Collector Elias has promoted S. I. Rogers to the position of chief clerk in the Asheville office, to which position is attached the salary of $1,800 a year. Mr. Rogers was appointed on July 3 to the position of eashier in this office, and the promotion was made before he had assumed charge of the office. Mr. Rogers came in from his home in Macon ounty yesterday, and is now busy 'learning the ropes" from Chief Clerk Nichols. The new chief will take charge formally in a few days, and expects to bring his family to Asheville in the near future.

Revenue Agent Colquitt, who was recently appointed to succeed E. J. Swift in this district, arrived last night and has been consulting with Collector Elias today with regard to the business in the district. Mr. Colquitt is a brother of U. S. Senator Colquitt of Georgia.

A delegation of McDowell men came up yesterday and have talked today

A delegation of McDowell men came up vesterday and have talked today with the Collector concerning candidates for deputy collector in that division. The delegation is composed of J. F. Morphew, G. H. Gardin, J. H. Hemphill, John Carson, W. McD. Burgin, and R. W. Brown of Marion, J. C. Sandlin and J. T. Reed of Old Fort. The delegation wish McDowell made into a division of itself, as there are some 30 distilleries in that county alone. Until recently there were 16 divisions in the district, but the number was cut down to 13. An endeaver ber was cut down to 13. An endeaver will be made to have the old number of divisions re-established. Geo. W. Tilson, who a few days ago was offered by Collector Elias a position in the revenue service at a compensation of $2.50 a day and expenses, and who declined, gives The Citizen his reasons for the declination. Hs says that at first glance the pay seems all right, but that really wages are drawn only for such time as the officer may be in actual service. Mr. Tilson made an examina-tion of the records of the office and says he found that the best record made by an officer in this branch of the service was an average of $40 a month. Ordi-was an average of $10 a month. Ordinarily the compensation amounts to from $20 to 30 a month. And this is why Mr. Tilson declined.

Mr. Tilson was an applicant for the chief clerkship in the Collector's office, and was very strongly endorsed by prominent Democrats in every part of the district.

VESTERDAY'S PICNIC

Mappy Day Speut. Despite the Walt for Current.

It has been rumored that the First Presbyterian church never has been, is not and never will be in favor of Sunday SNIDER'S. school picnics. If the first part of the rumor is true, the second and last certainly are not. The heartiness with which the F. P. Sunday school entered into yesterday's outing showed the genuine picnic spirit. At 10 o'clock the sunday school scholars, teachers and parents were rounded up in the lecture room, counted, ticketed with bits of ribbon, and marched to the government building to wait for the electric cars chartered to take the party to Sulphur Springs. One car was in waiting and was promptly packed with 50 or more of the picnickers; and for nearly an hour these patient people, mostly children, waited in the car, while the rest of the party camped on the lawn or played ball, bean bags, etc. The second car was not on hand, and there wasn't any current; but perhaps the half-hundred canned picnickers in car number one thought they could furnish the jelly! Soon after 11 the other car appeared, the lawn party climbed in and the picnic was fairly begun. When the next. was fairly begun. When the party reached Sulphur Springs and the refreshpaskets and set the table in the pavilion baskets and set the table in the pavilion, it seemed that the traditional twelve baskets might be filled with the fragments, after all had been fed. But the children had brought pienic appetites, and the lunch, though varied and abundant, was not much too bountiful.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, who is summering at the Springs, kindly furnished delicious coffee and country cream. C. E. Graham led the children in their after-dinner games to their great delight. Thanks are due W. A. Latimer for his gift of 100 wooden plates, and to Thad. W. Thrash for his loan of tin cups. About 100 pic nickers went out in the first cars, some drove out in the morning and a number joined the party later in the day. The vicnic was a complete success and those who stayed at home may well sigh for

AN OVERLAND ROUTE.

Dr. Merns and Party Come Here

From Covington, Ky. "I am here on a purely pleasure trip," said Dr. Charles Kerns, of Covington, Ky., when seen at the Glen Rock hotel today. "I came overland, leaving home on the 2d, and reaching here on Monday ust. We found the roads in fine condi tion through Kentucky; in fact, all the way until we reached the mountain way until we reached the mountain region, then we had it rough. I have a small party of young people with me, including my son, Dr. Kerns, and daughter, Mrs. Worthington. We expect to return home through a different section of the country, leaving here tomorrow.

"I had a carriage built expressly for this style of travel with all the conveniences possible and I must say me think iences possible, and I must say we think it the best way to get a correct knowledge of the country. The enjoyment and novelty of this way of traveling are both enjoyable to a high degree."

Blew Great Guns NEW ORLEANS, July 14 .- The steam ship Franklin, from Bonita, Spanish Hondura, reports that a terrible storn swept the coast of Honduras recently. The storm commenced July 6th, and lasted 10 hours. Many vessels were driven ashore and the damage to the fruit plantation is reported as large.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 14 .- The steamer Falcon with the Peary expedition on board, arrived here yesterday morning. All on the steamer were well. Pleasant weather was experienced. The steamer took on 180 tons of coal and other supplies, and sailed today for Greenland.

instructive Discussions At The Teachers' Institute. WEAVERVILLE, N. C., July 12 .- The institute was opened this morning by C E. Chambers. The enrollment of teachers has reached 51. Remembering the fact that two other institutes are to be held at different points in the county this is a large number. The work of the program was continued by a lecture on "How to Teach Reading," by Mrs. Mc-Dowell of the Weaverville college. Like all her intellectual work this was dis-Dowell of the Weaverville college. Like all her intellectual work this was distinguished by great clearness in the development of the general plan; accuracy and fullness in giving and illustrating the details; and force grace, and elegance in the presentation and expression of both.

The educational value, the ennobling mental influence, and the literary beauties of the study of history, were all portrayed with the skill and power of an enthusiastic scholar and teacher, by Mrs. T. W. Branch, of Asheville. That a a knowledge of United States history is one of the essential elements in that intelligence which is requisite to good citizenship, could hardly have been more fully demonstrated, or more eloquently expressed by any of our statesmen. Along what paths the student should travel, and how to guide him therein, to obtain this knowledge most easily and exactly, could not have been better taught. There was (and there could be) but one comment on this really splendid paper—admirable.

It was shown by Mrs. McDowell, that the "dry" and "unintelligible" subject of grammar—as frequently taught—may be made interesting, beautiful, and easily comprehended when given to the stugrammar—as frequently taught—may be made interesting, beautiful, and easily comprehended when given to the students in a natural and rational manner. Of course her "method" cannot be detailed and illustrated here. Having acquired the "habit" of doing everything better than anybody else, she made no apparent effort to overcome it in this lecture.

I speak for teachers and people, as well as myself, when I say that Misses Annie Weaver and Miss Nannie C. Weaver, and Mrs, McDowell and Mrs. Branch have our most heartfelt thanks for their valuable and beautiful papers and lectures.
"How to improve our public schools" "How to improve our public schools" was discussed until the bour of adjourament by the Superintendent, by Hon. John W. Starnes and Dr. J. L. M. Curry.

At 2 o'clock Dr. Curry again addressed the teachers and people. Of course it was an earnest, sensible, able and cloquent speech, full of sound and valuable information and advice to the teachers, especially to C. B. Way.
