PROF. CLAXTON'S ADDRESS

"THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF ASHEVILLE."

The Superintendent of the City Schools gives the Lyceum Society many facts of interest to the Asheville public.

"Five years ago," said Superintendent P. P. Claxton in his address before the Lyceum Tuesday evening, "the school committee began the work of organizing a public school system. It then had neither grounds, buildings, apparatus nor system. Now, after five years of constant effort and wise direction, it has four excellent buildings, containing thirty-four school rooms—all commodious, well lighted, heated and ventilated. These school rooms are all supplied with the very best and most approved apparatus. This makes an equipment not surpassed by any city in the State, and by few of its size in the whole country. This property is worth about sixty thousand dollars, and there are accommodations for not less than sixteen hundred children.

"There are now thirty-three teachers employed in these schools, all of whom have been selected solely for their fitness to teach. As far as has been possible, teachers have been selected from among our own people, and this has been right; but when, in order to get trained and experienced teachers, it has been necessary to go beyond the bounds of city or State, it has been done. There have always been many applicants, and only the best have been chosen. For two years, no teacher has been given a position in the schools who had not had special training for the work, or else earned success as a teacher. No more earnest body of students is to be found anywhere than are the teachers in these schools.

"The idea of the public school is to educate the people, not for any one or more special lines of study, but for the fullest and completest life and the best citizenship. If any one of our girls wishes to pursue further any line of study, the public school training should be found the very best preparation for it. With these two thoughts continually in mind, the present course of study in our school has been formed, or rather has grown up as the result of a five years' experience and study on the part of committee, teachers, and superintendent. Reading, like other things, is taught as a means and not as an end. The child must, in order that its life may ever have a broader horizon than that afforded by its five years' school life, be taught to read from the printed page. The attempt has been not to make good oral readers merely, but to teach the child to interpret rightly its author—to feel with the poet, think and observe with the scientist, see with the traveler, and reason with the philosopher.

"Language, grammar and rhetoric have been studied chiefly in connection with this course of reading. Language exists solely for the purpose of expressing thought, and is soonest learned by using it, under proper direction, for this purpose. It is not a mere academic study, as in the case of Latin and Greek, but is an imitative art, and Irving, Tennyson, Ruskin, Scott and Shakespeare, are not Harvey or Swinton, are the best teachers.

"Arithmetic, geometry and algebra are taught, not by rule but by developing the child's ability to study and understand the conditions of the problem to be solved. Here, as elsewhere, the object has been to give power and skill rather than to store the memory with endless rules and, to the child, unconnected facts.

"In geography the attempt has been to gain some idea of the great natural forms and the ever present geographical forces—to know the world of magnificent beauty and varied beauty as the home of man rather than to know it as a number of flat and curiously colored maps the strange names of which are to be repeated as meaningless jargon.

"In this day every man and woman must know something of the natural sciences, and from the beginning to the end of the school term these are taught in the most practical way, the children themselves making their own investigations to a large extent, drawing their own conclusions as to the extent of their own ability what the great scientists and original investigator does, thus giving the child, besides knowledge, power and tendency. History is taught to give the child sympathy with the people of the world at all times, to help him understand the problems which they have worked them out, or failed to do so, to give him some idea of the march of civilization and the great forces that have hastened or retarded this march. All this has its practical outcome in the ability which the men and women will have to grasp and solve properly the questions of their own day.

"Music and drawing are considered of the same importance that reading or arithmetic is and are given as much time in the program. For four years the schools have had special directors in both these subjects, and the progress made has been very satisfactory.

"Prof. Claxton also spoke of the moral and religious training in the schools, of the general discipline of the pupils, and the question of the co-education of the sexes as it affects the schools.

