"On Tuesday morning before the elec tion I went to Mr. Clayton upon suggestion of b. 1.1 Alaxander, and asked Mr. Clayton as to his position on the liquor question, as there was some op-position to him because of an idea that he was a 'license' man Mr. Clayton told me that he was not a candidate for re-election, and further, that, whenever the question is submitted to the board, and I am sure we have the authority, I will vote against license.'" "After the first ballot," Mr. Jones said,

I received this note from Mr. Clayton: Withdraw my name in favor of R. L. Patton, of Swannanon township, and oblige: I voted for Mr. Clayton al-though he had declared that he was not a candulate, and I am sure that when ever the commissioners are empowered to refuse license he will vote against granting license to anyone. The state-ment that he received votes by promising to vote against license does Mr Clayton an injustice, and I red it my duty to state what I know to be the facts in the matter."

MR. CLAYTON'S POSITION.

He Acted as He Thought He Was Legally Compelled to.

EDITOR THE CITIZEN:-Are you s prejudiced as to not give space in your olumns to one whom you have been denouncing so bitterly? I hope not. Then promose to make some statements, and can prove all I say.

First, I want to say that the' Tattler' n saving I begged votes for my election as commissioner, and promised to your against license, more organized by false statements. Two magistrates of the county, namely: Ham Felnot and T. J. Carland, asked me before the election of commissioners how I stood on the liquor raffie. My reply was: When I get to license, I will certainly vote no license. Some said it would ruin the town, bu that I did not care; it would save the people, and they could build another These gentlemen can tell you and these notes can be produced. And here, I thank my friend, Mr. Reynolds, for his card in THE CITIZEN corroborating

So you see your "Tattler," as you call him, is off. Again your columns say the two accedness of some of the commissioners does not command the respect of any me. I can say that I never intentionally misled any one, and any one saying the contrary states an absolute falsehood. Now to corroborate my statements: Any one is at liberty to ask Mr. J. E. Rankin and Mr. M. E. Carter what was property have appeared. could not do that as the corporation of Asheville had fixed that by a majority voting license wet. Then I demanded the advice of the county attorney, Mr. M. E. Carter, thinking and hoping to find some flaw whereby I could stop the license. Mr. Carter looked up the law, and ex-Judge Moore, being present, and Thos. Jones, counsel for plaintiffs, who were against a bar room on l'atton avenne, all conceded that the law would force the commissioners to grant a li eense; that the corporation had voted it, and the con missioners had no discretion except as to location and how many bars it would take to supply the demand. Then I took the ground that it was not demanded. Mr. Carter advised that we had no discretion there. So I did not propose to let it be made a monopoly of when there were various parties apply what he quotes me as saying was on never heard a single voice from that por ing for license. Hence, my voting for the bar on Patton avenue, and not as Tue consideration, as up to that time, I had tion of the city condemning whiskey, though I felt, before leaving the room, that I had made a mistake in easting that yote. Who does not make mistakes, sometimes? Though, I suppose, as well as a number from several adjointhose who condemn me do not, as they are continually throwing stones. 'Let the court house and is expected to be those who are not guilty east the first largely attended. Again I see Hominy indignant at the commissioners, just because they not understand the matter. A little while back they condemned the commissioners for granting license for selling beer, by the bottle, (and not across the counter) at a restaurant at Sulphur springs, and since then some of asked for license to sell whiskey at the same place. The ficense were granted under restrictions that they would sur-render the license in case, they sold to any others than guests of the hotel; and the same restrictions applies to Kenil-worth. Had the board not done that, as the law now is, those parties would tain restrictions named above.

Now, in conclusion, let me say that I don't drink myself, and I condemn the whiskey traffic as being the greatest evil and curse on earth; and just how to get rid of it is the puzzle. I think the best plan is to have our next members to the All-How He Says He Was Mis-led-Some Corroborative Evi-is, and let the whole county have a vote, instead of the corporation of Asheville, and I believe it will be put out of the

Now, you can call me "a wet commissioner," if you like, but that does not make it true nevertheless. I don't like a newspaper controversy, but I feel that through your columns, injustice has been done me, and nothing will satisfy me or my friends, except a publication of my position.

The notic Cleveland factions, among which may be included not only the forces of Senator Hill, but also those of Boies, Gray and the secret but very earnest workers of Senator Gorman, deride as unreasonably extravagant these figures of the Cleveland leaders and assect that their investigations show that it my position.
