INFORMATION WANTED IN ILLINOIS

The Third Wife of James Litterl Refers to a Killing That is Said to Have Occurred Twenty Years Ago.

The CITIZEN has received a letter, dated Disco, Hancock county, Ill., May 6, and signed Mrs. E. Litterl, in which the writer asks for information that some reader of THE CITIZEN may be able to give her. The letter is as follows: "Is Hattie A. Nash-Litterl living in the United States? If she is let her speak her first husband, James Litterl, lives at Disco, Ill., where he was married to his third wife. He says he was married in 1861 or '62 to Hattie A. Nash in Buncombe county or thereabouts. He also says he killed a man in his house through jealousy and then entered the Rebel army and remained till the close of the war. He then went to Ohio, where he married without having secured a divorce. According to this I am his third wife—or ought to be. "Now, if any of the Nash family are living, will they let me know where they are, and if Hattie A. Nash or Litterl is living, I have the name of the man whom James Litterl killed. He says he killed him on the Nash farm." If any of THE CITIZEN'S readers know of the case and will communicate with this paper or Mrs. Litterl the third wife will no doubt confer a favor on the writer of the letter.

The picnic of the Asheville firemen and their friends will occur tomorrow at the Sulphur Springs. There are to be sports of various kinds and refreshments that will delight the appetite of the picnickers. The members of Hose Company No. 1 want to raise money with which to pay the expenses of their trip to Washington and have adopted the plan of raising the funds. The picnic will afford all an opportunity of spending a pleasant day in the country and at the same time of contributing a mite to the firemen's fund. Cars for the picnic grounds will leave the postoffice every 15 minutes.

RASCALLY WORK.

A Misanthrope at Work on the Steam Road Roller.

Some person with malice aforethought and without fear of the law in his heart has been making trouble with the steam road roller, which has for some time been at work on North Main street. The misanthrope, with a sharp knife, made a cut at the governor belt, completely severing it, and in such a manner as will make a new belt necessary. Not satisfied with this, the misanthrope cut a slit a foot long in the hose which is used in drawing water from the hydrant into the tank of the machine. Inspector Murray is naturally hot over the rascal's work.

Y. M. C. A. Illustrated Lecture.

At the members' meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last evening Prof. P. P. Claxton gave a very pleasing lecture on the "Legends of the Rhine." With the aid of a stereopticon, loaned by Prof. Ed. S. Stephens, many illustrations were shown, among others, the ruined palace in Heidelberg, cathedral at Mayence, Mouse Tower, Bingen, the ruined castle of Forstenburg, St. Goar, the town of Boppard, the strongly fortified Ehrenbreitstein, Colongne, Cologne and other castles associated with the legends of this most beautiful river of Germany. After the lecture the ladies furnished cake and lemonade.

The Opportunity of a Lifetime.

It is a well known principle among the medical fraternity that old feathers are unwholesome and patients are not allowed to remain upon them unless thoroughly renovated. They must be cleaned by steam and steam only. The citizens of Asheville have now an opportunity to have their feathers cleaned and renovated that they may never have again. Pillows, bolsters and bedticks made to order. Tully & Co., Patton avenue.

W. E. Haliburton is canvassing the city in the interests of John L. Stoddard's "Glimpses of the World and Portfolio of Photographs," a strikingly handsome and valuable addition to art literature of 538 pages with 268 full page plates from photographs of the most noted places all around the world. Parties interested may obtain further information by calling at the Single hotel on Patton avenue. The work is sold by subscription only.

Mayor Blanton, who is a close reader of THE CITIZEN, calls the paper's attention to an omission from the oath as administered by him to the new Advisors on Friday last. The oath should have said "faithfully and impartially perform the duties," etc. When printed the "faithfully and impartially" were left out unintentionally. The Mayor says he laid special stress upon the "impartiality."
