Trinity College and

Money. Ex-Governor Jarvis went to Durham and made a congratulatory speech at the laying of the corner stone of Trinity college to be erected largely by money from the Dukes, of cigarette fame. The other day he was interviewed by Webster's Weekly, at Reidsville, and is reported to have said in answer to a question what he thought of the cigarette trust; "I am dead against trusts and combines of all kinds. The whole busmess is infamous and ought to be crushed out. I was against the removal of Trinity to Durham, because it goes there mainly on that kind of money. I believe in the Bible with all my heart, not only as showing the revealed way, from earth to heaven, but when it talks about any question of law, science or agriculture, you may put your foot on its dictum and be satisfied that you are standing on the rock bottom truth. Now when I look around me and see the fearful effect of cigarettes on the youths of the country, I am tearful that God will not bless an institution which has a cigarette for its chief corner stone and when that fact is supplemented by a knowledge of the fact that a cigarette rests on the cutter trust."

The Durham Sunthen asks ex-Governor Jarvis why, if the foregoing are his honest views and opinions, did he "come to Durham, and make a speech at the laying what was being done and what the future of the college would be? If you were if you were wrong then and right now. will you be kind enough to tell us when you were right?"

The explanation of this inconsistency the Sun has pointed out, probably is that the governor has changed his mind, as any man may and still be honest, and that he should have very grave doubts as to the success of an institution endowed with money carned from the sale twenty-five acres of lands; Durham $4, of cigarettes; provided he believes 000. Wilmington $6,500 and eight acres eigarette and eigarette smoking to be immoral. Are they immoral? We doubt that would seem to forbid the use of what is to thousands of people the most offensive product of the human brain and

Of Jerry Simpson, the western alliance candidate who won his way to the Kansas legislature on a platform of no socks. and has therefore been dubbed "Sockless Jerry," a story is told that when he first went to Topeka he stopped at a big hotel. When he became weary he asked to be shown to his room. They put him into the elevator. Before it could move he walked out and said to the clerk, indignantly: "Here, I want a room with a regulate the protection of live stock. ity as the one told ever since there were been to sea. The secretary is supposed to visit a big man-of-war for the first time. He sees an open batchway and looking down into the hold of the vessel, ex-claims: "Why, the darn thing is hollow, son, the young white man who murdered and glorious time to study human nature, and in no place do we see so many new phases of it as in some of the alliance legislatures. Bring the lerry Simpsons to the front, there's a lot of

THE CITIZEN is informed that City Clerk Miller's objection to the amendment of Asheville's charter-that it was unconstitutional because thirty days' notice of the proposed amendment had not been given-is met by the fact that the supreme court has decided that point in a like case to the present one. The decision was that the legislature having passed the bill, it was to be presumed that the notice required by the constitution had been given, and the court would not go behind the legislature to learn the exact fact in the matter. If we have reported the court correctly in this connection, it appears that the recordership came into Asheville legitimately enough even if in a way to suggest that it was not very proud of itself or of its nurse.

THE CITIZEN would not be surprised to learn that friends have been divided and families broken up on the question: Ought the Rev. Sam Jones to have struck back when struck by the untamed Texan of-what a coincidence!-Palestine? Ought he to have turned the other check. or was he right in defending himself with his arms rather than with his feet? We submit this highly interesting and not at all complex problem, unanswered, to the bright intellects of the Lyceum debaters of this city.

Why applaud? The editor is always brave and patriotic. It's part of his daily duties and he takes his pay in fame, frozen cabbage and four-foot cordwood three-feet long.

THE four cardinal principles of the alliance party, says Judge Peffer, are that "land is the common heritage of man, labor the common lot of mortals, transportation the life or death of commercial industry, money the oil which Inbricates the machinery of civilization." We are all pretty well agreed on these funde-

Senator Turner offered the following esolution Tuesday. It was placed on the calendar, causing much merriment, says the Raleigh correspondent of the Wilmington Messenger.

"Resolved, That the state treasurer be and is hereby authorized to set apart a drawer in the safe kept in his office for the purpose of receiving all conscience money that may be returned to the state by all officers and parties that feel that they have wronged the state by taking therefrom more than a good conscience will allow, and that in the event that any person who has held the office of state printer in the last twenty years should return to the state treasurer the bonus that they feel they have received from the state over and above what was commensurate with the services actually rendered the state, that the same be immediately appropriated to the Soldier's home; that if any member of the general assembly feels that he has perpetrated a wrong on his constituents by not advocating a reduction of the price of state printing, that said drawer should be pened to his conscientious considera-

FALK'S MUSIC HOUSE

35 N. Main Street,

ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Pive and a half years ago I started in the music business. The people of Asheville and Western North Carolina have been kind to me and I wish to make grateful acknow-edgement of it. I started by taking an agency. I became soon satisfied that the people are entitled to better instruments and fairer treatment than I would get acting merely in that way. Hence I started out independent to give the very best instruments for the money they had paid previously for their instruments. neir instruments.
