JUDGES AND LEGISLATURE.

The Senate Judiciary committee took up the nomination of Judge Jackson Monday and then postponed consideration of it one week. In this connection we read that "after the assembling of the Senate, Associate Justice Brown, of the Supreme court, appeared on the floor and held a brief conference with Mr. Hoar, chairman of the judiciary committee." It is hard to escape the conclusion that Justice Brown was consulting with Mr. Hoar on the nomination of Judge Jackson, but that must have been impossible. No Justice of the Supreme court would so far forget his position as to try to influence a Senator in any way, even where an only possible member of the court was concerned. Consider, for instance, what a scandal it would cause were a member of our own State Supreme court to try to direct any legislation at Raleigh. There would be remonstrances from all parts of the State, except perhaps Raleigh itself. Perish the thought!

WE HAVE NO PARTICULAR USE FOR CANADA. There are too much snow and ice here, and the people are too habituated to monarchical ideas for us to wish them to come to us in a body. It would be an expensive addition in many respects.—Raleigh News and Observer.

IT IS A SURPRISE to find this sentiment in the usually well informed News and Observer. We have a very particular use for all of Canada—a country almost as large as the United States—except possibly the province of Quebec, which has a people hard to assimilate under our republican institutions. The use we have is to acquire a country rich in minerals, rich almost beyond estimate in wheat land, rich in a vast, unoccupied and valuable territory, and rich of all in a people largely after our own kind. Let the News and Observer run its eye over the States on the border line between this country and Canada—would we wish to part with any of them? And is not the country just across the line equally valuable for settlement with that on our side? About the only monarchical institution the Canadians put up with is the vice-royal governor general and staff, and to purchase the backing of all the war power of England at the cost of the salary and keeping of a representative of the Queen is cheap indeed. As to the snow and ice, the News and Observer did not mean that to be taken seriously.

A GREAT MORAL SERMON. There was a banquet given the other night at Brooklyn in honor of S. V. White, formerly a deacon of Plymouth church and recently, we believe, chosen a member of the executive committee of that church. It was a distinguished company which gathered about the table. Secretary Tracy was there and Rev. Dr. Behrends, and a congressman or two, and many other dignitaries of church and state. The occasion was in recognition of the fact that Mr. White had paid his debts and that voluntarily. Mr. White, it will be remembered, attempted to corner the corn market of the country a year or more ago, in violation of the common law of about every civilized nation on earth. He failed in the attempt, and beside sinking a fortune, said to have been above a million or so, also contracted claims against himself of nearly $1,000,000 more. His creditors trusting to his honor, released all legal claims against him and White went to work to recoup his fortunes. He succeeded so well that within a year and a quarter he had "earned" a million dollars or more, or enough to pay his debts and leave a comfortable fortune in balance for himself. A million dollars or more "earned" by a single individual in 15 months! How was it done? By gambling. White bought and pushed up the price of this and that stock and sold and depressed the price and then bought, and so on. He earned the money as the card player earns the stakes on the table, no more and no less. He added not a dollar to the wealth or the total product of the labor of the country. He contributed no more in facilitating the distribution of products than he did to production. As an economic factor in the industry of the year his value was zero. His million dollars were earned by other men and diverted through these gambling processes to his pockets. So his creditors were paid—a "manly settlement of old claims" made.

NOW THERE IS a case simply of a loss of a fortune through violation of common law in attempting to engross a food product, and the speedy recovery of it at stock gambling—and beyond this an adherence to the obligations of common business morality. But it is all deemed worthy of special honor in Brooklyn and the best known men of the city gather to speak Mr. White's praises and echo what one of the clergymen said that "as a Christian minister he thought the value of Mr. White's example could not be overestimated, as it set a standard of business honor and integrity, as well as large-hearted liberality for young men to live up to."—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

THE RIGHT MAN FOR A GREAT WORK.

From the Fayetteville Gazette. A good suggestion, that, made by the late Chief Justice Merrimon, for the employment of an historian to compile historical matters relative to North Carolina and the part her patriotic sons have borne in every bloody conflict since Washington crossed the Delaware. We know of no one any better equipped in every particular for this special work than our old friend and scholar, Col. John D. Cameron, of Asheville. To him such a task would be a pleasure, while to the State and succeeding generations it would be worth hundreds and thousands of dollars. Can't the legislature take some action in this matter?

CERTAIN.

