A CONDUCTOR'S STORY

MONEY COULDN'T STOP THE TRAIN. BUT IT WAS STOPPED.

There's a Grave Somewhere at the Foot of the Long Range of White Capped Mountains Over Which the Trains of the Great Northern Crawl.

I never read or hear of the mountains that I do not recall a story told by a conductor of a train on the Great Northern road. We were going to Butte. The train had just crossed the river at Great Falls. From that point the road begins its eastern ascent of the range whose tops are whitened with the snow all the year round. A wide plain spreads out between the line of the road and the range. As the train was getting "a fresh hold on the rails," as one of the party expressed it. the conductor stood on the rear platform of the coach and looked steadfastly at one spot until it was lost. "Got a claim anywhere around there?" sked a traveler who had noticed the conductor's longing look. "A kinder of a claim," he replied. "but not the kind you're thinkin of.' How he came to tell us makes no dif-

terence now. Here is what he told: Bout a year ago, I think it was, young man was put on my train by the conductor who had brought him to where I take it. He had been east. His folks lived down there, I believe. He had been west a good many years, was a sowboy, then a deputy marshal, then a boss of a ranch and then he got to speculatin in Anaconda. He had lived the sort of life out here that a man was expected to live in them days. He was a hard citizen and then a good one. Blest if I know just where he quit off, but he did. He finally got to lovin a girl, and just when he was havin it the wust way she ups and marries a good for nothin dude that came out here and got to clerkin in a raghouse. Then the young man that I am talkin about he goes eas to wear out his feelin's, I reckon. he was gone all summer. They said he was at the seaside. I thought when I heard that as how he would not last long. When a man quits this climate to go to the seaside, there must be something mighty bad about his case. If a man can't get cured here, he needn't go anywhere else.

"Well, when he was put in my care there was four or five of the boys with him. They had heerd he was comin back, and they met him away down this side of St. Paul. And they nursed him all the way and fed him jest as if he had been a sick girl. He was lookin out of the winder of the car all the time, day and night, but wasn't sayin nothin. When we got to Great Falls, he looked out of the car winder and smiled. It was the first time that the boys had see him do that since they met him, and they thought he was gettin well. He asked em to set him up in his berth so he could

'And he looked at the mountain tops out there covered with the whiteness of God, and the foot of the mountains that is washed by the purest water this side of the divide. The train was just getting a good holt on the rails when the poor fellow sank back, and the next thing I see the boys was takin the piller out from under his head. Then I knowed it was all over. Then one of the boys come to me and asked me if I would take $1,000 to stop the train. I told 'em I couldn't do anything of thet sort. They said money was no object. Then I asked em what was up, and one of 'em told me that he, meanin the dead man, had made a last request that he be taken mountain that had the snow on it, the one that caught his eyes first after we had come over the river. They said they had promised him they would. I asked em where they would get a box, and they said a man as good as he was didn't need no box; that the angels would take

"I asked 'em what they would do if the train wasn't stopped. They held a short parley and said in a most respectful way, which I understood, that they had to carry out the wishes of the deceased at all hazards; that they could stop the train if I didn't. I understood em. I pulled the cord and went for ard, and while the engineer was mendin the locomotive, which got out of sorts jest then, the funeral procession moved out, and the dead was buried out there in full sight. It so happened that we got the locomotive fixed just as the funeral was over, and we took the pallbearers into Butte that night. "And I never pass that spot that I don't look out there where they laid him. I ain't never seen any of the pallbearers since, and I don't know the name of the young man that they buried. Do you know, gents, that his grave is green all the year round? I once thought of puttin up a gravestone at the head, but, thinks I, it's none of my business, and, besides, the boys said the angels was goin to to take care of his body, so I thought I wouldn't be intrudin on angel's business. It was the only time, though that my locomotive ever got anything the matter with it."-Chicago Tribune.

Criticism of "Cymbeline." At one of the performances of "Cymbeline" by Modjeska's company one of the audience heard a man behind him say to another. "What is this piece and where did she get it?" "Oh," answered his companion, "something she picked up, I suppose." All this seems less repnsible when Dr. Johnson's criticism of "Cymbeline" is recalled. To him it sounded like the creation of a lunatic without a single lucid interval. - Chicago

SHE TURNED THE TABLES.

How a Little Homely Knowledge Saved a Young Lady Much Discomfort. A young lady through her knowledge of housewifery rather turned the tables apon a would be jester one day and let that individual, who was of the male, persuasion, into a little secret of considerable importance to those who have occasion to work in the kitchen as ama-

The two were members of a party visiting an Adirondack camp in the Saranac lake region. Every one was well equainted, and the days passed merrily away until a heavy rainstorm drove the ladies and the less enthusiastic fishermen indoors and compelled them to sek other forms of amusement. The rain continued to fall almost without intermission for several days, and as a means to relieve the monotony the gentleman already referred to proposed that the various members of the party try their hand at cooking the next meal. Permission was obtained from the host, he members of the party laughingly agreed to the proposition, and the guide whose duty it was to act as cook, was for the time sent about other business. The gentleman acted as chef, and with a knowledge obtained from serving on the house committee of a prominent New York club proceeded to assign various work to his aids and appointed the young lady first vegetable cook for the express purpose of making her peel onions, the odor of which she loathed.

