EVERY DEPARTMENT COMPLETE.

Don't cry hard times when you can buy goods for half price. Buy everything you need in our line from us, and thereby save 25 to 50 per cent. you would pay to other houses who do a credit business.

The secret of low prices is "spot cash for all our goods—and spot cash before they leave the house." We avoid the necessity of having a bookkeeper and then paying 10 per cent to a collector. By selling for cash we march to the tune of (Sweet Home) Cash.

Cho—Cash, cash, good hard cash;

There's nothing so powerful

As clean, solid cash.

Try and be convinced.

THE BIG RACKET

A BRILLIANT RING.

We are showing some of the daintiest novelties ever displayed in jewelry. It would be easier to tell you what we haven't got than what we have. If you haven't seen our elegant trifles in gold and in silver, there is a treat awaiting you, and, whether you have purchases in mind or not, you should not miss them. It is difficult to resist going into details—we are strongly tempted to describe some of the exquisite products of the season's art, some of which show that the caprices of fashion are apt to be wonderfully charming, but you'll get a much better idea if you come and look for yourself.

HIS HEAD WAS CUT OFF

HOW MURDERERS IN PARIS ARE SERVED.

Louis Anastay, the Murderer of His Benefactor, Killed According to Due Process of Law This Morning.

PARIS, April 9.—Louis Anastay, ex-sub lieutenant, who murdered his benefactors, Baroness Dollard, on December 4th last, was executed in the Place de la Roquette at 5:10 this morning.

In accordance with the French custom the condemned man had no knowledge that he was to meet his death this morning until the prison officials entered his cell and told him to prepare for execution. The guillotine was erected directly in front of the jail.

Knowledge of the tragedy that would be enacted this morning had reached the general public through the erection of the guillotine and the usual crowd of sight-seers, composed mostly of the dregs of the city, were present to witness the fate of the condemned.

Anastay walked to the guillotine without displaying any great amount of nervousness. In fact, his bearing was firm. He was very pale, however, and it was apparent that he had steeled himself against the ordeal. He laughed as he reached the guillotine, but his laughter was caused by nervousness and not by any lack of appreciation of his awful position. When he arrived at the place of death the preliminaries were quickly completed. Anastay embraced the chaplain, who had administered the last rites of the church to him and bade him farewell. The executioner met with not the slightest resistance from the prisoner, and the latter was soon bound and thrown upon the bascule, the sliding beam which carries the knife, and beneath the knife. In almost less time than it takes to write, Anastay was pushed forward until his neck rested upon the black beneath the razor-like blade suspended above him. There was a quick, whirring sound as the heavy knife dropped, and the head of the murderer fell into the basket placed to receive it.

BABY MCKEE'S BILLY GOAT.

He Almost Causes Possibilities in the White House.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Baby McKee has a billy goat. About a week ago the idol of the White House took it into his curly head that he wanted a billy goat and a little red wagon. He toddled to the president's private room, confident of having his wish gratified. His grandfather patted him on the head and told him that he would give him pretty nearly everything, but a billy goat, never. But the baby burst into tears. The president gave in, called a messenger and told him to go out and purchase a mild-eyed goat of the William gender.

In the course of a few hours the messenger returned with the brightest little red wagon you ever saw, a full set of harness, and with a sad eyed billy goat with whiskers so long that everyone immediately dubbed him Senator Puffer.

The senator was assigned a suite of rooms in the White House stable, where a little later Willis, the squint-eyed coachman, made his acquaintance. The goat greeted him firmly by giving him the first degree in masonry. Willis, in recognition to this, but seeing that the billy was about to renew his peculiar greeting wisely concluded not to stay and argue the matter.

Willis climbed astraddle the White House fence, near the big carriage entrance, but when he attempted to get down on either side his goatship ran quickly through the gate, preparing to renew the controversy.

By this time the White House people were aroused and two gardeners were dispatched to capture the goat and rescue the unfortunate Willis. The coachman went immediately into the White House and presented his ultimatum, declaring that he or "His Whiskers," as he disrespectfully called Baby McKee, should go.

The president didn't know what to do. He did not want to lose his favorite coachman, and he could not send the billy goat away. Secretary Hanford suggested a renewal of the modus vivendi, but the coachman insisted that he would never again enter the stable while the billy goat remained.

A compromise was finally effected, however, by providing a miniature stable for the new member of the White House stable under the portico of the executive mansion.—N. Y. Herald.

NEARLY HUMAN CRIES.

An Unusual Accident in Raleigh Thursday.

