CONGRESSMAN CRAWFORD

HE SPEAKS TO THE WESTWARD DEMOCRATS.

About One Thousand People Gather in West End to Hear the Young Congressman Explain Democratic Doctrine.

The Democracy of the West ward promised that it would give Congressman William T. Crawford a rousing reception when he spoke before the Democratic club of that ward.

Mr. Crawford filled his appointment last evening, and the club kept its word. The first floor of the large Pearson building near the ice factory had been fitted up with seats for the occasion, and the crowd that poured in filled up every seat, and many stood up. The crowd was estimated at 1,000. The splendid turnout of West Warders was augmented by the attendance of members of the Central club, who, over 100 strong, marched from the court house to the place of speaking, headed by Dr. R. B. Vance. When the club filed into the room, it was given a cheering greeting by the West ward boys. There was also a large number of ladies in attendance.

While waiting for Mr. Crawford Gen. R. B. Vance was called upon and entertained the audience for ten minutes, leading the crowd in three cheers and a tiger for the Democratic ticket from Grover Cleveland down.

Jack Cox then recited a campaign poem, and when he had concluded Mr. Crawford entered the building, accompanied by Gen. E. R. Hampton. The speaker's entrance was the signal for a chorus of cheering that fairly shook the building. Mr. Crawford was then introduced by President D. W. Bruton, of the West Ward club.

In opening, Mr. Crawford said he had been meeting his opponents, Pritchard and Brown, on every stump. Now one of them had married and the other had gone home. This, Mr. Crawford said, left the ladies to him. The young Congressman is unmarried and his statement created a great deal of applause.

The speaker declared the issues of the campaign to be the tariff, finance and the force bill. "I see," he said, "no object in the force bill other than the desire to put the Republican party and still further inflicting burdens upon the people. Since the war the Republican party has increased the price of everything used by the people. That party has for thirty-two years had sole, unqualified power to make our laws and not for one minute has the Democratic party had the power to repeal the laws of which the people complain, so that if any part of the country is suffering from legislation the Republican party is solely responsible for it."

"The Republicans reply to our tariff arguments by saying that you buy goods cheaper now than you used to. They undertake to close your eyes to the fact that this country has improved wonderfully in the way of labor-saving machinery, and that goods can now be produced at a great deal cheaper than they formerly could."

Mr. Crawford then gave several illustrations on the tariff question, in such a clear, matter-of-fact way that they could not be misunderstood. "The Republicans," the speaker continued, "did finally take the tax off sugar. The Democrats opposed this because the bill also provided that the American sugar manufacturers should receive a bounty of two cents a pound for every pound of sugar they produced, and the last Congress had to make an appropriation of ten millions of dollars to pay off these bounties. The Republicans say we must protect these infant industries. Well, we all favor the protection of infants, but when the infants get to wearing No. 12 shoes and become large enough to kick the old man out of the house, I think it is time to call a halt."

Coming down to the force bill Mr. Crawford said: "If that bill is a dead issue, then the Republican party is a dead issue. Harrison has endorsed the bill. He told me that his party proposed to do its own registering and its own counting. He said further that they did not propose to allow the outrages in the South to continue. He declared he would as soon think of convicting a ballot box stuffer in the South as to think of convicting a polygamist before a Missouri jury. Is it dead? No. I see Mr. Harrison became indignant because Georgia would not vote the Third party ticket, and says he has washed his hands of the South. He also says you can't trust the Democrats of the South; the harder you fight them the bigger their majorities."

Referring to the infamous speech of Mott, Mr. Crawford said: "It is time for every man who has the interest of his country at heart, to put his foot on such men, who try to inflame the passions of the negroes. When a man says he wants the force bill, he is saying he wants the heads of the best men in North Carolina to be put in jail. It is time for all good men to stand together. We have been taking care of the colored people, building asylums and schools for them, educating them so that they might exercise the right of franchise intelligently, and it is nothing less than a crime to make these infaming speeches to these people. Now is the time for the people of the country to stand up for their rights and let these men know they cannot put us under such rule."

"I tell the Third party people this is no time to sit down and rest, when we are led on by such men as Grover Cleveland. The people are coming to him. Look at such men as MacVeigh, Gresham, Cooley and many others who are working for him. They recognize the man's honesty. No man ever misunderstood Cleveland." Mr. Crawford closed with a strong appeal to the people to work for Democratic success. During the speech he was frequently interrupted by tremendous applause. The speech all the way through was a splendid one, and pleased everyone excepting, of course, what few Republicans might have been within hearing.

Mr. Crawford left this morning for Leicester, where he met Collector Rollins in a joint discussion this afternoon.

Tillman Did Nothing.

