FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1893. THE CITIZEN's impression is that S Otho Wilson got off too easily; but certainly Solicitor Pou gave him a beautiful dressing down. THREE hundred and seventy-five thousand immigrants landed in New York last year. Of this number only 259 were headed for North Carolina.

WE presume the Gazette intended to add the words "From the ASHEVILLE CITIZEN" to the list of presidential appointments which it this morning copied from THE CITIZEN of yesterday.

DEMOCRATS everywhere will be delighted with he nomination of Thomas F. Bayard to be Ambassador to Great Britain, and the entire country will be worthily represented at the Court of St. James by the eminent Delaware states-

THE CITIZEN observes that our State motto continues to be quoted with blinders on-that is to say, as though it was not meant to be understood by the common people. It means simply, "To be, rather than to seem to be," and why the United States language is not good enough to express that idea will continue to be the wonder of people who cannot think a good sentiment can be bettered by expressing it in a dead tongue.

J. A. HARRELL, proprietor of the cheap-John non-union, fifth-class printshop at Weldon, N. C., writes THE CITIZEN Saying that if there is "anything in appearances, both from President and others, I will certainly get the appointment," as public printer of the United States. THE CITIZEN does not imagine for one moment that President Cleveland has even thought of appointing Harrell, as the papers state that Harrell called on the President.

THE latest pardon granted by Gov. Carr apparently illustrates the tendency to shorten the terms of criminals whether new evidence is discovered or not. In the present case, that of Lacy Sears, it the man he killed was a bad man, and that anyway the killing was done in self defense. What is there new in this to suggest a pardon? All those facts, the relative goodness and badness of the killed and the slayer, and whether the killing was provoked, were known at the time of the trial, and it was then djudged that fifteen years' imprisonment was the proper punishment. Why, then, should the man not have served the full term?

Col. Martin Will Get There Washington Cor. New York Sun

Senator Vance of North Carolina was among the early callers Tuesday morning. He had with him Col. Martin of Asheville, N. C., and Mr. Horrell of the State of Washington.

"Here are two young gentlemen, Mr. President," said Senator Vance, "who desire to go to Japan in the capacity of Consul. They are applicants for the same position. They are both deserving young men, and you may take your choice."

The President smiled at the unique which the Senator from North Carolina attempted to place the respon sibility of making a selection between the rival candidates, and advoitly referred them to Secretary of State.

We are Improving From the Washington Post.

So far as drinking in Washington is concerned, the habit has been apidly declining for years. There is little intemperance among public officials, and less than ever before among the employes of the government. It is rare among members of Congress and among reputable citizens generally. It is no more prevalent among Southern Congressmen than it is among the Northern, nor among Western Congressmen than the Easters, nor among visitors from one direction more than another. In ceasing to be a national vice drunkenne has ceased to be a sectional vice.

The Revenue Collectorship.

From the Winston Sentinel. The editor of the Sentinel had the pleasure of seeing President Cleveland last Thursday. "Oh! this is Winston!" be remarked in a kindly marner when a statement was presented to him. We made a plea for this city and stated facts to show the justice of our claim. The President listened attentively, and we believe he is about ready to respond to the expression of our united wishes. If we concentrate our efforts we shall win; if, on the other hand, we wrangle we may lose, and the loss will be irreparable. The opportunity is a great one Seize it and win!

Public Highways.

From the Mayyille, N. Y., Sentinel. No branch of education has been more neglected, and no one thing is more essential to the well-being of any neighborhood or the country at large than good substantial public highways. As usually constructed the general roads throughout the country are a continuous alough a large part of the season, and are a disgrace to our modern civilization. A little or a good deal of money spent in their betterment would be well

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Trained Labor and Schools. EDITOR THE CITIZEN:-In the interest of Asheville I would like to say that I think it would be a mistake to locate many factories even on the outer limits of the city, especially if they are obliged to use soft coal for power. I believe that within five miles of the city on the French Broad river, there is water all the factories that are likely to come Asheville has established a reputation as a health resort and it should not throw it away. A suberb at the seat of water power, would trade almost exclusively with Asheville.

