PARNELL MARRIED?

There are reasons for his leaving that are not taken O'Shea.

LONDON, June 25.—It is reported at Brighton that Mr. Parnell was married today to Mrs. O'Shea. Parnell's place, driven by a coachman in a heavy, dark coat, was seen at the residence of Mr. Parnell early on, and shortly afterwards Parnell, carefully dressed, entered the carriage and was driven in the direction of Steining. Up to noon Parnell had not returned to his residence. The local register refuses to furnish any information as to whether or not Parnell has married.

4 p. m.—Everything tends to confirm the report that Parnell was married today to Mrs. O'Shea. She joined Parnell while the latter was en route to Steining at which place they were seen to gether during the afternoon. The victor of the parish of Steining denies that Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea were married at his church, but, he added, they could be married at any one of the half dozen other churches in the district.

THE COMMITTEE RETURNS

TWO DAYS SPENT ON RICHMOND'S STREETS.

Alderman Reynolds talks about the Visit of Asheville's Committee to Richmond—A Profitable Trip of Inspection.

Mayor Blanton, Aldermen Starnes, Reynolds and Leonard, Advisory Commissioner Conant and City Building Inspector Burkholder arrived in Asheville on yesterday afternoon's train.

These gentlemen, with the exception of Mr. Burkholder, who went on business, composed the committee appointed by the board of aldermen to go to Richmond and inspect the system of paving in use in that city.

Alderman Reynolds this morning gave The Citizen an outline of the trip as follows:

The committee reached Richmond Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, and stopped at Ford's hotel. At 11 o'clock they attended the Presbyterian church on Twenty-sixth street. The pastor of the church is Rev. J. Gammon, who for several years was the popular pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Asheville. The committee enjoyed the excellent sermon very much.

In the afternoon they were met by City Engineer Cutshaw, and Col. Adams, the supervisor of street paving in Richmond. They were taken on a drive of pleasure to the city's beautiful parks, the water works, reservoirs and other points of interest.

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock the committee were called on by Mayor Ellison, Col. Cutshaw, Street Superintendent Adams and Major Capers, chairman of the street committee, who took them out in a special car to the quarry, where the material for street paving is gotten out. Here they saw large quarries of the most elegant blue granite, and while there saw the blocks taken out and shipped.

They were then taken over the streets and to the water works. The latter, Mr. Reynolds says, is a perfect system. The pumps have a capacity of 40,000,000 gallons a day, and the entire system cost $150,000.

They visited streets which were being paved, and saw the entire process. From the time the blocks are cut at the quarry, down through the contract work and foundation, "tamping," to the time when the streets are entirely completed. Belgian brick is used to a greater degree than any other kind of paving. The work was done by the contract system. These gentlemen expressed a desire to bid on Asheville's work in their line.

The committee also were shown a street on which they had been for thirty years ago with Belgian blocks, and it was still a very serviceable and substantial pavement.

Some of the streets are paved with rubble, a sort of second class Belgian block, the only difference being that it does not make so neat a street. This is put, Mr. Reynolds says, on streets where there is much heavy traffic, as on Depot street in Asheville.

The committee spent Tuesday night at Old Point Comfort, and returning to Richmond found City Engineer Lee, of Asheville. They instructed Mr. Lee to remain in Richmond for several days and inspect every detail of the paving work in that city. They left Richmond yesterday and came direct to Asheville.

The committee, to a man, are animated in their praise of the handsome manner in which they were treated by the city officials of Richmond. Everything was placed at their disposal without cost, and the officials took great pains to give them their time in showing every point that could have any possible bearing on the work to be done by the committee.

The city officers they found to be men of thorough education and high standing, and enjoying the unbounded confidence of the people they serve. And of the city itself they speak highly. The streets and thoroughfares were taken in and enjoyed. The streets are wide and well paved and kept.

Altogether, Mr. Reynolds says, the committee could have done nothing better for Asheville than to take this trip. They laid up a store of information that will be invaluable in the great work that is about being begun in this city.

The committee of which alderman Starnes is chairman, are expected to meet tonight at the city hall for the joint meeting of aldermen and advisors next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

In Richmond.

