JOHNSTON'S DEATH.

It Occurred at 5 O'clock Vester

Mrs. Leonora Johnston, wife of Capt. Robert B. Johnston, of thiscity, died yesterday afternoon at her residence, 58 N. Main street, at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Johnston has been a great sufferer from rheumatism for many years, being onfined to her room most of the time. Every possible remedy was tried for her relief, but without avail. She returned from Hot Sprinks, Ark., a few weeks ago, where she had been carried, but the disease had such a hold upon her system that the baths did her little good.

More Liberton weeks ago, says there has been 990 oyster entries made in the waters of that county up to date, covering over lifty thousand acres of oyster bottom. Mrs. Johnston was a daughter of tle late Col. R. W. Pulliam, and leaves a hus-band and six children. She has hosts of friends and relatives who sorrow at her death. She was a sister of Lawrence Pulliam, Miss Mary W. Pulliam, Mrs. C.

M. McLoud, and Mrss C. W. DeVault, of residence this afternoon at 5 o'clock, conducted by Rev. McNeely DuBose, of the Trinity Episcopal church, and Rev. C. W. Byrd, of the Central Methodist church The interment was at Riverside cemetery. Mrs. Johnston was 48 years of age.
