A FAMOUS QUAKER MAIDEN.

Dolly Madison's Youth and How She Met Her Distinguished Husband. Dolly was the second of the six children and was named after her mother's aunt, Mrs. Patrick Henry. She was a bright, pretty child, whose interesting chatter and winning ways won hosts of friends.

Her parents, who were members of the Society of Friends, in accordance with their religion, denied their children all ornaments and accomplishments save those of "a meck and gentle spirit." Until she was 12 years old Dolly lived quietly in the country and attended the village school where most of her education was received. Every morning be fore starting out her sunbonnet was sewed securely under her chin by her careful mother and with the addition of a white linen mask to still further pro-tect her complexion and long gloves she

Her father was one of the first of his sect in Virginia to become doubtful of slavery, and his scruples finally led him to liberate his slaves, sell his plantation and remove to Philadelphia. Here he engaged in business, but as his clorts proved unsuccessful after several years the family became very much reduced in circumstances.

In the meantime Dolly had been growing daily in grace and beauty. At 19 she was tall and slender, with a "delicately oval" face, well formed features, a "dazzlingly fair" complexion and blue eyes of "much sweetness under her demure Quaker cap."

John Todd, a wealthy, good looking young lawyer of the same religion, soon fell a victim to her charms and made her an offer of marriage which she declined, saying she never intended to mar-ry. Hearing of her refusal her father, who was ill at the time, immediately summoned her to his side, and told her it was his greatest wish to see her well provided for before he died, that it would make him very unhappy if she persisted in her refusal, so like a dutiful daughter she reversed her decision and became the wife of John Todd.

Her marriage proved to be a very hap-py one, but after the brief space of three years her husband diod, and she was left widow at 22. Rich and very attractve, she had many admirers.

James Madison, at that time considered an unreclaimable bachelor, chanced to see her one day while she was out walking with a friend and was so much impressed with her beauty and gree of bearing that he did not rest until he had obtained the promise of an introduction. A few days later she met him at her own house, and in the first interview cap-tured his heart. She wore on this occa-sion a gown of "mulberry satin, with a silk tulle kerchief over her neck and on her head a dainty cap, from which the curls would escape. An engagement soon followed, and in September, 1794, Mrs. Todd, accompanied by the enamored Madison and sev-WALDMIRE-A handsomely furnished eral friends, left Philadelphia for Harewhere the marriage ceremony was to take place. > Friends and relatives from far and near were assembled to greet the bridal party, and many of them remained for days after the wedding to keep up the festivities. For momentos of the occasion the girls cut the machin lace from Mr. Madison's shirt ruilles, and amid showers of rice the laughing bride and groom drove off to spend their honeymoon at Montpelier.

The close of the year found them back in Virginia, where, at her husband's request, Mrs. Madison laid aside ber Quaker dress and for the first time in her life began to enjoy society. — New York

A Scathing Reply to a Bishop. At a clerical meeting the subject of the separate mode of administering the communion came up. One of those present said that when there were a large number present at the celebration he often preferred to give the exhortation to several persons together, as it made the feast more of a communion than when each was incl. and from his fellow wor shipers by the sequente mode of adminis-tration. Bishop Wilberforce, with sarcastic mien and tone, replied, "I under stand you, Mr. Eardley, to prefer admin-istration by wholesale?" Mr. Eardley rejoined, "My lord bishop, when the divine founder of the feast, addressing the 12 apostles, said, 'Drink ye all of the cup,' I do not think that even Judas Iscariot would have dared to sneer at him as a 'wholesale administrator.' " The bishop's usual readiness deserted him, and he had nothing to say .-San Francisco Argonaut.

Collecting Chinese Coins. "The earliest Chinese coins that I hav heard of," said Consul Bedloe, date from the dynasty which ruled from 250 to 207 B. C. From that time until today these peful little coins have been used by every monarch, no matter whether he was an emperor of the entire country or king of one of the petty principalities into which from time to time the Chinese empire was broken. There have been over 1,200 occupants of the various thrones, royal and imperial. In addition to these regular issues, if such they may be called, there have been special issues from time to time and also special local issues. A wealthy mandarin in Canton is said to have the finest collection extant, containing 25,000 specimens of different kinds.

The cost increases as you go backward in time. The cash of this century can be secured at their nominal face value.
