

ASHEVILLE DAILY CITIZEN. By RANDOLPH-KERR PRINTING CO. THE DAILY CITIZEN, Democratic, is published every afternoon (except Sunday) at the following rates—strictly cash: ONE YEAR, $6.00; SIX MONTHS, $3.50; THREE MONTHS, $2.00; ONE MONTH, $1.00; ONE WEEK, 15c.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1891. A Great Talker. The editor of the Wilmington Messenger thinks "there is no other author of fine parts we would sooner have been intimate with than Lord Macaulay, poet, orator, essayist, historian, statesman and administrator." It is probable, however, that had the editor of the Messenger known Macaulay he would have had to enjoy the great, but misleading, essayist as a talker rather than as a listener. When Macaulay got fairly going at the old Holland house, now years ago, there was no chance for anyone else to get in a word except under breath; and but few wanted to; for of all men of a time when conversation was indeed an art, he was perhaps the leader. But the real Macaulay was the Macaulay of his sister's home circle, and no one can read of that without being convinced that Macaulay was one of the most unselfish souls that ever lived. His works form little of an inspiration except to write in a style that cumbers all pens but the pen that first employed it; while his life is a constant incentive to the very purest, the most self-sacrificing of living.

Ten Cent Car Fares. The street railway company is, of course, the best judge of the necessity, if any exists, for raising the price of riding entirely across the city to 10 cents, and the people who use the cars are the best judges of the probability of their ability to submit to the advance. The company may, and may not, increase its revenue by the advance. At least, however, it looks like a step backward. In other cities transfer tickets are given not only from one part of the city to another, but over different lines, and failure to grant this courtesy has been the signal for a prolonged fight till, generally, one fare ruled. The change is especially unfortunate for the impression it will make on strangers. The fact that the square is made an arbitrary point for demanding another fare will not strike them as inviting; they will see no more reason for paying again because they are going by the court house than because they are passing any other building, and this will be especially true where there is no transfer, as in the case of persons coming from the depot and going down Patton avenue. As for the transfer tickets, they should have been adopted long ago, and probably the absence of these tickets and the abuse of the privileges of the hitherto lax transfer system is somewhat responsible for the advanced rate.

A Changed Statesman. The Charlotte Chronicle recalls the fact that only a few months ago Ingalls said in the Senate: "The south is standing on a volcano. The south is sitting on a safety valve. They are breeding innumerable John Browns and Nat Turners. Already mutterings of discontent of hostile organizations are heard. The use of the torch and the dagger is advised. I deplore it, but as God is my judge, I say that no other people on the face of the earth have ever submitted to the wrongs and injustice which have been for twenty-five years put upon the colored men of the south without revolution and blood." This the Chronicle prints in conjunction with a remark of the shrewd statesman at Atlanta to the effect that "the failure of the Force bill was due to the indifference of the Northern people," and adds that "Ingalls is a changed man. He has too much intellect not to grow."

We see no evidence of growth in this. If Ingalls were to lecture in China we should expect to see him slobber over the Chinese; while a Malay audience would equally excite his admiration if there was a dollar concealed about it anywhere. Mr. Ingalls is an ex-statesman for revenue only; he bears no message, is not even the son-in-law of a prophet with a long look into the future. The Chronicle speaks of Mr. Ingalls' "splendid gifts." The sky rocket and the pin wheel have the same kind. We recall to the Chronicle's memory that when it was announced that Ingalls was to deliver the speech from which it quotes the whole country listened. The senate galleries were crowded with a brilliant audience. The senator began. He continued. He soared. Up, up, up he went. Then came the climax. The situation had been described in fine bursts of word painting; but of course the substance was yet to come. This man of splendid gifts would certainly give a remedy for the national illness he had so picturesquely diagnosed. But the rocket burst with one small show of red and blue fire and the stick came down out in Kansas, where Pfeiffer used it to curl his whiskers on. Mr. Ingalls simply concluded by saying if the South would try for a time treating the negro fairly and if that failed—a plan, mind you, exemplified in every nook and corner of the South long before Ingalls was brilliant—if that plan failed then he, INGALLS, would join with the South in trying something else. Wonderful consummation! Wonderful remedy! Wonderful statesmanship! Great was the rocket! Can it be possible the stick is greater?

Improbable. Special from Greensboro to Washington Post. It has been reported that a meeting has been arranged between ex-Drummer Pike and one of the Schencks, and that a duel is likely to come off. It is also rumored, and probably correctly, that the matter will be brought before the next term of court at this place, and that Pike will sue the Schenck civilly, also, for damages. Wiping a Railroad's Mouth. From the Raleigh Chronicle. Brother Lowry, of the Mount Airy News, was seen by Joe Caldwell's son standing on the C. F. and Y. V. railroad wiping its mouth.