In an article in the visit of the committee to Richmond Tuesday's Dispatch says:

"The gentlemen expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they had seen, and while no definite action will be taken until they return home and have had a private conference with the remainder of the city brotherhood it was generally understood that they are unanimously in favor of Asheville's streets being just like those of Richmond."

Mayor Blanton is expected to a Dispatch reporter yesterday about his visit, said every gentleman of the delegation felt deep appreciation of the kindly manner in which they were received and treated by the Richmond authorities.

"Returning to Asheville he was loud in his praise, boasting of its hotels, its climate, its people, and its prospects."

"Mayor Blanton is one of the youngest city executive officers of the country. He was elected to his position in May, 1889, over a republican who had filled the chief office of that city for several years, and his majority was the largest Asheville has ever given any candidate for the mayoralty. He is about 28 years of age, with a keen gray eye and a light blonde moustache, and altogether a typical man for the high position he holds."

TO PRODUCE RAINFALL.

Explosions to Break Long Summer Droughts.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The last congressional appropriation act contained an appropriation of $7,000 to be used in experiments in the production of rainfall. The department is now about to embark in these experiments, having prepared test practically the theory that heavy explosions cause rainfall.

Last evening a preliminary trial was made at a building site in the northern suburb of Washington, and with great violence and the clouds. Whether the subsequent downpour of rain later in the evening was caused by the explosion remains to be seen. The experimenters will try the experiment on a large scale tomorrow to test the efficacy of this means of breaking summer droughts.

HOUSES FLOATING AWAY

A SERIOUS FLOOD IN NORTH-WESTERN IOWA.

No Loss of Life Yet Reported, But Some Appears Probable—A Bridge With the Telegraph Wires Carried Away.

ALTA, Ia., June 25.—C. K. Dixon, superintendent of the Illinois Central railway, who possesses the best of facilities for obtaining the exact facts regarding the reported destruction of property and loss of life in northwestern Iowa, said last night:

"A serious rain storm set in at Cherokee and points north, south and west about 7 o'clock on the evening of the 23d and continued all night, the rain coming down in sheets.

At 3 a. m. the fire alarm sounded, calling every one out. Parties were formed to rescue those living on the flats near the little Sioux river. At 8 a. m. I had not heard of any loss of life. At 8:30 I crossed over the bridge to the east side of the river, shortly afterwards the bridge went out, carrying all the wires. It again commenced raining very hard, and during the day at least seventy-five houses in Cherokee went down the river. I am yet unable to learn anything about the town, as all the bridges are gone, and it is impossible to cross in a boat."

SHO CITY, Ia., June 25.—The terrible rains of last night and this morning have almost devastated this portion of Iowa. No railroads are running trains from this city east, and the Floyd River Valley is inundated for thirty-five miles north of this city. Many houses in Lemars are flooded over the first floor, while the towns of Merrill, Hinton and James are completely submerged. Thirty-five miles of track on the Illinois Central bridge over the river, Omaha and Sioux and Northern are flooded north of this city, with bad washouts at Lemars. The Little Sioux river bottom at Cherokee is entirely inundated and thousands of acres of crops are under water. The water at Cherokee carried away forty houses and barns in the bottom, but no fatalities are reported. At the same place approaches to the Illinois Central bridge over the Sioux are gone. People took to the caves and no one was injured. All the country and railroad bridges were washed out.

HE GETS A REPRISE.

Atlanta's Young Murderer Not Well Enough to be Hanged.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 25.—Gov. Northern this morning respite Ozburn for 30 days, which will postpone his execution till the 25th day of July. The respite was granted on account of Ozburn's critical physical condition, and at the request of a jury which sat yesterday by special summons of the sheriff on the question of the sanity of the prisoner.

Ozburn killed John Bradley, a well known grocery merchant in this city about a year ago. The assault was a most unprovoked one. Ozburn was in the fruit business, and a misunderstanding occurred between himself and Bradley concerning the sale of a barrel of oysters amounting to about four dollars.

Ozburn armed himself, went to a barber shop for a shave and telling the barber that he would fill a coffee mug, proceeded at once to Bradley's store shooting him five times after but few words had passed between them and Bradley retreating while shot.

