A TALK WITH TILLMAN.

WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT THE NEXT CAMPAIGN.

He Thinks the Issues Will be Tariff Reform, Free Silver and State Control of Elections—He Has no Use for a Third Party and Does Not Believe in the Sub-Treasury.

From the Atlanta Journal.

In response to a request for an expression of his views on the third party movement, Governor Tillman said:

"This movement seems to have attracted a great deal of attention throughout the country, though, so far as I know, very little notice has been given it in this State. It is true that some ambiguous utterances of Col. Talbert, our state alliance lecturer, have been construed as declarations in favor of the third party scheme, but I don't believe anybody of influence here has come out squarely for it, or that Talbert himself is in favor of it."

"So far as I am concerned," continued the Governor, "and I believe I speak for the great body of the farmers in the State, I am a Democrat, pure and simple. I believe in fighting for reforms inside the party lines, but never outside of them, and I believe any attempt to organize a third party in this State or in the South would be an absolute failure."

"So long as the fear of negro domination hangs over us we white people here in South Carolina can never afford to split. That fear is always over us, like the sword of Damocles, to warn us to fight out our differences inside of party lines. To seek redress of grievances in a third party would be to wreck our whole political structure and bring upon us evils far worse than those we sought to escape."

"I am convinced that the farmers of this State are unalterably opposed to any and all third party schemes. So long as they have negro rule and Federal interference staring them in the face, the instinct of self-preservation tells them to stick together and work out their salvation as Democrats and inside the ranks of the Democratic party."

As to the cause of democratic success last fall, Governor Tillman said:

"There were, it strikes me," he answered, "three factors that contributed to that tidal wave—the McKinley bill, the free coinage or financial issue and the force bill. And as they were the issues in the last campaign, so they will be in the next."

"In the South we are practically united on the three issues of tariff reform, free silver and the retaining of state control of all elections, and those will be the issues, in my view, in the next presidential campaign."

"But," continued he, "the free coinage of silver is only one phase of the financial question. We want not only more silver, but more greenbacks, and I favor the direct issue of greenbacks based on the government's credit."

Speaking of the sub-treasury bill, Governor Tillman said:

"I am opposed to the measure, I want something better, and that something better I believe to be what I have already suggested—the free coinage of silver combined with the issuance of greenbacks either on the government's own credit or on land. The sub-treasury bill violates the alliance doctrine of 'equal rights to all, special privileges to none.' I don't believe that two wrongs make a right, and because farmers have been systematically and outrageously imposed on in the past is no reason why they should demand class legislation for their own benefit now."

Why Should Asheville not Have It?

EDITOR THE CITIZEN:—Our legislature at its last session authorized the establishment of a woman's industrial college and normal training school, at the same time making a liberal appropriation for the support of the same. There has for a long time been a great demand for such a school, and it will very soon be the most largely attended educational institution in the state. It is not intended that the school shall in any way be a rival of our many 'female colleges' already in existence, but it is intended in its academical department to be on a par with the university at Chapel Hill, while the normal department for the training of teachers will be made equal to any in the country.

According to the provisions of the act establishing the school, it is to be located in some town offering to the trustees a suitable grounds and buildings, and a number of places have made or will make such an offer. Why should not Asheville do the same? For many reasons this is the best place for the school, and the trustees would no doubt consider favorably a suitable offer from us.

Let our business men consider this, and let's make an effort to add this to the many elements of progress in our city.

SOME POINTERS.

We have 75 acres of land lying just outside the corporate limits of Asheville, on the west side of the French Broad river. Has a river frontage of nearly 1,700 feet, with heights commanding an unsurpassed view of the city, the valley of the French Broad, and the mountains east and west. Immediately south of Richmond hill. The buildings for Bingham School, costing $35,000 on adjacent heights, are now being built. The street railway will be running within five minute's walk of any portion of the tract before the summer is over. A $2,000 depot on the Richmond and Danville railroad is to be constructed at once, within a few hundred yards of the property, at which all trains will stop. It is surrounded by property owned by a wealthy company, which will be speedily improved. It is almost the only piece of property within four or five miles of Asheville offered for sale, that is not owned by a corporation. Its value will double, treble and quadruple inside of two years. It is naturally susceptible of division into a number of villa sites unsurpassed for loveliness of view, or can be laid off in lots and sold for suburban residences. Will be sold in lots to suit purchasers at low figures, for one-third cash, balance on your own time at 8 per cent. A few minute's drive will bring you to the land, and show its rare beauty.
