

ASHEVILLE DAILY CITIZEN

THE DAILY CITIZEN, Democratic, is published every afternoon (except Sunday) at the following rates—strictly cash: ONE YEAR $6.00, SIX MONTHS $3.50, THREE MONTHS $2.00, ONE MONTH $1.00, ONE WEEK .50.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1892.

On September 1, Col. Al. Fairbrother, of Durham and Raleigh, will begin the publication of the Tobacco Plant, a twenty page journal. Col. Al. Fairbrother and Mr. A. Hatchett are to be the editors, and if the thing is a success Col. Fairbrother will not tell a lie. He will be honest and say he did it with his little Hatchett.

It is not too early for every democrat to resolve that whatever else political he may neglect this year, he will nevertheless attend the primaries, doing his part toward securing the nomination of clean, able men. It is too often the case that, after the nominations are made, democrats who did not attend the primaries complain of the work done there. If they wish this year to raise the standard of nominations let them begin early to work for that desirable end. Attend the primaries!

It seems a falling inseparable from third party attachment to be wild in statements concerning political opponents. Thus the Progressive Farmer accuses Grover Cleveland of favoring the force bill, and now third party Watson of Georgia charges that "drunken members led through the aisles of the house of representatives, and drunken members speak upon grave measures." The probabilities are that Watson's assertion is born of the diseased imagination that goes with desertion from the ranks of democracy into the chaotic camp of the third party.

A GRAB.

Congress has voted these bonuses to families of recently deceased members: M. H. Ford, salary and mileage, $10,050; John R. Gamble, salary and mileage, $8,879; L. C. Houk, salary and mileage, $9,273; John W. Kendall, salary and mileage, $5,158; W. H. F. Lee, salary and mileage, $6,033; E. T. Stackhouse, salary and mileage, $4,202; F. B. Spinola, salary and mileage, $9,624.

Now some of these members never even went to Washington or did one stroke of work for the money here given their families, and none of them served the full term for which they are paid. Moreover the gift is contrary to the statutes, being simply making free with money that did not belong to the men who voted it away.

A WISE DECISION.

Col. H. Clay King's lawyers appealed to the United States circuit court to hold that because the jury that convicted him had been temporarily out of the state, though in charge of the sheriff, it had "lost its official character and had ceased to be a jury;" that therefore King was convicted by persons who were not jurors. The point in law may have been what is called a "fine" one, but in common sense it was of no importance, for the reason that it did not influence the jury in passing on King's guilt. The point was overruled, it is a gratification to learn, and the law fails to defeat justice.

King is almost certain to hang. From the point of view of his ability and his services to the state it is a pity that he should die, but viewed as a man of disreputable life and as a deliberate murderer, Tennessee will be benefited by his taking off. Human life has been held too cheap in that state.

NORTH CAROLINA AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

All the civilized world has become interested in the Columbian exposition to be held in Chicago in 1893, and almost every nation expects to participate in the display, with a view to sharing the benefits of that event. Millions of dollars have been and are being expended to make it the greatest exposition of all time, and to open wide the gates of opportunity to the car of progress. An American celebration, made under the auspices of the United States government for the benefit of the people of those states, it is the finest opportunity ever offered the states to show to the world their progress as a people, and the development of their material resources. That any state should be slow to avail itself of this opportunity seems incredible, and that North Carolina should be absent, where she should by all rights be prominent, is not to be thought of. No state has a more honorable record, nowhere has nature been more lavish of her gifts, and the wonders of mountain and of sea, the products of soil and of mine, all demand recognition of their value. No state has more loyal citizens, and every true hearted North Carolinian would rejoice to see her placed in honor among her sister states in this exposition. It is to be regretted that the legislature did not make available provision for the accomplishment of this end. However, it is gratifying to know that the committees now at work for the board of agriculture, are making good progress in the work of collecting material for a full display of the resources of the state. Next in importance to this exhibit, is the necessity for a state building on the exposition grounds, and the women of the state—ever willing to rectify man's neglect of duty—are making a combined effort to raise the necessary funds for this purpose. Raleigh, Wilmington, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Durham, Henderson, Newbern and very many other places in the state have become interested and are helping in the work of redeeming the state from the position in which she was placed by the loss of the legislative appropriation. Now Asheville is to be permitted to co-operate in the work, and patriotism and prosperity making thus an united claim, Buncombe will not be slow or niggardly.