Bradley was shot in the chest and abdomen, and died a few minutes later. He left a wife and several small children. Ozburn was duly tried and sentenced to be hanged June 25. For the past three months his physical condition has been very bad, diminishing in weight from 180 to about 100 pounds. He has been stimulated with whiskey and morphine and his friends urged that he have his mind. Several physicians have advised that he be confined to an asylum until his mind should be restored, when he would have to be sentenced and executed. The jury, however, after a full investigation declared him sane, but recommended that the governor give him a respite for 30 days on account of his physical condition. This the governor consented to do, and the respite was accordingly issued.

BILL NEE'S COACHMAN.

Arrested on a Charge of Reckless Driving, but Acquitted.

Gustaf Karlson, a Swede, Bill Nee's coachman, was before Recorder Miller this morning on a warrant sworn out by John Fitzgerald, on a charge of reckless driving.

Fitzgerald said that while he was sweeping trash on Patton avenue, Karlson drove his horse against him, striking him in the back of the head, and injuring him slightly.

As Karlson could not speak English plainly, Mr. Nee, who was in the carriage at the time of the alleged accident, related the circumstances. Karlson was driving slowly down the avenue, and Fitzgerald stepped directly in front of the horse with his back toward them. The pole struck him on the head, but the horses were stopped in an instant.

Recorder Miller discharged Karlson and gave Karlson a warning to keep out of the way of passing vehicles.

Governor Boies Renominated.

OTTAWA, Ia., June 25.—Gov. Horace Boies was renominated for governor by the democratic state convention in session here. The greatest interest was manifested in the report of the committee on resolutions. The platform, as finally presented, contained the silver clause of last year and was unanimously adopted without discussion.

THE BREAD NOT RISING

BUT THE BAKERS ARE AND FOR A PURPOSE.

Paris Likely to Get Hungry if This Strike be not settled—A Collision With the Police—Leaders Handed off to Jail.

PARIS, June 25.—A meeting composed of about six thousand bakers took place in this city today. Several speakers addressed the bakers assembled and it was resolved to strike immediately.

The bakers are in arms against the registry offices, and insist, as the price of their returning to work, that these offices shall be suppressed.

After the strike resolutions had been unanimously adopted the bakers who attended the meeting formed into a procession and with much cheering and inflammatory cries, tried to march upon the labor exchange. The procession was headed by a number of leaders and by men who wore aloft banners of the bakers societies. The police, however, gathered in a force across the intended line of march and when the bakers reached a convenient point the officers ordered the procession to disperse and air their alleged grievances in a more orderly manner.

To these propositions the bakers demurred, claiming they had a perfect right to march through the streets to the labor exchange, and insisting that they were only calling attention in an orderly and legal manner to the wrongs from which they suffered. The police refused to take this view of the demonstration and upon attempting to enforce the order to disperse the bakers' procession a free fight between the authorities and the bakers followed and some lively scenes were witnessed.

The police eventually won the day, and scattered the striking bakers, who fled ignominiously through the side streets of the neighborhood, after leaving their leaders in the hands of the policemen, who escorted the prisoners to the guard houses.

NEW LIFE.

It Has Been Put Into Our Trade, Says an Englishman.

LONDON, June 25.—The report of Wm. Lane Booker, the consul-general of Great Britain of New York, upon the trade of that city was published today. Booker, among other things, says that the trade of New York has been influenced by the new and higher duties, which have afforded benefit to American manufacturing interests. New life, he says, has been imparted to the cotton and woolen industry everywhere, but especially in this country, where new mills are being built and old mills are being operated on full time.

The silk industry, Booker says, is the only exception to this state of general prosperity.

The Daily News in its financial article this morning says: "The continued drain of gold from America is gradually tending to the inevitable adoption of a virtual silver standard. Good crops may succeed in recovering a portion of the $12,000,000 of gold already exported this year, but every year brings nearer a time when the silver certificates will be forced into circulation. When the change comes there might be a rush for silver, but it is more likely that the silver already in circulation will suffice for currency purposes with paper. Therefore the idea of an unlimited new demand for silver is unwarranted