ALLEN G. BIGELOW. Tribute to His Memory Where He Was Well Known. Buffalo (N. Y.) Times editorial, Sunday. Thousands of hearts throughout Western New York will be saddened this beautiful Sunday morning by the announcement of the death of Allen G. Bigelow. This untimely event occurred in Asheville, N. C., late yesterday afternoon, and was due to consumption, the insidious approach of which he vainly hoped to counteract by refuge to a climate less aggravating to pulmonary complaints than is to be found in this section. For a young man Mr. Bigelow had written his name high on the scroll of honor. His talents were of the brightest and shone equally well in verse and prose. He was an honored contributor to the best of the American magazines and his productions always found a prominent place in their pages. His work in this city was chiefly done on the Telegraph and later on the Express. Here it was less easily identified, but nevertheless partook of that high order of excellence which always characterized his efforts in whatever direction employed. His friends, who were legion, watched his career upward with warm hearted interest and justly hoped for his future. Musical and social circles, in which he was a bright, shining ornament, will unite with his journalistic comrades in mourning his loss. It can truly be said of Allen Bigelow that "none knew him but to love, none named but to praise." Possessing a winning, lovable disposition, high-principled in all his acts, ever considerate of the feelings of others, he was the embodiment of a Christian and a gentleman, and his loss will long be felt and deeply mourned. His sorrow-stricken wife and bereaved little ones will have the kindest sympathy of thousands, which, while it may not be expressed in words, will nevertheless be felt in their heart of hearts.

'Twill be Good to be There. The editor of the Oxford Day will recite Julius Caesar in Stokes Hall next Saturday night. In the language of Eli Perkins, the cheerful and energetic liar, seats nearest the door will be reserved for the particular friends of the speaker. The Day man will also impersonate King Richard as many times as he feels like it. Three times is about as far as a loud-throated actor ever gets—Durham Globe. The editor of the Durham Globe is too modest. He omits to mention the part he will take in the exercises. Col. Fair brother will essay Mark Anthony, and will borrow the audience's ears and forget to return them—Oxford Day.

They're Kicking Hard. From the Kings Mountain News. THE ASHEVILLE CITIZEN sometime ago credited some of the News' brilliant matter to the Winston Sentinel, and last week the Rocky Mount Argonaut copied entire our description of the Catawba Mines' new mill and credits it to the Concord Times. The News can stand it, but what are Poy and Sherrill going to do about it? LEMON ELIXIR. Pleasant, Elegant, Reliable. For biliousness and constipation, take Lemon Elixir. Jan 7eod. Simmons Liver Regulator has never been known to fail to cure all liver diseases.

How's Your Liver? Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, depondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy. NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED. As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc. I hardly ever see anything else, and have never seen, disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the stomach and bowels. W. J. McKeen, M.D., Boston. Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine. A. M. FIELD, LEADING JEWELER. All Goods And Work Guaranteed. South Main Street.

THE BESOM OF DESTRUCTION WILL SWEEP OVER BLUE RUIN ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 15TH, 1891. That picturesque and romantic ruin known as the Deaver corner which has attracted the wonder of all strangers and baffled the fancy of all architects, which has established a world-wide reputation as a resort of rodents and which has been haunted by Mein Herr Freck and other spirits for centuries past, will be struck violently by the hand of demolition ON THE 15TH INST. Eagle street is to be widened and built to an established grade, and in order to lend a charm to this work and to raise revenue to defray the expenses of the same I shall offer for sale at auction lots 42, 59, 60 and 55 on Eagle street. These are among the dearest lots on earth and maps showing their size and location can be seen in any real estate office in the city. I am aware that money is very scarce just now but I know men who if they can't borrow or manufacture money will commit highway robbery or even burglary in order to get money to buy lots within a few feet of the public square and on the main thoroughfare between the general business center and the tobacco center of the city. Terms, $100 spot cash; $400 within ten days from date of sale, balance in five or any less number of equal annual instalments. The bidding will BEGIN AT 5 O'CLOCK in the afternoon and at 6 o'clock the crowd will be invited to a free ride on the Montford avenue cars as far as West Chestnut street, where lot 17, block 3, will be sold at auction. What Penetree is to Atlanta, Euclid Avenue to Cleveland, Summit Avenue to St. Paul, Montford Avenue will be to Asheville—the widest, best built and best kept residential street of the city; the resort of fashion and the abode of wealth. People from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Montreal and both branches of the United Service have located in this quarter, and have already gone to work beautifying their grounds and building handsome houses. A feature worthy of special remark is the congregation on this Avenue of actual and expectant bridegrooms. Five are already seated there, and if any young man is prosecuting a difficult and doubtful suit, the title to a commanding slope on this Avenue is apt to be effective with the young lady, and perhaps convincing to the mother-in-law. TERMS ON THIS LOT: $100.00 Spot Cash. $600 WITHIN TEN DAYS FROM DATE OF SALE. Balance in five or any less number of equal annual instalments. Richmond Pearson.
