ERAL GOVERNMENT.

Chase and Lincolu—The Duty of Marion Butler Made Temporary Every Southern Man-The Force Bill Again-North Carolina and the Constitution.

Judge Merrimon tells THE CITIZEN erans contains a number of errors. He Marion Butler was made temporary ural that the United States, which he have been appointed and there are called "our confederacy" was like a number of negro delegates. common co-partnership, and that he agreed with him, and insisted that in a common co-partnership when one of would be. Both Lindsay and Butler the partners violated the articles of made ultra third party speeches. partnership, the other partners had a Worth or Harry Skinner will be the nom right to withdraw from a, that congress and many of the northern states had repeatedly and almost from the time the peatedly and almost from the time the district of the United States went. government of the United States went into operation, violated the constitution, and instanced the case of the alien and sedition laws the first of which was a blow at the personal liberty of the in-dividual, and the other a desperate assault upon the freedom of speech and of the press. These laws called forth the celebrated Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of 1798 which formed the platform upon which Jefferson was elected president; that the leading principles of the resolutions of '98 were that the states composing the Union were not united upon the principle of unlimited submission to the general government, If you have tried it you

Submission to the general government but that they constituted a government for special purposes and delegated to that government only certain definite powers, and that when it exceeded these powers its acts were void, and that each state had the right to judge for itself whether the constitution had been vio-lated, and also in what way the violation should be redressed. These princi-ples were never questioned by any Presi-dent from Jefferson to Lincoln, and that even Lincoln at first claim-ed no right to coerce the Southern States, but that it was said he was instigated by the governors of seven of the Northern States to take the course he did. His secretary of state had given a positive pledge that Fort Sumter should be evacuated and this was deemed by the Southern people to be an assurance of peace. Judge Merrimon says that what he said in regard to Mr. Chase was, that it was understood that he was to be Lincoln's secretary of the treasury, and that he met the Peace Congress at Washington in Feb., 1861 before Lincoln's inaguration, and told the conference that the election of Lincoln was the triumph of the principles of the opposition to the extension of slavery beyond the limits of the states, and further that the party which elected Lincoln would not regard the decisions of the supreme court of the United States with respect to slavery and the people of the free states would not surrender fugitive slaves.

Judge Merrimon did not say that Mr. Chase said that "Lincoln had been north or set up for itself," but that he said in substance that as the southern states could obtain no redress, but were threatened with further violation of their rights, there was nothing left for them to do but to secede, and set up for themselves; that their act was lawful, peace-able and the exercise of a well recognized right; that making war upon them and killing their people who fought solely in self defense was murder, and the destruction of their property was no better than rank robbery; that it was the duty of every southern man to teach his children and his children's children, so far as he could, that the southern soldiers were not rebels and traitors but fought in self defense and because they were forced to fight or surrender every right that was dear to free men. In speaking of the force bill Judge Mer rimon said that the convention of North Carolina which ratified the constitution of the United States was assured by the North Carolina delegates to the convenion which framed that constitution, that the power conferred upon congress by the 4th section of the first article of the constitution to make or alter such regulations as the State legislatures might prescribe for the election of representatives, was never to be exercised unless the state refused to prescribe any regulations, or was in some way pre-vented from doing so, and but for this assurance North Carolina would never have acceded to the constitution.

[Judge Merrimon agrees that THE CITIZEN report was substantially correct except in two instances, where the wrong construction was put on his language by the reporter. In other respects his explanation, given above, is largely for the sake of elaborating on ideas that were necessarily condensed in the newspaper report.-Eb. Citizen.]

THE KNIGHTS

Enjoying Their First Visit to Asheville. The Knights of St. Patrick and their friends are enjoying camp life on Montford avenue. This is their first experience under tents. Last year they camped at Saluda, but had rooms at the hotel. They are so charmed with Asheville and her delightful weather that several of the party have expressed the wish that they might remain here all the time. A trip to Lookout Mountain was part of last night's program. Today has been spent in driving to points of interest in and near the city.

Some of Augusta's fairest ladies are in the party—in fact, the entire delegation is a good looking one, here for pleasure, and is having it without a doubt.

TEN DAYS Only Waiting for the Word From the "Grand Master"-The Strike

Situation at Buffalo Improved-

Burned in Effigs

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 .- It was rumored ast night that all the switchmen on the Erie line in Chicago, which is the old Chicago and Atlantic, had been ordered on a strike. A reporter who called at the Dearborn street depot was told "We are waiting to get word from Grand Master Sweeney, now in Buffalo. As soon as he speaks we will quit and so will all switchmen on the lines running into Chicago. The strike may not reach Chicago for a week yet, but unless the demands of the strikers in the east are granted all the great railway lines will be tied up within ten days."

BUFFALO, Aug. 16 .- There were no sen sational developments in the switchmen's strike during the night, and the situa tion is thought to be improved. CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—As a protest against the action of Col. Streator in the lams case at Homestead, the members of the Second regiment, I. N. G., last night burned in effigy Gen. Snowden and Col. Streator. The incineration took place within a stone's throw of the armory where the regiment was drilling. Dum mies were dressed in full uniform and bore all the insignia to which their high rank entitled them. Suspended by cord around the neck of each of the effigies was a large white placard on which was written, "Death to all tyrants."

IT WILL PAY IN GOLD.

The Government and the Silver Treasury Notes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 .- A crucial test of the policy of the government was made yesterday when Heidelback, Ickelheimer & Co. tendered $1,000,000, in treasury notes, which were issued ou account of the silver purchases, and demanded for them one million dollars in gold for shipment to Germany by today's steamer. The treasury officials paid out the million gold in exchange for the treasury notes and the gold was carted to the steamer.

The transaction excited some com-ment, as no home banking institution has ever in the history of the govern-ment made a like demand on the treasury and in some quarters the impression pre-vailed that the exporting firm took this step for the purpose of forcing a crisis. Assistant Treasurer Roberts said in reply to a question: "No steps have been taken by the administration to prevent or obstruct the export of gold. The gov ernment stands ready to meet all its ob ligations in gold and will pay them all in gold. Its free gold balance nov nounts to $112,000,000." By this statement of Treasurer Roberts it is clear that the government has decided on a plan to pay all silver treas-ury notes in gold if it is demanded.

The picture is that of a woman with her infant lying on her left arm while just in front and slightly above the woman is a man's face looking down at the pair. The glass has been carefully washed inside and out by doubters and as the picture is still there its existence cannot be denied. It is asserted by som that Father Jones, who built the church had the picture blown in glass, but this the priest emphatically denies.
