THE SHOE STORE, WEAVER & MYERS,

A BATTLE AT THE CARNEGIE IRON

SEVERAL MEN PROBABLY FATALLY WOUNDED.

THOUSANDS MARCHING TO HELP THE STACK ERS

PITTSBURG, July 6 .- At an early hour this morning 300 Pinkerton detectives arrived in Pittsburg from the east. They were quietly marched to the Monongahela river where they were loaded on barges and shipped to Homestead, (where the Carnegie iron works are) at 2:15. The news of their arrival spread rapidly and when the steam tug towing the barges arrived at Homestead there were 5,006 people waiting to meet them. Pinkertons Fire the First Volley.

As soon as the Pinkertons attempted o land they were met by a firm refusal from men and a battle followed. The Pinkertons opened fire and at the first volley two workmen fell. This enraged the workmen and they bore down on the Pinkertons with resistless force, Nobody stopped to inquire whether the new comers were deputy sheriffs, Pinkerton letectives, or non-union laborers.

After the exchange of shots the crowd grouped on the bank fell back and rushed toward a big trestle leading to the Pemicky railroad bridge.

Probably three hundred men stood their ground and with their revolvers returned the fire. These shots did little or no damage, and the plucky band, finding their weapons ineffective, slowly fell back before the withering fire of the Pinkerton Winchesters. The First Shot.

The first shot of the engagement came from the barge. It was aimed at a big Hungarian who stood at the water's edge. The ball went wide of the human target, but was the signal to the Pinkerton men to begin and for ten minutes they continued to fire. The first man to fall was Martin Merry, a heater in one of the mines. He was shot in the left side and fell face downward on a pile

The Second Murder Close beside Merry stood the big Hungarian. He stooped over Merry's pros ony and as he was in the act of raising him, he etaggered and an instant ater fell by the side of his comrade.

This bloody spectacle roused the spirits of the crowd and with a hoarse cheer a half-dozen men rushed to the place where Merry and the Hungarian lay. They picked up the bodies and carried them behind the trestle. One of the rescuers, a Welchman, who refused to give his name, was shot in the left leg just as he raised Merry's head from the ground. Merry and the Hungarian were carried ver the trestle-work to a physician. He aid that both men would probably die,

Four Pinkertons Wounded. Five more of the strikers were wounded and two of them very seriously. The shots of the strikers were also well imed, as four Pinkertons are reported dangerously wounded. Another Account.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 6 .- Excitement s at a fever heat at Homestead.

It was exactly 4 o'clock when a steamr and barges were sighted by the work ngmen's watchers gathered on the river anks a mile below the town. As soon is the fleet was sighted, three mounted part of the arrangements for next week's messengers started for town shouting as business. They will assist in the excurthey went in advance of the dreaded sion on the dummy line to-morrow and barges. Some one notified the engineer at the electric light works and a second later the harsh-voiced whistle sounded a general alarm. The people responded with wonderful alacrity. There were old men and young men, elderly women, mothers with their babies in arm, and any number of children. The throng eaded toward the river.

The moment the people on the bank caught a glimpse of the flotilla, they made a break down the road toward the Carne gie works. When the bead of the line reached the city farm fence, which had been built out several feet into the water, 50 men or more used their shoulders as battering rams and almost in a twinkling had forced down the barrier, Once through the fence the crowd poured along the steep embankment skirting the river fence of the Carnegie company, and despite the mud and uneven character of the ground, made rapid headirmed with a Winchester rifle and each rifle was loaded to kill. Slowly the boat edged toward the landing and when the keels of the barges grated on the sand, the grim faces of the invaders were within a few feet of their opponents gathered on the shore. There was one ustant of awful silence and then a bright flash and a sharp report amounced that the first shot of the battle had been fired. Almost immediately after the first shot was fired, the firing became general on both sides. At first the strikers retreated and for a moment it looked as though they were completely routed, but they quickly rallied and although they retired from the immediate vicinity of the boats, they held their own and by sheer weight of numbers compelled the deputies to proceed with caution.

Pinkertons Driven Back.

Up to this time no one had attempte to leave the boat, but suddenly fifty or more invaders attempted to jump ashore. The strikers responded with a sharp volley and so thick and fast came the onliets that the deputies returned to the semi-shelter of lower deck. It was in his attempt to force the fighting that the Pinkerton men sustained their most scrious loss. Their captain was carried to the pilot house of the steamer. One of his men informed the Associated Press reporter that although the wound was serious, it was not tatal. Directly after this episode both sides rested a few moments and then after another sharp volley which did little or no damage to either side hostilities ceased. The Fighting Resumed

Pirrsning, July 6 .- The fighting was resumed shortly after 7 o'clock and con tinued half an hour. Thousands of worknen from surrounding places are re ported marching toward Homestead to reinforce the workers. In the second engagement one man was killed and some wounded. The workmen have built fortification of steel bars on the river bank and over a thousand men are in it Already four locked out men have been killed. Six more Homestead men were shot at the second attempt at 8 o'clock to land the Pinkertons. The captain of the tug and one Pinkerton man are Another Collision.

HOMESTEAD, Penn., July 6.-The steamer Tide came down the river shortly before 110'clock this morning to take off the Pinkertons who were immuch importance to the W. C. T. U. A place. Cannoneers across the river fired three cannon balls at the steamer. Their aim was bad and one ball, entering the mill, took off a man's head.

Ten Killed. The number killed is now put at ten with eleven wounded. The boat was driven off and went down the river. HOMESTEAD, Pa., 1 p. m., July 6.-The the barges containing the Pinkertons are lying in wait for some of the detectives to show themselves. The men fire at

O COMMIT SUICIDE?

The train which leaves the Asheville depot at 3:05 was rounding the bend yesterday when a man rushed to the platform and jumped off. His rash act created great excitement among the other passengers—they all thought it was a case of suicide. Ladies fainted, men rushed to the platform expecting to see his mangled form upon the track, day morning. Mrs. Wells of Chatta-nooga, president of the assembly, was in the chair and a morning, and afternoon ney without them. He took great chances, but he might have taken greater.