RALEIGH, April 9.—Thursday night Kemp P. Johnson, a man 22 years old, a native of Harnett county, drove a young lady to her home in a buggy. On his return to the city he was ahead of a street car and suddenly turned his horse across the track at St. Mary's school. The car cut down a wheel of the buggy, and the horse, which was already uncontrollable, ran away, throwing Johnson against a telephone pole. He was picked up in a nearly unconscious condition and taken to the car. It was thought at first that he had suffered concussion of the brain, but today he is reported to be in no danger.

The horse, a fine animal, ran down Hillsboro street toward the capitol and within a block of it struck a telegraph pole with such a terrific force. He turned a complete somersault and his back was broken. For three hours efforts were made to do something for the poor animal, but to no purpose. His cries could be heard for a block and were nearly those of a human being in great suffering. At 2 o'clock the horse died.—Charlotte Observer.

Starving Peasants Sell Their Girls

St. Petersburg, April 8.—In Kleff the selling of children by their parents is said to be carried on daily. A peasant named Gaisnik, who had eaten all his grain and his cow and was starving, sold on Monday his eight-year-old daughter for 6 roubles. In the village of Nemiroff girls of eight years are offered for 5 roubles and girls of five years for 3 roubles. A dozen of thirteen and fourteen years have been offered this week for 10 roubles each.

RUSHING THE HOWLER.

TO THE CARS

AT REVENUE ADVISORS.

The Latter Were on Time, but the Former Were Not.

A meeting of the joint board of aldermen and advisors was scheduled for yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock. At that hour, however, nobody showed up except Advisors Scott, Sumney, Conant and Cummings and Aldermen Leonard and Waddell. Although a majority of the advisory committee were present there were not the necessary four aldermen. Mr. Brevard was on his way home from New York, Mr. Guder was returning from Raleigh, while Messrs. Starnes and McDowell were playing the trout act somewhere in the city. Mr. Blanton was in Marion.

After waiting some time the faithful six adjourned to south court place, where they discussed at length the water question, the road roller, and the architectural appearance of the First National bank building. Mr. Sumney, in his own attractive style, related how, in days gone by, he had engaged in the con skin traffic.

This little informal yet thoroughly pleasant session finally broke ranks about four o'clock, after becoming convinced that the missing members were not coming.

The missing members did turn up, but it was about 5 o'clock this morning. A short council was held in the clerk's office. The widening of South Main street was to have been considered, but those present desired the matter brought up at a full meeting. They agreed to allow W. B. Gwyn to use the city's road scraper, the daily rental being fixed at $1. A few bills were passed on, and the aldermen adjourned.

RECORDER'S COURT.

Two Cases for His Honor's Consideration Today.

Katie Mullins, who is Irish, was before Recorder Miller this morning charged with having been disorderly. Patrolman Guder testified that Katie, who is a nurse employed by Mr. Berman, the Montford avenue groceryman, came up to him last night and asked to be shown the street car. The officer took her to the "Redline" car, and as soon as she was seated she began swearing. The conductor notified Guder that the woman would have to be taken off the car. Patrolman Nolan took charge of the woman, and Guder took care of the baby, which she was carrying.

It seems that Katie has a grudge against Guder because he arrested her some time ago. When she was tried this morning she kissed the Bible and gave her testimony in a brogue unmistakable and rich. She heaped contempt on the officer's head and declared that she had had only a pinch of "phwusky wid a mite of soda water."

But Recorder Miller fined her $3. Katie at first declared that she would go to jail before she would pay, and fell to berating Guder again. She talked until she got into a real good humor, then paid her fine and left with a "top of the marmite" to Mr. Miller.

Mary Dohbins, colored, and Roxie Hemphill, white, were up for fighting down in Cripple Creek. They did not deny it, and were allowed to pay $2.50 each.

ROBBERY AT LUTHER'S.

A Quantity of Clothing Taken From S. J. Luther's Store.

J. C. Curtis, who was in the city to-day, told THE CITIZEN of a robbery which occurred at Luther's, a small town on the Murphy road, about thirteen miles from Asheville, last night. The store and postoffice, run by S. J. Luther, was entered by thieves, entrance being effected by boring a hole through the weatherboarding and unlatching the door from the inside.

The thieves made off with a quantity of clothing and dry goods. There were two cash drawers in the store, one of which had not been in use for some time. This was broken open, but there was nothing in it. The other drawer had about $6 in it, but was not disturbed.

The store of Prof. Thompson, at Candler's, was also visited, though not broken open. Two suspicious characters have been seen in that neighborhood for several days, and many think they are the men who have committed the robberies.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

The Committee From the Joint Board Ready to Report.

