THE PROPOSITION. Maj. Bingbam said that the amend ment to the charter just passed called for an election in this city on the question of endorsing his bonds for $25,000. He proposed to put $25,000 into buildings, etc., and would make the property worth $50,000. He would then give the city a mortgage on the property, which would secure it against any loss. He made no appeal to sentiment but made a plain business proposition. He wanted to bring his school to Asheville, because it among the many mineral wa- exceptionally favorable. He had good reason for knowing Maj. Bingham, but he had had eighten years in which to torgive him the throught the way suggested in the proposition was the most inexpensive way of getting the school here. Mr. Gwyn's talk was full of sound reasoning and humor.

C. T. C. Deake spoke in favor of the KNEW A GOOD THING

D. C. Waddell said he thought he new a good thing when he saw it, and he knew that the removal of the school to this place would be of the greatest possible benefit, and was heartily in avor of the proposition.

Prof. P. P. Claxton knew of no better ocation for such a school south of Mason measures. and Dixon's line than Asheville, and the school would succeed here as it would not or could not elsewhere. He, in company with several of the best lawyers of Raleigh, had looked into the matter, and Attorney General Davidson had expressed the opinion that it was constitutional. He hoped there would be no hesitancy in outting it before the people. WATERS, SUNSET, ETC. N. P. Chedester in a flowery, eloquent and short speech, endorsed emphatically everything said in favor of the proposed aid. The trickling waters, the sun-kissed mountain tops, and the blue ether all came in for their share of praise, and Mr.

Chedester sat down amid thunderous Mr. Clayton, who introduced the reso lution, pledged the support of the workingmen, and wanted to see the school

Up to this time everything had been plain sailing. Everybody was speaking in favor of the proposition and there seemed little doubt as to the sentiment of the town. Capt. T. W. Patton offered a substitute to the resolution, requesting the chairman to "appoint a committee at once to receive pledges from those gentlemen present, who icel disposed to assist in this matter, and to appoint a committee of three persons to solicit as-sistance from those not present who may feel disposed to unite in this effort." Capt. Patton gave his reason for op posing the a submission of the question to a popular vote, and proposed to lend Maj, Bingham $1,000 on the same terms as proposed in the bill
