S. S. LYNCH'S STATEMENT REPLY TO THE FINANCE COM-MITTER'S REPORT.

The Former City Weighmaster Shows to the Board of Aldermen That There Were Inaccuracies in the Report.

In his statement to the Board of Alaction on the report of the finance committee in his case, ex-Market Keeper Lynch said on Friday that "the report contains errors of fact and contravenes my equitable and legal rights in the following particulars: "The report gives me credit on account of eash paid by me to the city clerk during the time embraced in the report of only $210, whereas I paid during that time sums amounting to $240 as appears of record in the office of the city clerk in the 'day book of miscella-neous and contingent expenses,' at pages 31, etc.

"The report sets forth that the finance committee find 'from the verbal state ments of S. S. Lynch, but no record o such transaction, that about July 14, 1890, he was placed in charge of the scales, the terms being that he should retain to his own use two-thirds of the receipts and pay to the city one-third thereof.' The report thus ignores the fol-lowing action of the Board of Aldermen on August 29, 1890, as found in the official record on page 57: "'Mr. Lynch asked the Board to state definitely what per cent. of the receipts of the scales they were willing to allow nim for his services. On motion it was ordered that he be allowed two-thirds of his receipts, the city to have the bal-

"According to the present information and belief there was never any subsequent order of the Board of Aldermen repealing or modifying said order and it remained in force continuously while I remained in charge of the city scales. The report further sets forth that 'S. S. Lynch stated to the finance committee that about May, 1891, he was authorized to retain to his own use all the receipts from the city scales from that time until June 1, 1892.' This is error, in that it was from October 1, 1891, that I understood I was so authorized and I believe so stated to the finance commutee. Having the directions of the mayor and chairman of the Board of Aldermen to take the entire receipts of the scales from October 1, 1891, to June 1, 1892, which I have neretofore shown were given, I supposed I had authority so to do. "If the directions of the mayor as shown were a sufficient warrant to me, then the city is justly indebted to me as appears by the following statement, in

It will be remembered that the Reform finance committee recently made a re port which tried to make Mr. Lynch the city's debtor to the amount of $414.19 The report also said that certain sup-posed records of actions by the former Board could not be found. Mr. Lynch's statement disproves this assertion.

MISS MILLER'S SUICIDE.

Particulars of the 8ad Happen ing of Baturday

The news of the suicide by hanging Miss Susan Miller in Upper Hominy township was received too late Saturday afternoou to permit of the publication of particulars. The circumstances, as related by ex-Commissioner J. C. Curtis, follow;

Saturday morning Wm. Miller, away, instructing Miss Susan to prepare dinner. Not long after the mother left neck. One end of the rope was made tast to a crossbeam and the suicide She died from strangulation. When found her feet rested on the floor and her knees touched a pile of hay under the spot chosen for the hanging. Mrs. Miller returned from the store and found dinner unprepared and Miss Susan away. She thought little of her absence, however, until about moor when she became alarmed at the daughter's failure to appear and sent one of the children to search for her. The searcher went to the barn and found Miss Miller the position described and quite

Miss Miller had been ill for a long time, though she was in her usual health Saturday, and it is thought that coninued brooding over her affliction caused he suicide. She had never shown the alightest sign of i sanity.

Mr. Miller the father, was in Asheville when the sad affair happened. Miss Miller's body was interred yesterday near Turnpike.

A TRIP TO THE FAIR.

lderman Westall Gives Some

Facis and Figures Thereon. J. M. Westall returned on Thursday fron the World's Fair. It is all nonsense, Mr Westall says, for anyone to talk about extortionate prices at Chicago. There is no extortion unless the visitor goes there determined to spend all the money he can. Mr. Westall, accompanied by Mrs. Westall, spent eight days in the Windy City, saw as much of the big show as could be seen in that time, and the entire trip, railroad fare, board and everything from the time of leaving Asheville to the day of return, cost $120, or $60 each. Mr. and Mrs. Westall while in Chicago stopped with Mrs. Carrie Carr Mitchell, who formerly kept the Fagg house on Merrimon avenue, Asheville, At Mrs. Mitchell's they had an excellent stopping place, at a cost of $2 a day each. Her house is some distance from the fair grounds, but distance matters little in a city with the transportation facilities Chicago has. Many Ashevillians and North Carolinians stay at Mrs, Mitchell's. Mr. Westall says the order that is preserved at the Fair is wonderful when the vastness of the crowds is taken into consideration. He did not see a drunken man nor hear an oath in the grounds all the time he was there. And in the city of Chicago he saw only three drunken men during his stay. Of the fair itself, Mr. Westall says nothing but a visit will give While the newspaper men were on one an adequate conception of its in-their excursion to Chimney Rock last mensity—words cannot picture it. He
