STARTLING FACTS.

When the adulteration of Food Products becomes so general that it is necessary in larger cities to organize associations for the protection of manufacturers and dealers, it is high time the consumer consider well the importance of dealing with reliable houses.

POWELL & SNIDER

Have met with unusual success in their endeavor to establish and maintain a high standard of

Wholesomeness and Purity

In the QUALITY of the goods they sell.

Our large and ever increasing trade is, we think, evidence sufficient to convince all "Doubting Thomases" that we are selling goods at a very low and reasonable rate.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY.

The way to make money is to save it. And the way to save it is to have your prescriptions filled at Carmichael's drug store, and you will find by doing so you will save from 25 to 30 per cent. on every prescription. We do not take goods that the people know the price and mark down to cost, and then charge two prices for a prescription to make up the loss. You know clerk hire and house rent must be paid and the profits must be averaged some way. A hint to the wise is sufficient. A full line of De-Vault Flavoring Extracts in stock. Mr. J. Taylor Amis and Mr. Chas. W. Devault are with me and will be pleased to meet their friends and customers. Don't forget the place. Carmichael's drug store, No. 20 South Main street, Asheville, N. C.

RAPID RAILWAY RUNNING.

FIVE MILES GONE OVER IN FOUR MINUTES.

How the Wreck Near Newton Appeared to a Trained Journalist's Eyes—Mr. Duffy Will Not Edit the "Farmer."

RALPH, July 1.—I had yesterday my first observation of the effect of a railroad wreck, a thing somewhat remarkable when I remember I have been a railroad traveler since I was fourteen years old. I learned at the depot at Asheville that there was some obstruction on the line, and we were an hour behind time in leaving. But nothing was said on the train about the nature of the trouble, and we moved on rapidly until we passed Newton. Then as we approached the second or most eastern of the long trestles near and beyond that town, the train came to a stop, and passengers were notified to leave their cars, and prepare to go around a wrecked train and trestle. The county road, a few yards distant, was filled with vehicles of all kinds, provided by the railroad company. Getting on the most conspicuous trestle and descending a long but gentle hill, I came suddenly in sight of, and almost beneath the wreck of the trestle which had spanned the valley through which the most insignificant streams found its way. The trestle was perhaps two hundred yards long, and in the center three tiers, or about 40 feet high. It was built of sawed timbers, and what was left of it had a substantial appearance. About 8 o'clock in the morning a freight train consisting of two or three box cars, and twelve flat cars loaded with lumber, was crossing, and was on the trestle and trestle had gone suddenly over, when suddenly the trestle behind sunk with a sudden crash, and went to the bottom, carrying the whole of the train with it, and crushing them out of all shape. The cars, their load, trucks and timbers lay in confused flattened mass on the ground. The conductor and a flagman were instantly killed, and a brakeman was hurt. These three were all who were on the train at the time. The scene was a curious and picturesque one. The wrecked trestle and the broken mass was the central figure. The gap between the still standing benches was about two hundred feet, and the gap still remained connected by the rails of one of the tracks, the iron holding them high in the air in a rugged line. The wrecked trestle was a body of forty or fifty vehicles, held in a solid group under the muskets of the guards, until the passenger train passed on. All around were groups of spectators from Newton and the surrounding country, among which were lively beavers of gray who gave an air of unusual vivacity to the scene of terrible and recent tragedy. Among the news-writers at work clearing them away and making ready for repairs, which would be made during the night.

Our run from the wreck to Salisbury was made with surprising rapidity. The work, but it was made safely, and we made the trip from Asheville to Salisbury in six hours notwithstanding detentions. The Charlotte train was waiting, and there was no further delay. The speed was good and in some instances rapid. The distance from High Point to Jamestown, five miles was made in four minutes by the wreck. The time taken during the night and the country has a water soaked look this morning.

Great preparations are being made here for the annual convention of the West. T. W. Mason, one of the railroad commissioners, and an orator of exceptional brilliancy is to deliver the oration. There is to be a military parade, a procession, and a grand fireworks display. The display of fireworks on the south front of the capital square, which is intended to surpass anything of the kind ever seen in this state. The races at the fair grounds will be a grand success, and the only will be worth attention, as a large number of fine horses have been entered.

The work of stringing the trolley wires for the electric road is going on, and the line will be finished long before the opening of the exposition, it is to be hoped.

Among the peculiarly attractive plans to make the exposition popular is a musical festival, to be held under the supervision of Prof. Pauli, of this city. An auditorium to hold six or seven thousand people is to be constructed for the occasion, and a chorus of three hundred voices is being organized.

The railroad commission is in session, and Col. A. B. Andrews has been before it speaking in behalf of his system.

It is announced that Mr. P. F. Duffy will not take charge of the progressive Farmer. A fourteen cent paper is to be the treasury scheme. Col. Polk is doing the editorial work until he finds some one who agrees with him in his views.

AN ELABORATE PLOT.

