ASHEVILLE DAILY CITIZEN. By RANDOLPH-KERR PRINTING CO. THE DAILY CITIZEN, Democratic, is published every afternoon (except Sundays) at the following rates—strictly cash.

MONDAY, APRIL 20, 1891.

On Saturday night at the corner of South Main and Eagle streets, a difficult case, and a negro threw a beer bottle at an antagonist. He missed the man, but hit the man's hat. Morgan undertook to arrest the party, and the negro who threw the bottle ran, when Morgan drew his revolver and fired upon him.

This act was a plain, outrageous and criminal violation of the law. An officer, no more than an individual, has the right to use his pistol, or any other deadly weapon, except in case of self-defense, and the officer who is so ignorant of the law as to use his pistol in such a manner is guilty of a crime, and he who is so ignorant as to hold his position, such acts on the part of officials tend to the encouragement rather than the prevention of crime, and any officer guilty of such a crime of official duty should be summarily dealt with.

When men who are supposed to uphold and enforce the law thus violate it with impunity, the too free use of firearms by the people cannot be wondered at. The most efficient police force in the world perhaps that of London are not allowed to carry any weapon more formidable than a club, and unless more judgment is displayed in their use by the officials in this country, the time will come when it will be necessary to forbid officers carrying pistols at all.

Not all Democrats. An Atlanta paper asserts that all the newspaper correspondents with the President on his trip are Democrats. We don't believe that; and for this reason one of them telegraphed to the Associated Press that the President "graciously" bowed to the crowd that surrounded his carriage. No Democrat would use that word in that connection. It has for years now been reserved to the use of kings and queens and such like useless trimmings on the gilded ornamentations of old world governments.

The oldest editor in American journalism is passing. A friend, and he is certainly the best scholar of his profession. He has more information at his finger ends and knows better how to use it, perhaps, than any other newspaperman.

As if Mr. Dana had less education and more conscience the Sun would be a better leader of public opinion.

In the Charleston News and Courier were as good a newspaper for 1891 as it is for 1890-95. It would be one of the best on the whole South.

THE NEWS IN NORTH CAROLINA. The Soldiers' Home at Raleigh will be formally opened May 10th, memorial day.

There is nothing pricier than the Wilson Advance in its new suit or clear type.

The Railroad Commission is sending requests to all the railroad companies for schedules of rates, time tables, etc.

At the cotton-mills at Raleigh Thursday Assistant-Engineer James Brown was caught in the engine and his arm was crushed and torn off.

As soon as the type founders can fill the order the Raleigh State Chronicle will be issued in a new spring dress and in a handsome form.

It is reported that the manufacturer of Duke's cigarettes will establish a branch factory at Winston-Salem, as it is more convenient to the cigarette tobacco market.

The case of Kirby Smith, of Goldsboro, against President K. P. Battle and the trustees of the State University for $10,000 damages for false arrest, resulted in a mistrial, nine jurors being for the trustees and three for Smith.

Mr. J. H. Melican, an employe on local train No. 59 from Richmond to Weldon, was caught between two freight cars while coupling them and badly bruised. When taken out his face was black, his eyes protruded from their sockets, and he was suffering greatly. He will live.

INVOCATION TO THE WATERING-CART. The following from the Richmond Dispatch, fitted Asheville to a "T," until today.

NORTH CAROLINA FOLKS. North Carolina has a William E. Glanville. He was married last week in Scotland Neck to Miss Maggie Ward, of Hamilton.

Senator Vance has always been on the side of North Carolina and, so far as we know of his public record, on the side of the people—Wilmington Messenger.

It is now a growing sentiment, says the Wilmington Messenger, that Prof. Winston, of the University of North Carolina, will be elected by the trustees in June president of the University.

Mrs. Sallie Weaver, who was born in Lincoln county in 1786, died four miles west of Lincolnton last Saturday night at the age of 105 years. She was a remarkably stout woman and was possessed of a good mind and memory until the last.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The trustees of the Baptist Female State University have elected Rev. J. B. Boone, of Raleigh, N. C., financial secretary. He is an able preacher and has business abilities of a high order. He is a native of North Carolina and was for a time president of Johnston college.

Several members of the United States Geological Survey are in Raleigh and in charge of Professor Holmes, State Geologist. One of them is a son of the late Nathaniel P. Willis, the widely known author. The party in June will regularly begin work in the northwestern section.

In Raleigh on the last week, Andrew Sanderlin, Secretary Coke and Colonel Cassa were walking down Fayetteville street. A street urchin sang out "Hooray for the new Government." Three hats were thrown and the urchin and three boys were arrested.—Thank you, my boy!

Col. John B. Cameron takes charge of the press bureau of the Inter State Exposition at Raleigh, and will have his office in the agricultural building, in which those of the Inter State Exposition and Exposition Association are located. Col. Cameron was long an editor here and is a writer of much force and pathos. He will be a great aid to the exposition.—Wilmington Messenger.

The best editors in North Carolina, with two exceptions, are college-bred men. Both King and Ashe are alumni of the University of North Carolina. Col. Cameron, the most graceful editorial writer in the State, is also an alumnus of the university. Joseph Daniels, who published the most delightful weekly paper of its kind ever published in this State, is Dr. King's son-in-law. The late Dr. King, of the College, was a very susceptible mind to teach.—Charlotte Chronicle.

"It Feels Better Now." "I have the impression, I feel that there is some good in my fellow citizens generally, and an apology for the harsh and ungentle language as expressed by me in the 17th of March, 1891, in coming there was in all sincerity on my part, but I am not probably aware that my frank professions given to you by better judgment to the detriment of others was in vain."

A friendly apology like that endears us to all of us. He who ever, by his good and simple words—The Citizen.

Public School Act. An Act, in relation to public schools in the city of Asheville.

The general assembly of North Carolina do enact: SECTION 1. That it shall be the duty of the city of Asheville to issue and deliver to the treasurer of the graded school committee bonds on such amount as the school committee shall designate as necessary for the purpose of building one or more public school buildings in said city and equipping the same.

SECTION 2. That it shall be the duty of the mayor of the city and county, and the clerk, with his official seal thereto attached. The bonds shall run for forty years, and said bonds shall show upon their face that they were issued for school purposes.

SECTION 3. That it shall be the duty of the treasurer to sell said bonds and hold the proceeds of the same subject to the proper order of the school committee. Provided, said bonds shall not be sold less than par value, provided further, that no larger amount than twenty-five thousand dollars shall be issued.

SECTION 4. That at the regular election for mayor and city aldermen for the year 1891 the question of issuing said bonds shall be submitted to the qualified electors of said city, and those favoring the issue shall vote a ticket on which shall be written in printed words "For the subscription," and those opposed a like ticket, on which shall be written the words "Against the subscription." If a majority of the electors shall vote for the subscription then and in that case the bonds shall be issued, but if a majority do not so vote, the bonds shall not be issued. Provided, that in case the majority do not vote for the subscription, the board of aldermen shall, on the petition of one-third of the electors of the city, submit the question again and from time to time as they may be returned, and if at any such election a majority shall vote for the subscription then the bonds shall be issued as herein set forth. Provided that not more than one election shall be held in any year.

SECTION 5. The election herein required shall be held under the same rules, regulations and by-laws as now govern the city of Asheville, and the qualifications for voters shall be the same in this election as for mayor and aldermen of said city.

SECTION 6. This act shall be in force from and after its publication.

Enacted the 7th day of March, A. D. 1891.
