YES!

I buy my Groceries, Provisions, Feed, etc., from this house, they always give me good fresh goods and sell at prices as low or lower than any other. I have always found them reliable and have no cause for complaint, and would most certainly advise you to give them a trial, as I believe they will make it to your interest to trade with them.

WALCH-PLUNDER.

You cannot blame the juvenile fingers that find their way into a barrel filled with your groceries; in fact it would be a mystery if you could keep them out.

If there is anything in the world that should be sold at popular prices, it is what goes into the kitchen.

That which you cannot do without ought to be purchasable at the slightest possible advance over cost of production and we are guided by this principle in every sale we make. Whenever we can see our way clear to marking down prices that is what we promptly do, respectfully.

SHE'S GOT 'EM.

And she has a prize at that. An indifferent hat is hard to get along with, a bad hat is a positive nuisance. The peculiar thing about it is that what a bad hat costs you, will buy a good one. It requires considerable nerve to face the world under the best of circumstances; it requires much more than considerable nerve to face it in an execrable hat. The man who has brains will cover them with good material. While you are about it you might as well get what is absolutely sure to become you. Fall styles in the best, reliable makes now in, and I am sure to suit you. I am not trying to precipitate a financial disaster, but for $3.00 you can buy a stiff hat warranted to give satisfaction and of the latest Fall shape.

RE-UNION OF VETERANS.

SURVIVORS OF COMPANY K IN

CAMP.

A Large Number of People Participate in the Exercises Yesterday—Dr. Carroll's sermon to the veterans.

For three days, including today, the surviving veterans of Company K, 11th North Carolina veterans, have been in camp on the bank of the Swannanoa river, just above the water works.

As guests of Company K, was Col. J.

M. Ray, of the 60th, and a considerable body of his old command, and also a number of survivors of other commands, making altogether a body of upwards of one hundred men again gathered on the "tinted field," not to fight new battles or be stirred "by war's alarms," but to fight old battles over again, to recall old times, tell old stories, sing old songs, mourn lost comrades, and dedicate each other that they had been spared to meet each other again.

Such scenes are always touching, they are always interesting and they are always instructive. They are touching, because they tell of the ravage of war and the havoc of battle presenting as with the titanic remnant of those exposed to death, standing here before us maimed and battle scarred, living evidences of the dangers they survived, living proof of the perils through which they had passed. They are interesting because they are present links in the chain of a momentous history fast fading in the distance of living years, and in its personality kept alive only by the presence of those who helped to make it. And they are instructive because they remind us of the causes which brought about the conflict and teach us how sternly the principles of constitutional liberty will always be contended for by the American people.

And their presence, cheerful, happy and prosperous, though some of them old, worn and maimed, tell of that enviable and honorable American trait which submits with manly fortitude to the issue of battle, whether of bullet or ballot, and magnanimously and faithfully abides by results, a trait which has made possible as it could have been nowhere else on earth, that speedy effacement of the scars of war, and the restoration of a prosperity in excess of what was before enjoyed.

Readers of THE CITIZEN on Saturday enjoyed the address of Maj. Steiman, an honored member of Company K, of the 11th. It was impressively delivered, and had not only the warm appreciation of millions of the many others fortunate enough to hear it.

The occasion was a most happy one, and suggests the renewal of it by the survivors of the commands in this section.

The event of the day yesterday was the sermon at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. D. Carroll, D. D., of this city. A large number of people, estimated at between 1,200 and 1,500 attended, and listened to and enjoyed the discourse. It was beautiful in sentiment, appropriate, and delivered in Dr. Carroll's elegant style. The memory of his words will linger long with not the "old veterans" alone, but every within sound of his voice.

Dr. Carroll's subject was "Enduring for Christ," from the text:

And who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?—1 Chron.

appeared unto him in the heavens the sign of the cross, bearing this inscription:
