At this stage of the proceedings Baron Fava, in one of his letters to the Italian covernment remarks that the foregoing government, remarks that the foregoing government, remarks that the foregoing reply shows an evident desire to gain time and that it was no practical solution of the question. The answer from Washington being regarded as unsatisfactory, Italy instructed Baron Fava, March 27, to press the two original demands made upon the United States government, and, in the event of his failing to obtain satisfaction, to leave Washington en conge, after consigning the ington en conge, after consigning the care of the legation at Washington to the care of the first secretary.

Baron Fava next reported to his government that its instructions had been carried out, and he declared that as Washington had not fulfilled its duties as the civil government, his presence was unnecessary at Washington. This action upon the part of Baron Fara and his government is not regarded as a diplomatic rupture. It is merely the first step towards such rupture. The United States minister here, Mr. A. G.
