BARGAINS: IN: DINNER: SETS, REGULAR JOINT MEETING. ALDERMEN AND ADVISORS

MEET LAST NIGHT. The Committee on Streets Had

No Report and There Was Little Work to be Done-Special Meeting of the Board of Alder.

The first regular joint meeting of the aldermen and advisory commissioners was held at the mayor's office last night. Those present were: Aldermen Brevard, Leonard, Sternes, Reynolds and McDowell, commissioners, Conant, Bearden, Hunt, Scott and Summey.

Alderman Brevard was made chairan of the joint meeting.

Commissioner Summey requested that the chairman appoint some one in his stead on the committee appointed to report on streets to be paved, etc. Com-missioner Conant was elected in response to Mr. Summey's request.
The committee appointed last week to look into the matter of paving and widening streets had no report to make as the time had been too short for the work. They will report at a special meeting next Monday night.

The following committee was appoin-ed to wait on the city's banks, and learn whether they would act as trustees of the sinking fund, as provided by the im-provement act: Aldermen Reynolds and McDowell, commissioners Bearden and

There was no further business before the joint board and it adjourned until next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

THE ALDERMEN. A special meeting of the board of alder men was held after the adjournment of the joint board. All the aldermen were present except Mr. Gudger.

Alderman Brevard tried to call some one else to the chair, but Mr. Reynolds was too quick for him and made a motion that Mr. Brevard be made chairman, which was carried.

Ex-Alderman Wolfe was present at the meeting, for the first time since the new board came in. Mr. Wolfe asked that the city clerk be ordered to pay the city's half of the cost of paving on north side of the First National bank, about $141. The city engineer was instructed to measure the work and report to the clerk, who would pay according to that report. Hon. H. A. Gudger, representing the butchers of the city showed the board plans of the new market house which his clients were going to build on Spruce street. It is to be 60x150 feet, built on the most improved style with a forty foot street on all sides. The from is to be ofgranite and brick. The butchers wanted a permit to build the house, and would then rent the stalls, just as a city market iouse would be conducted, or would le the city take the lot if it would guaran tee to put such a building on it as the one proposed, which will cost $15,000 or $18,000. Mr. Gudger, however, in view of the fact that there was some ob jection to the erection of a market house on that street, asked that the matter be postponed until Friday night week, that a full discussion might be had. The request was granted. P. C. McIntire, who had last Friday night been granted permits to erect four small cottages on Vance street, asked that the permits be cancelled. Mr. Mc-Intire said he had heard of some objecion, and did not desire to erect any building that would be objectionable to any resident of the street. The board did as Mr. McIntire asked.

The city engineer was instructed to survey Seney street from East street to Merrimon avenue, making it forty feet wide the entire length.

City Engineer Lee submitted the plat of his survey of Haywood street, which, on motion of Alderman Starnes was ac-T. C. Smith & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists, asheville, N. C. An Interesting Program Intelligently Rendered.

Winston, N. C., June 2 - [Special.] Sunday was the 100th anniversary of George Washington's visit to Old Salem and the 89th commencement Sunday of the Salem Female college.

It was the occasion of the baccalau reate sermon which was eloquently and ably preached by Dr. Morrison, of At-lanta, from the subject "Woman's sphere in the redemption of humanity." Dr. Rondthaler, in his evening sermon, referred touchingly to Washington's visit and to the history it had made for

Last night was the "senior's first evening" at the college and as usual a large crowd witnessed the interesting exercises. Sixteen of the young ladies of the class read essays while vocal and instrumen-tal music brilliantly interspersed the same and made even more interesting the occasion. After this honor to the '91 class a brilliant bouquet was tendered those who were adding in the success of the commencement. This was perhaps the most enjoyable part of the occasion. The art exhibits are open this after-mon and hundreds of visitors are in-specting this work of the second disspecting this work of the young ladies. ALBANY, June 2.-State Entomologist Lintner, who was summoned to Catskill recently to examine a new pest which was ruining the pear crop of one Theodore A. Cole of that place, finds that an area three miles in diameter has been occupied by the most dangerous fruit pest that has visited the state in years. It is the diplosis pyrivora, or pear midge, which is common in Europe, but first made its appearance in this country ten years ago at Meriden, Conn. It was brought over in some pears imported from France at that time, and seems to have reached this State, as Mr. Cole two years ago imported some pears from that

A PRINCE ON THE STAND. WALES A WITNESS IN THE

BACCARAT CASE. Did He "Perjure Himself Like a

Gentleman," as on a Former Occasion, Is the Question?-Cumming's Denial.

LUNDON, June 2 .- The famous baccarat scandal trial, otherwise the action of Sir William Gordon Cumming against Mr. and Mrs. Lycett Green, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Berkeley Levett for slander, commenced before Lord Chief lustice Coleridge today in the Queen's bench division of Her Majesty's high court of law. Long before the hour, 11 a. m., fixed for the hearing the court room was filled with crowds of fashionable people who had been lucky enough to obtain one of the much coveted tickets granting them the right to be present at the long expected baccarat revelations.

The court room resembled a scene of some highly fashionable reception, rather than the law court where an important case was to be brought to trial. The first tremor of excitement was caused by the arrival in the court room of Sir William Gordon Cumming, plaintiff, accompanied by his counsel.

The heir apparent entered the court shortly after 11 o'clock, accompanied by Sir Francis Knollys, K. D. M. G., his private secretary. The prince and his secretary were escorted to seats especially reserved for them on the bench at the left hand of the lord chief justice. The entrance of the Prince of Wales was the sig nal for court proceedings to commence.
No sooner was the prince scated than the jury was sworn, and Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, taking his seat on the bench, and addressing Solicitor-General Clarke, and addressing Solicitor-General Clarke, the leading counsel for the plaintiff, said in substance that he desired that the prince should be kept in court as short a time as possible, and he, Lord Coleridge, hoped that his learned brother would agree to arrange matters so that the prince should not be detained any longer than absolutely necessary. To this solicitation Clarke calmly re plied that he could not say exactly when the Prince of Wales would be called upon to give his testimony in the case, but he begged to assure the lord chief justice that he desired most heartly to serve the prince's convenience so far as possible. Sir Edward Clarke opened the case for the plaintiff. When he had concluded lumming took the witness box. He entered the box in a cool, jaunty manne nd gave his version of the Tanby Croft