In conclusion the needs of the schools were referred to. "The most pressing need," the speaker said, "is now a library of ten or fifteen thousand well selected volumes, housed with plenty of reading room space somewhere in the central part of the city. This is the next thing to be worked for, and by the beginning of another school year it is hoped such a library will have been secured for the use of all the children of school age. This can probably not be done by public taxation, but Asheville is fortunate in that it has a large number of wealthy and public spirited citizens, who have never failed to respond when an opportunity has been offered to do something for the good of the people. This is an opportunity unequalled and will no doubt meet a hearty response."

To Ignore the Election Law.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 20.—Judge McClure, chief of the United States election supervisors, has issued instructions to precinct supervisors in which he directed them to ignore the new election law of Arkansas, requiring voters to cast their ballot within five minutes after entering the booth. The instructions have produced a sensation.

AFTER THREE MILLIONS

And They Will Probably Be After It a Long Time.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—Laborers are at work night and day in Wyandotte, just over the State line from here, digging for treasure said to amount to $3,000,000, believed to have been buried there before the war by the famous Huntrell gang.

The work is being prosecuted by a company composed of S. N. Simpson, J. D. Wyatt, W. H. Sloan and N. M. Purviance.

It is stated that one of the victims of the robbers, whose name is not given, made a plan of the locality where the plunder was buried and that recently he induced the parties named above to contribute funds for a search. Thus far none of the treasure has been found.—N. Y. World.

DOUBLE HANGING TODAY

A CROWD OF TEN THOUSAND IN GREENSBORO.

Reynolds and Headen Pay the Death Penalty—The Negro Says He is Going to Heaven, and That His Sentence Was Just.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 20.—[Special]—Ten thousand people witnessed the double execution of Reynolds and Headen at 1:22 this afternoon. The men were escorted to the place of execution by a detachment of the Guilford Grays and a procession half a mile long.

On the scaffold when asked for his dying remarks, Reynolds said he had nothing to say. Headen, the negro, spoke eight minutes, and declared his satisfaction and trust in the Lord. He said he was going straight to Christ, and was going the nearest way. He begged the rising generation of negroes to take warning by his end and keep out of bad company, and acknowledged the justice of his sentence. Religious service was held by two ministers.

Death was instantaneous. The colored people generally pronounce the publicity of the hanging to be a salutary lesson. Everything was quiet and the crowd remarkably sober, there being only one arrest today.

MACVEAGH IN NEW YORK.

He Talks Pointedly On the Force Bill Last Night.

New York, October 20.—Cooper Union was crowded last night with people anxious to hear Wayne MacVeagh. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Democratic club of New York City.

On the force bill Mr. MacVeagh said: "The bill would provide that the Circuit court judges of the United States, only eighteen in number, should take away from the people the right of conducting their own elections. . . . It is not only that such a measure involves a vast expense to the tax payers; but it is that it destroys at one fell blow the very principle on which we must rely if we are to continue to be a Republic; that is, trusting the people in their direct election districts to conduct their own elections, and, if there is not sufficient virtue to be found there, it is not likely to be found in the appointees of a political party, whether held in judicial office, or any other."

"And the deadly blow this dealt at the popular confidence in our national judiciary would result in irreparable injury. All respect for the elections would be destroyed, all confidence in the pretended results reached at the polls would disappear, and the Presidential election must result in a very brief time in the resort to force by one party or the other, believing itself to have been defrauded of its rights."

WANT TO LYNCH HIM.

Friends of a Wronged Woman May Give a Young Man Trouble.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Sheriff McClendon, of Memphis, has received from Sheriff Byers, of Tusculum, Ala., a telegram requesting him to meet the Alabama sheriff with a lawyer, to prepare habeas corpus proceedings for the liberation of Chas. N. Burgess, who was expected to reach here last night. Burgess formerly lived in Tusculum. Not long ago it was rumored that Burgess had seduced a young lady belonging to one of the first families of Tusculum. Burgess fled to Texas whether two men followed and captured him. When last heard from he was between Marshall, Tex., and Tusculum, Ala., on their way home with their man. Sheriff Byers' intention is, if possible, to capture the alleged kidnappers when they reach Memphis and take Burgess out of their hands. He believes it is the purpose of friends of the young woman to lynch Burgess as soon as he reaches Tusculum.

