tobacco, dips snuff, smokes, plays cards, picks the banjo, swears, and has had to be weaned by main strength.—Statesville Landmark.

—Charlotte News: The fast mail and express train on the Richmond and Danville road, due here Wednesday afternoon, did not arrive until 12 o'clock at night, and then only a portion of it came in. Its two Pullman sleeping cars were left lying upside down by the track near Central. The train had been wrecked by the breaking of a wheel, and the passengers had some narrow escapes.

—The Monroe correspondent of the Charlotte Chronicle, says: The returns received from the cotton shipped from here show a considerable falling off in weight, and several of the cotton buyers have commenced before the board of commissioners, a proceeding for the removal of the cotton weigher, J. A. Crowell. Able counsel is employed on both sides, and the matter will be fully investigated.

—Information comes of a high handed proceeding near Wakefield in this county on Tuesday afternoon. It appears to have arisen from some phase of the Larkin Smith case which was tried in Wake superior court last week. Charles Smith is reported to have gone to the house of Mr. E. P. Wiggs, in a carriage, where Mr. Larkin Smith resided. Chas. Smith is Mr. Smith's son and Mrs. Wiggs is his daughter. Smith with his negro driver forced his way into a room occupied by Mr. Larkin Smith, and despite his remonstrance and resistance, forcibly took him from the room and put him in the carriage and drove off.—Raleigh Chronicle. Chas. Smith has been arrested.

—Raleigh notes: A reward of $200 was paid by the executive department for the arrest of Henry Barnes, who is charged with the murder of W. F. Davis, in Bentonville township, Johnston county.—The governor has authorized a change of courts, whereby Judge Merrimon will hold Polk court, on account of sickness in the family of Judge Brown, who was assigned to hold it.—The grand jury in the United States district court has found a true bill against W. F. Sellars, late postmaster at Lebanon, Columbus county, for embezzlement. He is now in jail at Dallas, Texas, and confesses his crime.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Late returns from Mewborne's district indicate his election by about 700.

Mr. Bennett Holland, of Holly Springs township, 92 years of age, was carried two miles by his daughter on a feather bed to the polls Tuesday. He said: "I want to vote the democratic ticket. I know I am dying of three diseases, but if it is my last act I want to enter my protest to the passage of the force bill and the McKinley tariff bill."—Raleigh Chronicle.

A careful calculation made as to the legislature and coming election of United States senator shows that Vance will be certain to receive 118 votes out of a total of 170, including both parties. Of 50 members in the senate 33 are instructed for Vance, and 5 who are uninstructed are for him, while in the house 59 are instructed for Vance and 19 who are uninstructed have declared for him. This calculation does not include Wake county, which has 5 democrats, all of whom will support Vance and can be counted for him. This brings the total number of Vance votes up to 118.

A - Word - to - the - People - of - Asheville.

The Steinway Piano is still the recognized Standard of the World, and C. Falk is Steinway's agent. The best music people in Asheville buy it and take no other. It takes money to buy it. I sell it very close, still some people cannot quite reach it. For these I have the A. B. Chase Piano, which is acknowledged and sold by Steinway as next to his. The Everett Piano has been in demand by other houses who wanted it for this territory, but C. Falk keeps it right here.

By my prices I may not get rich, but I make a host of friends.

The Perrand & Votey Organ will be something new in the market at this place, while Wilcox & White, Kimball & Waterloo Organs are constantly demanded and sold on good terms. I wish it to be understood that when I sell on installments, and purchasers do not wish to keep the instrument, I do not retain all money paid, but return all amounts paid above rent. I hope the character established for 12 years in Asheville will have its weight when you have to decide where to buy a Piano or other instrument. Respectfully,

C. FALK, 35 North Main St.

Harper's Magazine for November, 1890.

The November number of Harper's Magazine contains the first of a short series of papers on Southern California—"Our Italy"—by Charles Dudley Warner, describing the delicate resources, and scenery of that most interesting portion of our country. Numerous illustrations from photographs and from drawings by distinguished American artists give additional value to this interesting paper. E. W. Mealy describes the quaint old town of Rothenburg, and gives an account of "Der Meistertrunk," the festival play which occurs there annually. His article is accompanied by nine illustrations from drawings by Otto Beck. The series of articles on South America by Theodore Child is continued in "Urban and Commercial Life." The illustrations, which are numerous, present views of objects and scenery in and around Santiago and Valparaiso. Lafcadio Hearn describes "A Winter Journey to Japan" by way of the Canadian Pacific Railroad and the Pacific Ocean. S. H. M. Byers contributes an article on "Switzerland and the Swiss." "Princeton University" is the subject of a timely paper by Professor W. M. Sloane. Daudet's inimitable story of "Port Tarascon" is brought to a conclusion. Twenty characteristic illustrations from drawings by the distinguished French artists, Myrbach, Rossi, and Montegut accompany this instalment. The other fiction includes "A Halloween Wraith," by William Black, with five illustrations; "Madrilene; or, the Festival of the Dead," by Grace King; and "Portraits," by Ruth Dana Draper. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell contributes a charming poem entitled "The Quaker Lady," which is quaintly and beautifully illustrated by Howard Pyle. Other Poems are "In November," by Archibald Lampman; "Too Late!" by Julian Hawthorne; "The World Runs On," by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop; "On Waking from a Dreamless Sleep," by Annie Fields, and "A Quatrain," by Bliss Carman. George William Curtis, in the Editor's Easy Chair, discusses a number of interesting subjects, such as the decrease of population in some of the mountain districts, gentlemanliness in Parliament and in Congress, the "society column" of the newspapers and some recent legislation for the restraint of the liquor traffic. William Dean Howells, in the Editor's Study, considers the most recent theories regarding the origin of the Aryans. Charles Dudley Warner, in the Editor's Drawer, calls the reader's attention to a peculiar tendency of modern times, and suggests that there may be still farther triumphs for the slot machine and electricity.
