econd Chapter in The Municipa Story Begun Vesterday-How The Ten Cent Fare Won The Day-Dave Hill's Greatness.

The first installment of the history he administration, published vesterday, was interesting to every citizen of Ashe rille, and was eagerly read. The second hapter is printed today.

Early in August, 1891, the ten-cent fare, promulgated by Col. Martin on the street railway, begai to wake the ech-street railway, begai to wake the ech-ces, and on August 14 it was dises, and on August 14 it was disussed, Mayor Blanton taking the position that the Board could not help

A committee from the Commercial club called on the Board on August 21 and reported that Gen. P. M. B. Young (now minister to Guatemala and Honduras) had been overpaid, for paving, $2,019 80, a matter with which almost every man in Asheville is familiar. The committee's report was referred to the finance committee. Mr. Starnes called attention to the electric light poles left in the streets. Nothing was done. About this time there began polite hints that the street railway company was not obeying its charter in keeping its roadbed in

On the 6th of September THE CITIZEN urged editorially that the People's Light, Heat and Power company have a penalty of $10 imposed for every light not burning. It was never imposed, as the company was a pet.

The Late Bee Tree.

There appeared in THE CITIZEN OR September 10 the first allusi n to Bee Free as a source of water supply, which was espoused so warmly for a long time by Advisor Hunt. From an interview in this paper the next day, however, it appears that Alderman Gudger was the first advocate of the scheme. In the same interview Mr. Gudger advocated a reservoir where the city could store one month's water supply. The allacy of such an idea was shown in the

Everybody will recall the long struggle THE CITIZEN had with the dravs and wagons that once hovered around the square. It was victorious in the end, however, Mr. Starnes himself clearing the square, and the wagons have never come back as a nuisance since. The conclusion of THE CITIZEN'S report of the meeting of September 25 follows: The street car fare committee asked continuance for a week, as the city at-torney had not been able to get up his opinion on the matter." No report was made by the committee on the Young

More About The Overpay.

On the 30th of September another re port was made through THE CITIZEN OF the Young overpay, showing that Young did his own measuring of that part of the square for the paving of which he was overpaid. At the meeting following no attention was paid to the report. The meeting on October 2 was favored with a report from the city attorney, to the effect that the city had a right t regulate street car fares within th

The ten cent fare committee made a minority and majority report to the meeting on October 9. The majority by Aldermen Brevard and Leonard, did not the Aldermen except Mr. Gudger, to hear ecommend a change from the present vote of fare. The minority report by Alderman Starnes said "I disagree with ot report.

At a special meeting October 13, the ten cent fare was up by a wide margin and postponed till the following Friday. When this time came a resolution was introduced by Alderman Gudger provid-ing that there should be a return to the five cent fare. Alderman Brevard intro-duced a resolution stating that "in the pinion of the Board there has been no violation of the rights of the company under its charter." The vote on this stood: Ayes, Brevard, Leonard and the late Mr. Reynolds—3; navs, Gudger, Mc-Dowell and Starnes—3. The Mayor untied the lock in favor of ten cents and the crowd fell over itself, getting out into

In a local article in THE CITIZEN December 7, anent the failure of the People's Light, Heat and Power company to light the city, it appeared that Messrs. Brevard, Gudger and McDowell voted to extend the company's contract. In the same article Mr. Starnes is recorded as approving the extension.

December 12 the city engineer was instructed to get up a chain of title of the city hall property and have it properly registered.

The Year '92 Begins.

The first few meetings of 1892 were rather dull, the only item worth note being the rejection on January 29 of Coffin & Stanton's proposition for the purchase of bonds. Messrs, Starnes and Brevard favored the proposition.

Brevard favored the proposition.

The Citizen's report of the meeting on February 5 had the following introductory paragraph: "There was one thing proven beyond any sort of doubt at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen vesterday afternoon, and that was that the new member, Mr. Waddell, proposes to see the city run on business principles."

The instiffication for this was that he The justification for this was that he proposed an ordinance providing that the clerk open a set of books, show a balance sheet to the Board on the first At this stage of the story the Aldermen got into trouble by passing an ordinance which said that a man should be fined $50 for working on a house for which a permit had not been given by the Mayor and Board. This was aimed for a death blow at the hospital, but the city got the black eye instead, as has already been told. Mr. Starnes was the only negative voter on the ordinance, his reason being that "the Board should not fine a laboring man for earning a living honestly."

proposed an ordinance providing that the clerk open a set of books, show a balance sheet to the Board on the first of every month, and that no claim shall be paid unless audited by the finance committee and approved by the Board of Aldermen; that the personal property of the city shall be marked so as to be readily identified, and that the head of each department shall furnish a full list of property in his control. Referred to finance committee to report at the following meeting.

Before the meeting on February 12 Mayor Blanton declared to some friends wayor blanton declared to some friends that Dave Hill was the greatest man on earth. That was about the time there was talk of a Hill club here. In the meeting the offer of Blair & Co., to purchase $343,000 worth of bonds at par, less a commission of 10 per cent., was accommission of 10 per cent. cepted. No mention is made here of Mr. Waddell's services, for which he now asks compensation, nor was his ordinance brought up.

The Joint Board, stimulated by the sale of the bonds, at its meeting on February 17 talked over contracts for grading, etc. On the following day two contractors asked further time for filing their bonds. Mr. Starnes moved that all macadam taken up on streets to be paved should be piled in a heap until meed, but there was no action.

R. McBrayer, who were appointed to look into the question of the ten cent tare, on September 11 reported that the Board had the power to regulate the fares. Deferred a week.

The office of street superior.

The office of street superintendent was abolished on the 18th of September, upon motion of Mr. Starnes. The incumbent, Mr. Clayton, was not a relative of any member of the Board. At this meeting W. B. Gwyn tendered the extension of Charlotte street and it was accepted on motion of Mr. Starnes. At the next meeting I. W. C. Morgan was passing through Cripple Creek he heard a disturbance and saw the disturber and decided to arrest him. The man, Lewis McFadyen, a 190 pound negro, saw the officer coming and pulling pistol began firing at him. McFadyen shot at Mr. Morgan four times, the last bullet whizzing in danger-ous proximity to his head. At this Mr. Morgan drew his pistol and fired, just as McFadven threw his pistol away and started to run. The bullet struck him in the left hip, making only a flesh wound. Mr. Morgan pursued McFadven and after a 200-yards race caught him. The negro resisted desperately, striking the officer several times about body. A man named Wooten came to the rescue, how ever, and McFadyen was taken to jail