All the states have had space allotted them on which they have the privilege of erecting a building for their own private and special uses. With but few exceptions they are availing themselves of this privilege. Virginia, our sister; Tennessee, our daughter; Kentucky, our grand-daughter, are to have buildings, and shall North Carolina, the mother of colonies, where first the English settled in America, be conspicuous by her absence? We hope not.

In an international exhibition the rulings are necessarily rigid, and there are very many things in our state, of special value which cannot be "classified" and consequently cannot be admitted in the general exhibition. Among these things are our climate, our scenery, our water power. Hence we must make a special exhibit of them, or else of necessity they will remain unappreciated and untitled. These things can be properly shown only in a state building by special means. This fact should appeal to Asheville, for certainly the prosperity of Asheville, next to its enterprising citizens, rests upon its climate and scenery. There is no prophesying to what degree of prosperity these factors may lead if properly used. The limitless grandeur of our scenery and the never ceasing benefits of our climate make the future bright with possibilities. In this case, state pride, which would fain see North Carolina take her rightful place among her sister states, and business interests, ever alert to advantageous opportunity, go hand in hand and we hope Asheville will co-operate with the other places in the state by contributing to the fund for a state meeting.

Age brings wisdom, and a country on the eve of celebrating its centennial will have the wisdom to see its own advantage.

MAKES SPENDTHRIFTS.

How a Divided Responsibility Works for Extravagance.

From the Charleston News and Courier. It is just a little interesting to note one feature of the situation, [the World's fair appropriation] in passing. The $5,000,000 asked for will be contributed, if the appropriation is granted, practically by forty of the states. If the amount were divided among them equally each would pay about $125,000. If it were divided according to population, South Carolina, for example, would pay about $80,000, and the other states in proportion. South Carolina, however, has refused to appropriate even $24,000, as proposed, for the purpose of sending an exhibit of its own to the fair, and several other states have likewise declined to appropriate a cent.

This illustrates very plainly the difference between taxing the people directly and taxing them indirectly; between a legislature expending the people's money and congress squandering it. The cause of governmental extravagance is vastly promoted by the divided responsibility of the congressmen, and their distance from their constituents. There would be no world's fairs, nor fat pension lists either, in this country if they had to be supported by separate state appropriations. It is congress that makes spendthrifts of us all.

WITH JARVIS AND CARR.

W. T. Crawford will be at Marion Aug. 9.

From the Marion Free Lance. I expect to be with Gov. Jarvis and Gov. Carr at Rutherfordton and Marion on the 9th and 10th of August if nothing prevents. I hope you will have a big crowd for them, for no man in North Carolina is better able than Gov. Jarvis to give the people the true issue. With best wishes I am yours. W. T. Crawford.

Third Party as a Blind.

Col. T. B. Long was in town last week on his way to Rutherfordton, where he and a few other republicans organized the third party and denounced with vigor the "two old parties." He held a consultation here with his republican brethren, we learn, and advised them to encourage the third party all they could. There is no republican in the state who is doing more good for republicanism in North Carolina than Col. Long and if Harrison and his force bill are endorsed by the nation, Col. Long deserves well of his republican brethren.

And Frick Talked Bankruptcies.

From the Baltimore Sun. The Engineering and Mining Journal, with every opportunity for acquiring information, declares that the entire cost of producing a ton of rails at Carnegie's mill does not exceed $20. This includes every item of expense, remote and direct, plant, investment, everything. The output of the six mills being a million and a half tons at $30 a ton, the annual profits of this combine is not less than fifteen millions a year.

What She Cannot Hide.

As another proof of woman's inability to keep a secret we notice that while a man covers his suspenders a woman wears hers openly.

—Albermarle News: Two Mormon divines appeared at the house of Jim Hudson, a few miles below here, and said the Lord had sent them there to spend the night with him. Jim said he knew better, for he had seen the Lord last, and the Lord gave him orders not to let them stay. They moved on.

—The encampment of the state guard at Wrightsville ended Thursday. It was a successful one, despite the almost unprecedented hot weather. The third and fourth regiments, seventeen companies, go into camp August. With them will be an unattached company from Fayetteville.

M. D. Lane, Devereaux, Ga., writes: "One summer several years ago, while railroading in Mississippi, I became badly affected with malarial blood poison that impaired my health for more than two years. Several offensive ulcers appeared on my legs, and nothing seemed to give permanent relief until I took six bottles of B. B. B., which cured me entirely."
