

ASHEVILLE DAILY CITIZEN. By RANDOLPH-KERR PRINTING CO. THE DAILY CITIZEN, Democratic, is published every afternoon (except Sundays) at the following rates—strictly cash:

Nicaragua has granted the Louisiana lottery company a perpetual charter. The world is constantly growing better even in Nicaragua, and the day will surely come when the Louisiana lottery company will be fired out of that country as it has been from the United States.

At the meeting, on Washington's birthday and in New York, who for some time has been connected with the News and Observer, will go to Denver, Colorado, as the representative of the Duke cigarette company, Mr. Richard Battle going from Denver to Australia, as the company's representative in the latter country.

Representative Springer, of Illinois, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, says: "The democracy of New York have but one candidate and for him their delegation has been instructed to vote as a unit with an unanimity rarely witnessed in state conventions. However much the friends of Cleveland in the other states may regret this action they must accept it as final. It would be folly for the other states to insist upon Cleveland's nomination when his own state has unanimously declared for another. If Cleveland's name is to be presented to the next democratic convention it must be presented by this state. He must come out at the front door if at all."

There is unquestionably force in this, but it is noticeable that Mr. Springer does not go on, as might have been expected from what we have quoted, to declare that Senator Hill, who is knocking at "the front door" with a persistence perhaps never before shown in a man seeking the high office of president of the United States, is the coming nominee. By no means. The fact that Hill has been endorsed by New York has little weight with Mr. Springer except as disposing of Cleveland's candidacy. Mr. Springer is for Palmer, of Illinois. Well, Palmer is a good man and would make a good president. So would Gray. So would Carlisle. Then there is Boies, of Iowa; and Russell, of Massachusetts; and Gorman, of Maryland; and others. But if Cleveland should be presented and voted for by some twenty states and Hill by five or six, the question is, would not their combined front doors at least equal those of Hill, or is New York the dictator of the democracy and Tammany the only safe selector of candidates?

A Splendid Monument. There has just died in New York city a man who had served thirty-three years in various prisons and who will nevertheless be remembered for the good he did, and that too in the face of tremendous obstacles. Michael Dunn, a criminal since his twelfth year, drifted into the famous McCauley mission in New York one night. He was then fifty-two years old, just out of the state penitentiary and, as usual, bent on mischief. But though he went in to scoff, he remained to pray. He came out of the mission a repentant criminal, and, after most disheartening experiences in his attempts to earn an honest living, resolved to devote his life to founding homes for discharged criminals, places where they could have at least an abiding place till they had earned the confidence of the community and could again secure a livelihood among their fellow men. What personal distress Dunn underwent in his work he could seldom be induced to speak about when the writer met him some six years ago, for his face was ever turned toward the future except when pointing out to some such criminal as he himself had been the straight and narrow way he had already trod and so much suffering but with, as he would say, so great a reward, his own reformation and a belief in a glorious immortality. To criminals he preached the doctrine of the all-saving power of Christ, and also the doctrine of hard work. Ex-convicts who came to the homes that he had founded and to which they were invited were taught some useful trade and were paid such wages as they could earn till they could go out into the world again and hold up their heads, asking charity of no man.

This was Michael Dunn's life work; and it is probable that he was the means of reforming thousands of criminals. For himself he sought no notoriety. The last ten years of his life were years of self-sacrifice, and he died poor in one of the homes for ex-convicts he had founded. It is pleasant to be able to add that the work he started will probably go on as he would wish it to be ever alive to oversee it. In many of the cities where he founded his "Homes of Industry," as he called them, others, generally women, have taken up the cause and will see that it does not suffer.

The earthly monument of Michael Dunn, ex-convict, is high and broad and deep, founded in love for fallen man and in a certainty of a blessed hereafter. His heavenly monument—who shall measure it?

We are All Mighty Sorry. From the Durham Globe. Grip has got him—and it has got his wife. Mrs. Fairbrother has gone to Henderson where, with her motherly watchful care, she will recuperate. The old man has been unfortunate—he has been unable to secure help until today. Mr. R. E. White, the kind and affable secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who can write, has told us that he will run the paper until some of us get better. We might, before he writes his stuff, explain that grip is a curse, but we will still and let people experience it to know what it is.

How? By taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the world's greatest remedy for all kinds of diseases peculiar to women. It brings back tone and vigor to the system weakened by those distressing complaints known only to women, which make life such a burden. It restores relaxed organs to a normal condition. It fortifies the system against the approach of disease, which often terminate untold in misery, and if not in death—which preferable to the pain and torment of living, in many instances. It is the great gift of scientific skill and research to women, and for it she cannot be too grateful. It cures her ill when nothing else can. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or price ($1.00) returned. Absolutely sold on trial!

PREACHERS' WORDS.

—Wilkesboro Chronicle: "We learn that in a certain portion of our county last week two preachers got into a disallowing race—strictly cash: One Year.....$6.00 Six Months.....3.00 Three Months.....1.50 One Month......50 One Week......15 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1892.

—Raleigh correspondence Wilmington Messenger: There is a powerful reason why the state democratic convention should not be held, this year at least, anywhere west of Raleigh. The majority of the eastern people have found the times so hard financially that they can not afford the expense of a long trip. The convention must be near to insure a full attendance.

—Alamance Gleaner: Mrs. Martha King died near McRay, on the 2d inst., aged 104 years, one month and sixteen days. Knaton, Fred Press, Mrs. Lettie Ervin died in Pink Hill township Monday night. She was a aged lady, about ninety-eight years old.

—New Bern Journal: It is announced that the Atlantic hotel, at Morehead, during the coming season, will be under the management of a noted Chicago hotel man, Mr. Frank O. Clark.