A Woman and Two Men Plan to Do Murder, It is Alleged.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 2.—Monday July 1st, a colored woman, came from her home, fourteen miles from the city, and surrendered to the sheriff, saying that on Saturday night a man named Ann Stark came to her house and attempted to assault her. In declining her assistance, she was killed her as a salient several blows, splitting his skull and killing him instantly.

Today an officer from the locality in which Stark was killed, brought Joe Bibb, Judy's husband, and Ben Mottel to jail on charge of having committed the murder. It is stated that proof has developed to show a conspiracy between the two men and the woman, murder Stark and then have the woman surrender herself, tell the story of the attempted assault to clear herself and at the same time shielding the real perpetrators of the crime.

Soda Fountain Explodes.

SPARTANBURG, July 2.—As Charles Brede was charging a soda fountain in his confectionery it exploded and severely injured Murray Woodward, a twelve-year-old white boy, who was standing close to it. He was cut in the neck and shoulder and blown over a short distance on the counter. One part of the fountain was driven through the ceiling overhead. Mrs. Brede was very near the fountain, but was not injured. Two showcases were demolished.

Postmaster Arrested.

MADISON, N. C., June 29.—This town is much excited over the arrest today of E. P. Fagg, lately appointed republican postmaster at this place. A United States postoffice inspector, and a United States deputy marshal came here today and arrested Fagg, and he is now in Greensboro to await his trial. He was short $247 with his cash.—State Chronicle.

Noted Desperado Caught.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 2.—The noted Berry Turner, one of the Turner gang of Bell county, Kentucky, was arrested and brought to Knoxville. Turner has killed six persons in his career, and being a woman whom he hit in the head with a ball.

JAMES McHENRY'S DEATH.

Insurance Companies Suspect It Was Caused by Poison.

LONDON, July 2.—It is now said that the late Mr. James McHenry, the well-known financier and old-time Erie railroad litigant, whose body was exhumed June 20 by order of Home Secretary Matthews, was insured in England and the United States for over $5,000,000. The insurance companies are now being asked to pay a certain amount to a certain party, but Mr. McHenry committed suicide by poison, thus rendering void the insurance policies of his life. The body has been reinterred after being subjected to a careful post-mortem examination. The intestines, etc., remain in the possession of the officers or at the home office.

IN WANAMAKER'S NAME.

CONFLICT IN THE P. M. G'S TESTIMONY.

He Is Willing to Appear and Testify Again as to His Holding of Keystone Bank Stock.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 2.—Contrary to the general impression, Postmaster General Wanamaker did not appear before the investigating committee of the council Monday afternoon to explain the apparent discrepancies between his previous testimony relative to his ownership of Keystone bank stock and facts subsequently developed by the books of the bank. The following letter from Mr. Wanamaker was read by Chairman Van Osten:

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—To William B. Van Osten, Dear Sir: It seems to be thought by some that certain evidence offered at the last meeting of your committee is not in harmony with the testimony delivered by me when I appeared before you as a witness.

I assume that your committee fully understands the matter. I, however, there is some information which I should be glad, at twenty-four hours' notice, to meet any member or members of your committee and explain any or every item of my statement or attend any meeting of which I have notice.

John Wanamaker.

The first witness before the committee in the afternoon was S. P. Dunham, president of the Merchants' National bank of Trenton, N. J. Mr. Dunham testified that the bank had loaned Henry H. Yard money on two certificates of the Keystone bank, one of which was in the name of John Wanamaker, and a power of attorney on the bank signed by Mr. Wanamaker. The other was in the name of A. L. Shingle, and the transfer signed by him. The certificate in Wanamaker's name was for $20,000, and the loan was made April 28, 1890, on Yard's personal note.

Edinburgh P. Morris, president of the Girard Trust Company, who was the next witness, testified that the bank had never loaned money to Bardsley or discounted any paper for him, but it had loaned money to Wanamaker upon Keystone bank stock as collateral.

Howard Spencer Jones, a clerk in the employ of Wanamaker, was the next witness. Several of the certificates pledged by Wanamaker to his brokers stood in Jones's name. Jones explained that he suggested the transfer of the certificates at the request of Mr. Wanamaker. He did not know that the stock stood in his name. Jones said that W. A. Sprague, who was named in the certificates, was a way or agent formerly in the employ of Mr. Wanamaker.

A NEW LAKE.

It is Made Out of the Colorado Desert Basin.

YUMA, A. T., July 2.—A desert is being converted into a lake at Salton in a very peculiar manner. The Colorado desert basin, six miles west of Yuma, is being rapidly filled up with fresh water from a subterranean passage believed to be connected with the Colorado river caused by the high waters of last February. At last advances it was converted into a lake.

The Southern Pacific railroad track passes through the basin for more than fifty miles, its lowest point being 200 feet below the sea level. The Colorado river is not far above the sea level of the basin. If the subterranean passage connects with the passage above Yuma, the lake will be over four hundred feet in depth and over fifty miles long. If the waters continue to rise the Southern Pacific track will be submerged for nearly one hundred miles and the great desert of Colorado will be converted into a vast lake.

A fourteen-foot boat with two sailors was sent from San Pedro to Salton last night. From that point a boat provisioned for a week's cruise will sail south and attempt to reach the source of the flow, while Indian runner follows the bank of the river from Yuma. As the water does not come within a mile of the railroad track yet, there is no obstruction to traffic.

Advices from Yuma last night said the water at Salton is rising, and is from fourteen to sixteen inches deep around the salt works. One hundred square miles of fertile soil above the sea level of the flow, while Indian runner follows the bank of the river from Yuma. As the water does not come within a mile of the railroad track yet, there is no obstruction to traffic.

Wants a Free Coinage Democrat.

DENVER, Col., July 2.—In an interview three columns in length Senator Teller makes known his views on the silver question. His views are anti-Harrison from the start, and strongly intimate that a democrat favorable to free and unlimited coinage will be the man he will support in preference to an anti-free coinage republican.

Presidential P. M.'s.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The President has appointed the following named postmasters at offices which were recently raised to the presidential class: Mitchell G. Hall, at Cordele, Ga.; Miss Ella H. Henz, at Elberton, Ga.; Walter C. Shaw, at Hartmann, Tenn.; James P. Edmondson, at Marlville, Tenn.; Eckel H. Gilbert, at Buena Vista, Va.

To Repudiate Parnell.

DUBLIN, July 2.—The Irish Roman Catholic bishops, at a meeting held here yesterday, reaffirmed their former declaration that Parnell was unfit for a leader of the Irish people; that he was unworthy of the confidence of Roman Catholics, and calling upon Irishmen to repudiate him.

Lightning's Deadly Work.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 2.—Mr. Mark Mann and his children were struck by lightning at their home, three miles from Matthews, N. C., Tuesday night, and both were instantly killed. His wife escaped. All three were sitting around the fireplace at the time.

Two Per Cent. Bonds.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—At a cabinet meeting today it was decided to extend the 4 1/2 per cent. bonds at 2 per cent.

A FRIEND OF THE JEWS.

THE PRINCE DOLGORONKOFF DIES IN EXILE.

The Career of the Ex Governor of Moscow as a Confidant of the Czar—He Falls from Grace.

PARIS, July 2.—Prince Dolgoronoff, recently governor of Moscow, died in this city yesterday evening.

Prince Dolgoronoff was, until recently the Czar's intimate and confidential friend and representative of the Czar with pomp and pageantry, giving brilliant balls and dinners, which, as it was said, would have required the purse of Fortunio to keep up for any length of time. Moscow had always been known as a city where the Jews were better treated than in any of the other large cities of the Russian empire, and to the Jews, it has been believed, Prince Dolgoronoff turned for financial aid, and the Jews, in return for the kind treatment they received, poured many roubles into the coffers of the Prince. To these five gifts from the Jews, loans succeeded in the course of time and it was as governor of Moscow and the vice Regent Court of Moscow, presided over by Prince Dolgoronoff, was overwhelmed with debt to the wealthy Jews of Moscow and elsewhere.

After some time reached a climax when, owing possibly to his leniency, due to the fact that he owed the Jews so much money, Prince Dolgoronoff instead of exercising severity against the Jews, allowed them to construct a booth near the cathedral of the Moscow. The czar's indignation at this action upon the part of his confidential friend, the governor of Moscow, is said to have been boundless, and Prince Dolgoronoff's enemies are said not to have been slow in taking advantage of the czar's change of feeling towards the Prince. Some time later explanation was demanded of Prince Dolgoronoff. These explanations do not seem to have satisfied the czar, for shortly afterwards Prince Dolgoronoff was relieved of his duties as governor of Moscow and Duke Sergius, brother of the czar, was appointed governor of Moscow in place of the disgraced prince. The latter seems to have fled to Russia some time later, and to have died practically in exile in Paris, as announced today.

LIKE AN ACTRESS.

Career of the Daughter of a Chicago Millionaire.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—Miss Gertrude Potter, daughter of Orin D. Potter, the millionaire president of the Consolidated Rolling Mills of Chicago and Joliet, is engaged to be married to F. Lee Rust, son of W. A. Rust, who lived here before he moved to Boston. The prospective husband is at Harvard and will graduate next year. He is younger than his beautiful and accomplished fiance, who is twenty-two years old and a belle in North Side society.

Special interest is attached to the engagement on account of the notoriety which Miss Potter gained as a result of her alleged romantic and persistent attachment to Eugene Dunivant, a handsome young newspaper carrier, who lived with his widowed mother a short distance from the Potter mansion.

Miss Potter was arrested in South Chicago, near Mr. Potter's rolling mills, with another youth on a charge of stealing some clothing. He was convicted on his companion's evidence and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. His alleged accomplice pleaded guilty, and although sent to the house of correction for one year was shortly afterward liberated. Dunivant, his family and friends accused Mr. Potter of carrying out a cruel conspiracy which had for its object the separation of the newboy and the millionaire's daughter by imprisoning the young man.
