I was at my uncie's, near Niegara Falls, in Canada, and had hardly arrived when he said:

"Now, Nevvy, you'll be wandering around more or less and I want to caution you about an old van I took up as an estray the other week. He's down in the lot where the gravel pit is, and just as sure as yougive him a show be'll be the death of you. I saw him knock a cow off her feet at one bang, and wouldn't go into the pit for $50."

didn't give him an opening, however, but somebody else did. I was standing in the barn with uncle, when he suddenly exclaimed:

"Great Joseph! but there's a tramp in the gravel pit lot! That rain will smash him to pulp in two minutes!"

He shouted, waved his hat, and shouted again, but the tramp was a quarter of a mile away, and walked with his head down. The ram was lying down in the pit, and the yelling brought him out. We saw him scramble up the bank, and my uncle gasped out:

"Git a hoss hitched up to go for the undertaker, for that tramp won't balive two minutes later!"

He was though. The ramcame at him on an angle, and he caught sight of the animal when about ten roots off. He wheeled to the right, stood still, and the rain got within ten feet, and then saided through the air on a straight line to strike him. Next instant the tramp bad im by the horns, and with a twist and a jerk he broke his neck with a snap. He tarried to be sure that the ram was dead and then came on, chanding the ance, and said to use."

20. "Pillate therefore, willing to release Jesus, spake again to them." It may have been just here that they said, "We have a law, and by our law He ought to die, because He made Himself the Son of God." For when Pillate heard that saying he was the more afraid (John xix, 7, 8). And as he talked with Jesus privately Jesus said: "Thou couldst have no power against me, except it were given thee from above; therefore he that delivered me unto thee hait the greater sin." It is said that from thenceforth Pilate sought to release Him (John xix, 11, 12). 21. "But they cried, saying, Crucify Him, 21. But they creat, saying, Cucry Hom, Crucify Him," or they continued crying "Crucify Him," They had but one desire concerning Him, and to all else they were deaf and blind. It was in the Cincinnati. Hamilton & Dayton depot in Cincinnati one day, when one of the men employed to oil tree cars as they came in, accidentally fell under the wheels of a moving coach and had his right leg and hip crushed in a borroble manner. He was picked up and laid on some coats spread on platform, and a doctor was soon on hand. He must have suffered intensely, but after the doctor had examined him he coolly askel.

"Doctor, will I live?"

"Not more than ten minutes; you are bleeding to death."

"What time is it, Jim?" asked the man of a fellow employe.

"Eleven fifty-aive," was the answer.

"The children will bring my dinner at sharp 12. Some of you go and stopthems. They musu't see me die. Poor, mother less children—orphaus now?"

I went to the door, with others, and we were just in time to keep a boy of 8 and a girl of 6 from coming in. Each had hold of the handle of a basket containing in their's dinner, and they were smiling in anticipation of the greeting they would receive. We sent them away with a false story about his baving gone home, and the cyse of both were filled with tears of disappointment. The echo of their footsteps could still be heard on the pavement when the father breathed his last.

A Short Talk in City Hall Park.

From the New York Sun.

A benign-looking, well-dressed elderly gentleman leaned against the low wall surrounding the fountain in City Hall

Park yesterday and sorrowfully contemplated the groups of unemployed humanity around him. He hadn't been there long when a very frowsy man, who looked sorrowful, too, and apparently with good cause, sidled up to him and said:

"Excuse me, sir; but if I can't get relief soon I shall be obliged to look for it over the Battery wall."

"My dear, good man," said the philanthropist, gently, "you couldn't have selected a better place for your purpose. Whatever way the tide is running you are sure to be fished out at once. But, when you mean business, go to Pier 27, North River."

"Pier 27, sir?"

"Yes, Pier 27."