New York, Oct. 19.—A specialist in Southern state securities says there is nothing new to be said relative to the refunding of the South Carolina State debt due July 18, 1893. Gov. Tillman, who has returned home, did not accomplish anything in the matter, and certain Southern capitalists are now trying to see what they can do.

CHICAGO'S LIVELY WEEK.

Sixteen Hundred Tickets Stolen Add to the Complexity.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The program of the Columbus celebration proper commenced this morning with the arrival of the cabinet officers, and the diplomats. In the afternoon the last of the military will arrive and the celebration by the public schools takes place, followed in the evening by a reception and banquet at the Auditorium. Thursday morning there will be a parade with 75,000 people in line.

Friday morning a procession of guests of the day, will start from the Auditorium for Jackson park. The parade will be reviewed in Washington park by Vice-President Morton. At noon the dedicatory exercise takes place. In the evening will be witnessed the inaugural ceremonies of the World's Congress at the Auditorium with an oration by Arch-Bishop Celand. In the evening fire works will be displayed. Saturday morning the dedication of the State buildings, and in the afternoon the military maneuvers will occur.

Sixteen hundred tickets to the dedicatory ceremonies stolen from the office of Secretary Culp, of the ceremonies committee, are on the market, and a large number of forged tickets also.

The school children this morning celebrated Columbus day. Youthful enthusiasm was given the widest play. The committee representing the State and City superintendents had arranged a program for the celebration in the public schools and the children executed this part of the order of exercises with a vim when school opened. The rooms were all decorated appropriately to the occasion and in a way to commemorate the great discoverer. The first exercise was the reading of President Harrison's proclamation. This was followed by a flag raising and by the pupils saluting colors. They also pledged their allegiance to the flag in concert and sang "America." The next few moments of the program were the reading of scriptures or some other acknowledgement of the Divine being. The schools then joined in singing "Columbus day," after which the program was varied according to the grade. In the primary grades the little ones recited patriotic verses and sang little songs, while in the grammar and high school grades historical essays were read, and declamations delivered. There was also singing.

DID GREY, CARRY $18,000?

He Was Going to Boston to Close a Contract.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Mr. Otis Grey, the wealthy Florida merchant who was a passenger on the Fall River steamer Pilgrim on the night of Saturday, Oct. 8, and who it is supposed walked overboard in his sleep, probably had a large sum of money in his possession. He was on his way to Boston, where he had an appointment to meet Mr. John McGuire, of Bridgewater. Mr. McGuire was negotiating the sale of a mine to Mr. Grey, and the details of the transactions had been completed except the payment of the sum of $18,000, the price fixed upon.

On September 29 Mr. Grey wrote to Mr. McGuire, and asked the latter to meet him in New York Oct. 7. Mr. McGuire owing to previous business engagements, was unable to go on to New York then and wired Mr. Grey to that effect. Mr. Grey at once telegraphed back making an appointment to meet Mr. McGuire in Boston October 9. He failed to keep it, and Mr. McGuire learned the next day of his disappearance. To a Herald man Mr. McGuire said: "Nor am I satisfied with the theory that he walked overboard in his sleep. The case ought to be thoroughly investigated."—N. Y. World.

IMPATIENT COLUMBUS.

Literary Men to go on a Voyage of Discovery.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—An American syndicate of writers, an organization composed of well known literateurs, will send a number of noted writers on a voyage of discovery around the world after literary material. The syndicate will charter a schooner to be named the Sargasso and will sail about January 1st, circumnavigating the globe. Julian Hawthorne will be the leader. Frank Stockton, Thos. Nelson Page, Joel Chandler Harris, Max O'Rell and others are members of the syndicate, but will not go on the voyage.

TREASURER BAIN ILL.

He May Not Live Through the Week.

RALPH, N. C., Oct. 17.—There is very painful news of the condition of that estimable gentleman, State Treasurer Bain. It does not now appear that there is a chance for his living through the week. As a member of his family said today, it will really be a miracle if he does live.—Charlotte Observer.

A Strike Averted.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—The difference between the telegraphers of the Missouri Pacific system, some 975 in number, and the management was amicably adjusted yesterday by mutual concessions. The operators have secured and accepted the minimum of $50 per month on the main lines and $46 on the branches. All danger of a strike is now averted.

Another Record Broken.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The City of Paris broke the record from Queenstown, arriving today, making the voyage in 5 days, 14 hours and 24 minutes. The distance is 2,782 miles, and the rate was an average of over 500 miles per day. This vessel soon becomes an American ship.

Buried in a Sewer.

HAMBURG, Oct. 19.—A large sewer in course of construction in the Steinwaerdes quarter caved in this morning, burying fourteen workmen. Gangs of men immediately set to work to dig out the unfortunate, but it is not believed any of the buried men are alive.