The report of the committee appointed from the joint board to investigate and report on the matter of an increased water supply for the city of Asheville, is now complete. It would have been presented to the board yesterday afternoon had a meeting been held. It will, therefore, come up at the next meeting. The report is an exhaustive one, the committee going over the ground thoroughly in their endeavor to get the best thing available. It is a unanimous report, every one of the six members having signed it. The committee is composed of Aldermen Starnes, Leonard and Brevard, and Advisors Scott, Cummings and Conant.

SPEAK FOR CLEVELAND.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRATS WANT HIM.

Their Resolutions Do Not Pledge the Delegation, But They Come Near Enough to It to Answer the Purpose.

BOSTON, Mass., April 9.—In the democratic state convention yesterday the following plank in the platform caused great enthusiasm and some contention:

"We believe that the national convention to which we are to elect delegates should nominate candidates whose views on the great public questions are strictly in accord with party principles and fully understood by the people. While adhering to our time-honored custom, we do not specially pledge our delegation; yet we declare our conviction that the best interests of the party and of the country demand the nomination and election of Grover Cleveland as president, and we are confident that under his leadership the principles of democracy will again win glorious victory."

The resolutions were rapturously applauded, and when the name of Grover Cleveland was uttered there was great excitement. There were some hisses, but the convention was plainly in sympathy with the spirit of the resolutions and they were finally adopted, after an amendment commending Senator Hill had been prevented and withdrawn.

The platform declares that the national democratic party is for honest money, a currency of gold and silver, every dollar of which shall be of equal intrinsic value all over the world.

THE USUAL RESULT.

Lieut. Heatherington Killed the Englishman for Cause.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—News was received at the navy department this morning that Lieut. J. H. Heatherington, U. S. N., had been acquitted by the consular court on the charge of killing Gower Robinson, an Englishman, at Yokohama about two months ago. The cablegram was from Commander John R. Bartlett, commander of the Marion.

This action settles the case finally as there is no other tribunal than the consular court that has jurisdiction in such a matter.

Heatherington, it will be remembered, is the lieutenant in the navy who killed Robinson, a prominent member of the English colony, on the ground that the latter had been unduly intimate with Mrs. Heatherington. She was living at the time at Yokohama, her husband being attached to the Asiatic squadron.

It is said that Robinson made what amounted practically to a confession to Rear Admiral Bellamy, and Heatherington's act was approved by the foreign residents who were familiar with the circumstances.

DANIEL'S ORATION.

A Magnificent Reception to the Confederate Veterans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—The reception at the opera house to the confederate veterans yesterday afternoon was a magnificent one. Visiting confederates of different states occupied boxes and held aloft a banner of their states. Mrs. Davis and Miss Winnie also occupied a box. Gov. Nichols, of Louisiana, made a short address of welcome to the veterans, and Senator J. W. Daniel, of Virginia, delivered a masterly and eloquent address which occupied nearly two hours. He discussed the causes of the war. He thought the record and lessons of the confederacy would live in history and praised the bravery and spirit of reconciliation on both sides. He closed with an appeal for the memorial temple at Richmond, of which the figure of Jefferson Davis shall be in the center, surrounded by the relics of war and men who participated in it.

THE OLCOTT PLAN.

Its Prospects Brightening—Will Probably go Into Effect.

NEW YORK, April 8.—There was a rush to deposit the Richmond Terminal securities under the Olcott plan yesterday and the prospects of the plan have materially brightened. In fact it is now probable that a majority of the Richmond Terminal securities will be deposited before April 14, and that the plan will then be declared effective.

If this is done the syndicate will then be called on for its subscriptions of $1,000,000, and the progress of re-organization will be more rapid. There were heavy dealings in the committee's receipts, which helped to improve the general sentiment, receipts selling at about the same price as the securities.

The Cotton Bagging Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—In the house this morning after the routine business the river and harbor appropriation bill was reported by Mr. Blanchard of Louisiana and placed upon the calendar. Consideration of the cotton bagging bill was then resumed and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania made a brief speech in opposition to its passage.

New School Building.

The school committee at a meeting last night directed Architect Wills to prepare plans for a school building to take the place of the one now used by the Montford avenue school. It will be erected on the site of the old building, and will be a modern structure in every particular.

Wild Brazil Never Be at Rest?

LONDON, April 9.—A special despatch from Buenos Ayres says the political situation in Rio Janeiro is considered critical. The streets of the city were patrolled last night by cavalry in addition to armed police.