From the Springfield, Mass., Republican. The immigrants and capital the South wants will not go where lawlessness prevails, nor where Lynch law is approved. Avoid confusion and delay by reading carefully the schedule of West Asheville & Sulphur Springs line in this issue of THE CITIZEN.

STANDPIPES AND RESERVOIRS.

IF I had as much money as I could spend, I never would cry "standpipes to mend!" I'd dig me a reservoir deep in the ground, To catch all the toad frogs hopping around.

IF I had as much sense as Cam Waddell, I never would cry "standpipes to sell!" I'd read in the Bible, and learn how to trade, And not jump quick at the first offer made.

Sing a song of standpipes: The bottom full of mud. One morning it fell over And belched a grimy flood! Wicked the bids were ended The City Council said, "This bid's too high, that's too low, Less all go home to bed!"

There was a young man who said "why Was that standpipe built up to the sky? There's a hole in the ground, If it just can be found, That won't bust and fall over 'binchey' X."

ADVANCING BACKWARD.

THE NEGRO NOT IMPROVING. BUT BEING FAIRLY BEHIND. From the New York Sun. Nowhere else in the world has the negro race a chance for progress so good as in the Southern States, yet it is not getting ahead there except at a pace that is distressingly slow, even if they are making any advance at all. The free schools may be teaching the younger generations their letters, but they do not seem to be cultivating in them the ambition, or at least the capacity, for improving their material condition. Unfortunately the same backwardness exists among a great part of the negroes at the North. Formerly here in New York for instance, the colored people were largely employed in domestic service. But of late years families have grown to distrust them, and the more so as they have been recruited in numbers by negro immigration from the South. Many of the negro population at this time are a bad lot, immoral, careless, dissipated and disorderly, and they have given a bad name to the whole race, in which are included some of the brightest examples of fidelity to be found among any people. As a whole, they seem to be no better of materially than they were a generation ago, even if they are not falling behind.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

WANTS AN ODD NUMBER. EDITOR THE CITIZEN.—The work done in the people's meeting on last Friday evening, has given general satisfaction. But on a more mature consideration of one important feature, I am satisfied that a majority of the intelligent citizens who took an active part in that meeting, will desire to make a change. I have reference to the number of aldermen. If more than five, there should be seven; and if more, there should be nine—always an odd number. My reason for that is that the mayor is an executive officer, and should have nothing to do with the legislative department, more than to make recommendations. In all free governments the line should be drawn between legislative, judicial, and executive work. This is a fundamental principle in a democracy. Its opposite is despotism. A mayor who has the privilege under law to help legislate, has the privilege of a despot. T. C. Westall.

TWO DISAPPOINTMENTS.

EDITOR THE CITIZEN.—An article very complimentary indeed of our Glee Club appeared in your paper some days ago. I send you an article taken from the Charlotte Observer showing the appreciation of a people who are in sympathy with the University of their own State. I must say in behalf of we [sic] boys who have gone to school in Asheville, that we were very much disappointed in our audience. Yours truly, R. E. Zachary, Chapel Hill, Feb. 6, 1893.

The Hair of an Artist.

It may not be known that when Padorewski was in this country last season he was under contract not to cut his hair. As soon as the London season was over he was shorn, and his friends say he was so eager to get to the barber and so rejoiced to get his hair cut that the power to have his own way in this matter, in fact, decided him to be his own manager. But when Padorewski actually laid hold of his own affairs it seemed, on the whole, better not to cut loose from his hair. At the last performance in London one woman fell prostrate on her face at his feet. It required the absurdity of this woman to bring the rest of the audience to its senses. While it is undeniable that Padorewski's hair has been an interesting feature, it does not seem an important factor in his career. Nevertheless Padorewski returned with his halo.—New York Evening Sun.

Walking to Chicago.

Chicago will be the crank center of the Union during the fair, and the convention is already assembling. The late headed that way is a Spokane man, who, so he says, is going to walk there, a distance of 1,923 miles. He proposes to accomplish the trip in ninety-six days. He promises to nail to each of the 76,880 or so telegraph poles along the track a big poster publishing the praises of eastern Washington. He will wear a long rubber coat, lead color behind and rose color in front, on which he is going to have painted pieces of the picturesque scenery and portraits of the prominent people of his region.—Exchange.

During the reign of William Rufus shoes were made two feet long and stuffed with tow till they curled like a ram's horn.