Stoned McKinley's Car.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 18.—While Gov. McKinley was passing Hurricane Station, midway between Charleston and Huntington in a train last night a stone crashed through the window of the private car next to the Governor, but did not hurt any one. Five other stones were thrown. The men who did the work could not be found.—N. Y. Sun.

Raleigh's Celebration.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 19.—The success of the first day of Raleigh's centennial celebration today exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Perfect weather and a delicious temperature made outdoor life a delight. The city was decorated profusely in orange and red, the city's colors, and the national colors were on every hand.

The P. P.'s in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 20.—Candidates for presidential electors on the People's party ticket were yesterday put in the field. They will poll a very light vote, the estimate being from one to three thousand in the entire State.

THE ADMINISTRATION BIRD-TRAP.

AT LEICESTER.

One Hundred and Forty Mounted Men Meet Crawford.

LEICESTER, N. C., Oct. 19.—This has been a great day for the solid Democracy of Leicester township. The oldest men of this neighborhood say that they have never known such a crowd of people present as greeted Crawford here this morning.

Three miles out of the town one hundred and forty-one mounted Democrats, by actual count, met Crawford with flags and shouts, and escorted him to the town. Such staunch Democrats as Uncle Pleas Israel, Dr. J. M. Stevens, J. Frank Wells and other leading Democrats headed the procession.

Forty-one mounted men, by actual count, met toward the support of the federal government. This is a fair sample of all the statements made by the Major, who really deals in fewer facts, if possible, than Pritchard.

Crawford literally tore the statements of Collins to shreds.

There is no doubt about Leicester township giving an increased Democratic vote over two years ago on the 5th day of November.

Every Democrat in this township seems to be thoroughly alive and hard at work, and they are pushing the fight along all lines of work. J. P. K.

CHICAGO'S GREAT PARADE.

A Procession Several Miles Long in the Windy City.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—In the glittering sunshine and bracing air today the people enjoyed a magnificent parade. Hundreds of thousands crowded the town. The people in town were early astir today, though the booming of cannon to signal the start of the civic parade were not heard until 11 o'clock. Out from the crowded hotels and from the boarding houses of the outskirts the people came even before sunrise. They brightened the streets with the color of vivid badges. The police as early as 7 o'clock closed all bridges which cross the city's lurid and filthy river, and at 10 o'clock the line of march was clear.

Vice-President Morton, under a civil escort, took his position on the reviewing stand at 11 o'clock. Soon after 11, three guns spoke out the signal for the parade to move. Then appeared at the starting point the chief officer of the day, and police ahead of him led the way, the various bodies falling in from streets opening in the route of march. The parade was several miles long.

BLAINE WALKS BRISKLY.

James Manly Speaks of Jas. G.'s "Hearty Sympathy."

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—There was an unusual stir at Republican national headquarters this morning when James G. Blaine briskly walked up the steps and into the private office of James Manly, where Blaine had a conference with Chairman Carter and others. Subsequently Manly said: "Blaine's visit was purely for the sake of a political conference. The details of that conference, as it was of a confidential nature, I cannot, of course, make public, but you may be sure that Blaine is in hearty sympathy with us and will do what he can to aid the fight."

"Will Blaine make another speech during the campaign?" he was asked. "No; Blaine's physical condition will not permit of it."

Columbus Day in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Columbus day was celebrated in all the public schools here today. The President's proclamation was first read and then the flag was unfurled. Three cheers and a salute were given "Old Glory," after which allegiance was pledged to the flag, national airs sung, Bible selections read and patriotic addresses delivered. In Brooklyn there was a great parade of the Roman Catholic parochial schools. Public buildings and private houses in the City of Churches are ablaze with bunting.