I think the general tone of addresses at the mass meeting the content of the search of the content o power, which can be made available for the mass-meeting the other evening was not encouraging. From my point of view. Asheville has a brilliant future, if we continue as we have begun. We have made a good start on the three essentials for a city: Good water, good streets and less but not least the post less than the start of the and, last but not least, good schools. People and money will come in time. The general drawback now is the surplus of unskilled labor. We must do something to train labor, first in the public schools; second, in industrial schools, and, last, in the factory.

To attract skilled labor from other parts of the country, not only good parts of the country, not only good wages must be offered, but good schools for their children. We need a high school here, but I am afraid as long as it is regarded as a charitable institution we shall not have it. The old maxim that "knowledge is power" is just as true as ever, and this is the kind of power that is needed here.

Extracts From "Good Roads" EDITOR THE CITIZEN:-I know your space is valuable, but hope you can spare enough for a few extracts from the Feb ruary number of Good Roads that our satisfied that the United States will be people may see its interesting character, and be prepared to accept and read it, so soon as we can provide it for them. Gov Flower says. "The great obsta-cle to road improvement has been the continuance of the antiquated working system, whereby highways are worked out by day labor. I know nobody who now seriously defends this system. The results are just a little better than no improvement at all. The costs is great enough to pay for substantial stone reads."

Senator Richardson, who has intro-duced a road bill in the State of New York, says of it:
"This bill is absolutely in the interest of the State, because the roads for which it provides will be built entirely outside of the City, and will give to the farmer a gold dollar's worth of good roads for ten cents, because the farming lands pay only ten per cent. of the taxes." [This fully applies to Buncombe county because the City of Asheville pays six sevenths of the whole county to all "Further I for the City of Asheville pays six sevenths of the whole county tax.] "Further I find that by careful computation that the proportion of the tax. which a hundred acre farm assessed, at $40 per acre, would pay under the bill, would would not exceed fifty cents. This does not equal the amount lost in a single day in wear and tear of horses and wagons in hauling the farmers, produce over the bad roads." T. W. Patton.

Gen. E. Kirby Smith. From a Nashville, Tenn , Telegram.

"The last of them is gone." Such is the case. This veteran warrior and teacher is the last of that galis stated that he was a good mas, that axy of soldiers who headed the Southern armies, whose vanquishment tells the mournfully brilliant history of the "lost cause." Like Lee, the Johnstons, Bragg, Cooper and Beauregard, Kirby Smith has crossed the river and joined his com-rades in their eternal rest. He was the junior of seven full generals of the Con-federacy, and the last to receive that merited promotion.

artial genius of Kirby Smith startled the world at the first Manassas, when, with 1,700 men, by a daring and skillful flank movement, he turned the ide of battle, and wrested almost cer tain victory from the overwhelming leg-ious of McDowell, who were slowly and surely crushing the shattered ranks of Beauregard and Joe Johnston. The last battle of the war was fought by Kirby Smith's men, and the Southern cross floated triumphantly as the declining sun losed the struggle. When the contest was over he doffed the panoply of war, and took up the garb of the professor. In this capacity he proved himself as great as upon the battle field.

Before Prohibition From the Shelby Aurora.

About three years ago a drunken young man slew his innocent brother begging him to come home. Two hours after the tragedy, that same Williamson shed bitter, unavailing tears over the bloody corpse of his beloved brother, the fratricide fled like Cain and the fatal deed brought sorrow and desolation to a noble home. Who says whiskey is not the greatest corse of mankind? We have had one murder—a negro man slew his rival and was hanged recently in Prohibition Cleveland, and seven murders in this county before Prohibition became a law in Cleveland.

HARRIS' LITHIA WATER.

HARRIS' LITHIA SPRINGS, S. C.

After a long and varied experience in the use of Mineral Waters from many sources, both foreign and domestic, I am fully persuaded that the Harris' Lithia Water possesses efficacy in the treatment of affictions of the Kidney and bladder unequalled by any other Water of which have I made trial.

This opinion is based upon observation of its effects upon my patients for the past three years, during which time I have prescribed it freely and almost uniformly with benefit in the medical maladies above mentioned.

When failure to relieve has occurred. I have imputed it to insufficient use of the Water, for my experience teachers me, that from one to two quarts daily should be taken from two to four weeks, to secure its full remedial effects.