—Durham Sun: Evangelist Fife has decided to move from Fayetteville to a more central point in the state. He favors Charlotte, Durham or Raleigh as a more convenient place to locate.

—The authorities of Salem have disposed of their bonds successfully, the entire $50,000 being sold by the Baltimore Trust and Guarantee company, netting the sum of $50,087.50.

—Governor Holt's daughter, Mrs. A. W. Haywood, will perform the ceremony of christening the United States ship Raleigh, some time in April, Governor Holt will be present.

—Governor Holt has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of A. T. Wright, the man who so brutally murdered Daniel Smith week before last Richmond county.

—T. L. Giles, a prominent citizen of Tryon shops Davidson county, died of pneumonia in the fifty-sixth year of his age.

DREAMING OF HOME. It comes to me often in silence, When freighted spatters low— When the bleak uncertain shadows Seem wreaths of the long ago; Always with a throbbing heartache That thrills each pulsive vein, Comes the old, quiet longing For the peace of home again.

I'm sick of the rear of cities, And of faces cold and strange; I know where there's warmth of welcome, And my yearning fancies range Back to the dear old homestead, With an aching sense of pain, But there'll be joy in the coming, When I go home again.

When I go home again! There's music That never may die away, And it seems the hands of angels, On a mystic harp, at play, Have touched with a yearning sadness A beautiful broken strain, And slowly the autumn shadows Come drifting, drifting in, Sobbing, the night wind murmurs To the splash of the autumn rain; But I dream of the glorious greeting When I go home again. —Eugene Field in the Chicago News.

PROTESTING DELEGATIONS. One May go to Chicago to "Warn" Against Hill. From the Lenox Topics. The opponents of Senator Hill had in clear a right to call and to hold the great Cooper Union meeting in New York to protest against the early convention. No man can gainsay them that right. They met as loyal democrats and did not say "bolt" once. They will call no bolting convention. They will simply send a large delegation of visitors to Chicago to protest against Senator Hill's nomination. They have a right to do that too. They have good precedents for it. In 1876 Tammany sent such a delegation to the democratic national convention, and John Kelly, as its spokesman, arose in the convention and offered a formal protest and warning against nominating Mr. Tilden. Again in 1884 Tammany sent a like delegation to protest against Mr. Cleveland's nomination.

Lincoln and Greeley. From Caldwell's Chronicle. Lincoln was a great man, a great intellectual force and a man of great kindness of nature. He and Horace Greeley, two of the characters which the war made most conspicuous, and two of the best abused men of that unhappy period, were about the two best characters that the war developed in the North. Lincoln was wholly without malignity, and no nobler sentiment ever sprang in the heart of man than that which prompted Greeley to exclaim, during the tendency of secession and the declamation of war, "Let the wayward sisters go in peace."

He is too honest. From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican. Gentlemen of the republican party, thoughtful voters of the old and honest rank and file, why not Graham?

O, woman, despairing and wretched, Dreading, yet longing, to die, Hear the glad chorus that rises, Filling the dome of the sky; "Sisters, be glad, there's help to be had; No longer be miserable, gloomy and sad; Lost health regain," rings out the refrain, "Poor creatures, be healthy and happy again."

A LITTLE HIGH. That is the way some people like their game. However, few people want even a picture of Asheville that way. Appreciating that fact and ever desirous of saving the people money (while making some for ourselves) THE CITIZEN has purchased the exclusive right to sell the VIEWS of Asheville (which have been sold at $5 each) for a paid-in advance subscription to THE DAILY CITIZEN. That is, you pay us $3 for six months, and we will give you a superb picture of Asheville FREE. That's a telling offer—or ought to be. You get THE CITIZEN at the usual rate and the picture besides, and we get the interest on your $3 and the pleasure that comes of being liberal. If you want extra copies of THE PICTURE to send away that matter can probably be arranged at the business office of THE CITIZEN. But first we must have the paid-in-advance subscription of $3. That's fair. N. B.—You can take your choice of the pictures, those on thin or those on thick paper. The former are best to send away; the latter are the best to frame.

The Asheville Tobacco Works. Asheville, North Carolina. President John M. Campbell. Secretary and Treasurer Fred A. Hull. Attorney C. M. Stedman. DIRECTORS: JOHN M. CAMPBELL, Real Estate Dealer; CHAS. M. STEEDMAN, Ex-Lieut. Governor and Lawyer; C. C. McCARTY, Tobacconist; FRED A. HULL, Manufacturer; WRIGHT STEEDMAN, Manufacturer.

Authorized Capital $50,000. ASHEVILLE TOBACCO WORKS, Manufacturers of Plug, Fancy Smoking Tobacco and Cigarettes. The Asheville Tobacco Works, a corporation created under the laws of North Carolina, was organized for the manufacture of plug and smoking tobacco three years ago, and has done a prosperous business with an ever increasing trade. The orders that come in for tobacco are carefully looked over and goods are only shipped to those parties well rated and known to be solvent.

Two grades of cigarettes will be made—medium and best. The medium grade will be sold at about $5.50 per thousand, the best at about $5.00. Comparing the cost of making and the price per thousand it will be seen that the average profit is $2.30 per thousand. For a legitimate, safe business, with quick returns and a large profit the cigarette business offers an opportunity seldom had, and it must be kept in mind that the Asheville Tobacco Works has had in its display a good business judgment in securing this machine when other large companies were begging for it. Proposals have already been made to our company to lease the machine on a royalty.

STATEMENT OF THE ASHEVILLE TOBACCO WORKS. RECEIPTS: Cash on hand $776.70, Real estate 7,769.78, Insurance 184.97, National Bank Asheville 150.00, Western Carolina Bank 2,000.00, J. W.