When the party adjourned to the kitchen to begin preparations, a large supply of strong odored red onions was brought to the lady, and she was requested to remove the outer cuticle. The acting chef and the others who had been let into the secret made merry over the supposed discomf ture of the first vegetable cook, but the latter smiled sweetly and uttered no protest. "Bring me a deep pan," she said to her helper, and when this was produced she filled it to the brim with water. Then she tucked up her sleeves to the elbow, showing just the prettiest pair of arms in the world, and removing her rings set to work peeling the onions under water with a deftness that showed how familiar she was with the work and depriv ing it of all its offensiveness

It was a revelation to the man, who had looked either for a vigorous protest, or had expected to see the eyes of the vegetable cook water from the effects of the onion juice. The amateur dinner was in every way a success, but none of the cooks achieved a greater triumph than the one whose practical experience showed to the others the common sense method of peeling onions.—New York

A Life Work.

Mr. Sutherland got hold of a prodig-ious Clarendon and Burnet and made it the richest and most extensive pictorial history in existence or ever likely to be in existence. He found nearly 19,000 prints and drawings for it and no less told him the tigers were out at pasture than 731 portraits of Charles I, 518 of Charles II, 352 of Cromwell, 273 of James II and 420 of William III. If, remarks | Croker mansions, -Washington Post. Mr. Percy Fitzgerald, we only think how few are the portaits of Charles I, and these mostly copies after Vandyke, we shall have an idea of the labor and exploration necessary to gather up the 731. Think also of the pains and cost in cleaning, "laying down." "insetting," and "inlaying" these portraits, the binding, arranging, etc., and we shall not be Sun. surprised to learn that this folly occupied the fanatical Sutherland such s engthy portion of his life. When finished, it filled 67 huge volumes and had cost £12,000! We may conceive all the visitings of print shops, the turning over boxes of prints, the groveling among winds and lanes, the correspondence and the endless paying of money! To give a finish to his labors a catalogue was prepared of all the en-gravings. This filled two great quartos At Sutherland's death the work was carried on by his widow, who is reported to have given as much as £80 for a single

Peculiarities About Tramps. "A fact about your professional vagrant or tramp is that they never want to go back to the place from where they were sent," says a penitentiary superintendent For instance, if one is sent in from along the Susquehanna road, on his discharge he usually requests to be sent north, east or south, or any direction that will take him away from that in which he was ap prehended.

"Only the other day a tramp sent from Otsego begged to be sent to Hudson. He egged so hard that I gave him a ticket to Hudson. The next day he was back again. They pulled me as soon as I stepped from the train, 'he said. County officers, you see, are always on the lookout for tramps because of the mileage received for bringing them here. Work? No, they wouldn't show any inclination or desire for work if they had to lay in the penitentiary for months. But we compel them to earn their keep, very much to their disgust. Usually I set them to work cane seating chairs."—Albany Journal.

was interred at the Hazelwood cemetery in Poweshiek county, Ia. Not long since relatives determined to remove the remains to another cemetery. The workmen engaged to perform the job found the coffin filled to overflowing with red colored mineral water. This was drained off, whereupon it was found that the corpse, with the exception of the fingers and toes, was perfectly petrified. The hair was perfectly natural, as was also a bouquet of roses that lay on her breast. After a thorough examination by relatives and friends the coffin was again closed and covered in.-St. Louis Re-

General Grant's Quick Perception One afternoon during the siege of Vicksburg General Grant came sauntering on foot toward the naval battery on Logan's front. The place was known as the "shell basket," from the number of 10-inch mortar shells dropped into the earth, which exploded and raised clouds of dust that obscured everything in the vicinity for ome moments.

In this instance a few of us had watch ed the flight of a shell, but the general saw the bomb only the moment before it struck, and its windage threw him to the ground. He was unhurt, and conscious that time was precious before the explosion he had rolled himself sufficiently away to escape the shock, but not the earthy shower-from the dust of which he presently emerged, intently considering an unlit cigar. "Logan;" he said cheerily to that gen eral, who in the full bloom of a clean white shirt hastened to him, "how car you keep so clean in such a dusty place? This escape was followed by another few afternoons later, when a shell landed by the front pole of the awning before Logan's tent, and eight generals, Grant among them, rolled hastily out of the in the production shelter to meet uninjured when the dust of Scott's Emulcleared away from the recent place of conference.-T. "In that bottle." designating the on the table. "What's in the box?" asked the friend picking up both and reading the labels. "Keeneen," was the reply. "What's the difference?" was the some what astonished query. The sick man laughed

"Well, that in the bottle I got a vholesale and paid 25 cents for 200 grains, and that in the box I bought at retail and paid 25 cents for 25 grains Do you catch on?"

The friend gave a little whistle. "I presume," he said, "eyether will do," and gave the patient one of each. Detroit Free Press.

Tiger Skins Not Popular In One Family. Mrs. Richard Croker of New York city tells some funny stories of her experiences with people who have heard o rammany tigers. One day a country man came to the Crokers' Richfield Springs home to do some odd jobs. Mrs Croker noticed him peering around the floors, and about the time she began to grow suspicious of the man he asked: "Where are the tigers?"

"Tigers! What tigers?" "Why, the folks around here say yo kept tigers all on the floor." Mrs. Croker had to smile, but earnestly The man looked relieved. The fact of it is tiger skin rugs are not popular in the