Bars Out the Mormons.

BOYCE CITY, Id., Oct. 19.—The Supreme court has unanimously sustained the constitutionality of the Idaho test oath law. The decision will prevent the Mormons voting.

NOW, WHO GOT THAT FLAG?

MEANING THE BIG REPUBLICAN BANNER.

'Twas But Yesterday It Spanned Patton Avenue; Now It Is Gone and a $300 Reward Is Offered by Chairman Moody.

When the Republican managers came up to headquarters this morning they discovered that their flag—the great big spread-eagle flag, which has spanned Patton avenue—was missing. They immediately set up the cry that it had been cut down by some enemy, who didn't believe in fair play. A telegram was at once sent to Jeter C. Pritchard, who likewise at once replied advising the offering of a reward for the "thieves" who did this thing.

Accordingly circulars were printed which declared in large letters that $300 reward would be paid for information sufficient to convict the "thieves who stole the banner." This was signed by J. M. Moody, chairman of the Republican committee.

The matter soon began to be talked about generally, and there were some who went so far as to say they believed the Republicans knew more about the business than they cared to admit. "It's a good campaign stunt," they said, "for the Reds, and somehow—we'll see what we shall see."

In this connection these cards will be of interest: EDITOR THE CITIZEN:—This morning about 11:30 I went to Republican headquarters, and inquired of Dr. W. F. Tompkins if the Republican committee really proposed to pay the reward offered in their circular. Dr. Tompkins replied in the affirmative. I then told him that if he would deposit the $300 in the bank I thought possibly I could find the man they refused to do, but said he would pay the reward after court if the man was convicted. In the room at that time this conversation occurred with George W. Cannon and W. H. Denver.

EDITOR THE CITIZEN:—I went to Republican headquarters this morning and proposed to try and find the man who removed the flag. The manager would not deposit the reward in the bank, but said there must be evidence that would convict the man who did it. I told him that I knew of no law that would convict a man of the crime of removing his own property.

RAIL FOR WAYNESVILLE: Senator M. W. Ransom Given an Ovation There Today.

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Three hundred mounted men met Senator M. W. Ransom at Waynesville, and with Chairman Lee and a long line of carriages paraded the streets, the ladies waving their handkerchiefs and the Democrats jubilant. Count Haywood eight hundred for Jack Campbell and Crawford. J. M. Leach.

Senator Ransom spoke yesterday at Mars Hill. There was a tremendous crowd to hear him, and for three hours and a half the Senator addressed the people on the issues. The speech was a powerful one, being pronounced by all there as being full of the best campaign argument ever listened to in that section.

Senator Ransom came to Asheville last night, remaining here until the departure of the train for Waynesville.

CRISP IN THE NORTH.

A Big Demonstration in His Honor at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 19.—The Democrats had their demonstration last night. Speaker Crisp was given an enthusiastic welcome. He spoke at great length on the tariff question and made a good impression with his logical discussion of the subject. The present tariff law, fathered by McKinley, he said, was injurious to the laborer, farmer, manufacturer and professional man alike, for instead of affording protection it imposed a heavy burden upon them. The prevailing low prices in the United States, he asserted, are not the result of the McKinley law, but have been brought about by large crops and labor saving machinery. The force bill and the Southern question were also discussed by the speaker, who denounced the former as an iniquitous measure.

SEE 'EM COME.

It's a Regular Stampede of Republicans.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Henry W. Bortol, a member of the Union League, a retired sugar manufacturer and heretofore a Republican, has declared for Cleveland. NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Don. M. Dickinson, chairman of the Democratic National campaign committee, is in receipt of a letter from J. W. Ross, secretary of the Tariff Reform club of Cohoes, which says that a political sensation has been caused there by the withdrawal of William K. Thorne from his candidacy as a Republican Presidential elector.—N. Y. World.

In a Sort of a Fix.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Gen. Isaac S. Cattling, who was nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Third district, has declined. He has been informed by the Attorney General of the United States that his acceptance of the office would vacate his place on the retired list of the army and in consequence he would forfeit the emoluments. Gen. Cattling also says Gen. Dan Sickles, nominated in this city for Congress by the Democrats, is in the same fix.

Killed by a Dynamite Explosion.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 19.—At noon yesterday seventy-five pounds of dynamite exploded on a government dredge boat on the Tennessee river, six miles from here. Charles S. Senno, a laborer, had his head blown off, and other laborers were seriously injured. The boat sank.

An Unimportant Matter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Whitehall Reid's letter of acceptance addressed to the chairman of the Republican notification committee was made public last night.
