UNITED INDUSTRIAL CO.

ITS PROPOSITION TO THE PEOPLE OF ASHEVILLE.

If Accepted the City Would Have to Make a Heavy Expenditure and Give Up the Present Water Works Site.

Following is the proposition of the United Industrial Co., as made to the Board of Aldermen at yesterday's meeting:

To the Hon. the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Asheville:

I have the honor to submit to your honorable Board, a communication from The United Industrial company, a corporation organized for manufacturing purposes under the laws of New York. As a representative of this company, I spent three portions of the past three months investigating the advantages of various localities in the South with a view to establishing the manufacture of the kinds of every description, wool and cotton mixed, and cotton.

The center of this industry is now in the Mohawk Valley, in New York State, and with it as a basis, the cities of Troy, Cohoes and Amsterdam have made wonderful progress in population and wealth. The organizers of this company are of the highest character and financial ability.

After careful study of the subject we are convinced that the South has decided advantages over New York or any other Northern or Western State in the manufacture of textile fabrics. Your climate is as a rule better adapted to the rearing and spinning of cotton and wool, your labor is cheaper, not for the present alone, but permanently, because it costs less to live in the South your cotton may be grown almost at the factory door; your water powers are large and unincumbered by ice, and the distance here necessary for fuel, while at the same time fuel itself is cheap. These are your prominent advantages. The disadvantages are great but not temporary. They are poor transportation facilities, high freight rates, and unskilled labor, so that no matter what faith men may have in the ultimate prosperity of the South, these disadvantages are great and may well cause capital to hesitate.

To overcome these difficulties nearly every place I have visited throughout the South has made this company most generous offers, including the building of the new industry should be fairly on its feet.

The purpose of the United Industrial company is to establish a knit goods center. It will not be confined to one factory, but shall erect one after another until by its machinery every class of knit goods can be made, giving employment to at least five thousand help, representing a number of fitly educated "hand people." With this object in view I have looked for a location which would combine the following requisites: First, A suitable water power to furnish power to the entire plant.

Second, Proximity to the cotton belt.

Third, Dry and healthful climate.

Fourth, Proximity to railroads.

Fifth, An intelligent population from which to supply skilled help.

Not even Asheville combines all these advantages. The water power is not as large as could be wished, freight rates are high, and the cotton belt is distant, but, on the other hand, you have a perfect climate, and a people known the country over as most intelligent and enterprising. Your city will be attractive to Northern help above any other in the South. We have made a survey of the Swannanoa, and Mr. Byron Holley, the best known hydraulic engineer in the country, has made his report to the effect that at a point a short distance above Gauders' bridge, we can erect a dam, eighty five feet high which will give us about fifteen hundred horsepower. This dam would consist of earth work and masonry and would cost nearly one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It would be built on solid rock, between rock cliffs, and our engineer claims that properly constructed, it would be as strong as the hills themselves. Our purpose would be to erect a factory at once to employ some two hundred persons and to follow this with others as rapidly as help can be educated. We would erect handsome cottages for the help who wish to live near the factories, and would build a school house, and supply a teacher for the children of the employes. We would use every effort to connect with your city by electric road, so that our help may have access to your stores and make purchases to their liking, and that in this industry are the best paid and most intelligent of work people, and in the North they are justly noted for character and good taste, earning such good wages they are able to live as men and women should live. We, of course, shall follow the policy of Northern manufacturers and make no attempt to take any part in the trade and merchandising of their goods. They shall go where they wish, and the choicest lines and the best bargains. The policy of setting up stores at which the help are expected to merchandise is demoralizing and the best class of help will not endure it. This company will therefore do all it can to give the help the utmost freedom in all matters outside the factory. In harmony with this policy we shall not compete in the houses owned by us, but shall aid them in all ways to build for themselves cottages of artistic design. In no event shall we permit shanties to be erected, such as are only too common around the cotton mills of the South.

Such an outline is our purpose and we have ample means to accomplish it, but there are two difficulties:

First, The possibility of polluting the water supply of your city; and

Second, The necessity, owing to your inferior water power, of putting into a dam to create the large sum of money without return until we have erected enough factories to utilize the entire power, which would require at least five years.

Other southern cities have made most liberal offers all the way from $10,000 cash to a water power already developed worth $50,000. All we ask of Asheville is to remove the present water power plant exclusive of the pumps, and to that end, we propose as follows:

The Proposition.

The city shall continue its water mains to our dam, connect the water pumps thereto in running order, turn over to us the present water power plant exclusive of the pumps, and we will furnish the city water just at what it has cost heretofore.

We claim that the City would get a much purer water supply from our dam than they have at present. Passing through a lake of such dimensions this water would be inevitably much purer and cleaner than the surface near the dam where the pumps would take it. When all this power is utilized by our factories the pay roll will amount to $100,000 per month, and the plant will represent more than a million dollars.

It will take about six months to build the dam, working 200 hundred men. I shall only add that we are ready to go to work at once, and further, that the City may count on our complete assistance in any public enterprise, and in making Asheville and the outlying districts leaders in trade and manufactures, such as nature has already made them in scenery and climate.

Yours,
A. G. Maxwell.

The Proposition Was Rejected.

The special committee from the Board of Aldermen, Mayor Patton, J. M. West, and W. W. Jones, met this morning, with W. G. Maxwell also present, and after going through the above proposition, unanimously decided to report upon it unfavorably in its present shape. The Mayor stated to Mr. Maxwell that while he was at all times ready as an individual to consider business propositions he would never, for an instant, agree to donate the property of the city. The people of the city will be interested in knowing what the cost will be to make the connections with the proposed new dam. City Engineer Lee and Water Superintendent Murray have made a general estimate and say that at the rate of the Kelly pipe line two miles of line will cost $30,000, and to remove and set up the machinery as it now stands will take $15,000 more. The cost of the present works was between twenty and twenty five thousand dollars.

SHOT A LITTLE CHILD

SHOCKING RESULT FROM RESISTING AN OFFICER.

Neil McIntosh, a Desperate Man, Resists Arrest—His Child Shot By An Officer In Attempting To Get The Father.

MARSHALL, N. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—On Thursday night last Deputy Sheriff A. J. Arrington, accompanied by a posse, went to the home of Neil McIntosh on Fosters creek, in this county, to arrest him for an assault.

When the officer attempted to enter the house McIntosh met him with a drawn axe, whereupon Arrington fired. The ball missed McIntosh, but entered the side of his little two-years-old child, inflicting what is supposed to be a mortal wound.

McIntosh then surrendered and is now in jail.

Arrington came in today and surrendered to the sheriff and was placed in jail to await a hearing on Monday.

McIntosh is a desperado and refused to be arrested by Arrington some time ago.

JUDGE ELIAS COCKE.

Well Known Tennesseean Has Relieved From Misfortune.

The Knoxville Journal of yesterday has the following item regarding a gentleman often seen in Asheville:

"Judge Elias Cocke, the famous defender of moonshiners in Judge Key's court, was in the city yesterday and was in an unusually happy frame of mind. The judge was noticed to carry himself more erect and seemed to be taller than usual. Those who know him are aware of physical misfortune as to his lower extremities. Recently he permitted Dr. Hatcher of his town to experiment by cutting loose certain contracted leaders in the ankle, which has afforded him wonderful relief and enabled him to navigate with greater ease. His father, he says, had expended $2,000 in having a noted New York specialist operate on him for weeks, who never afforded him one half the relief this simple operation had."

COLLECTOR ELIAS RETURNS.

He Still Has No Doubt of His Confirmation.

Collector Elias returned from Franklin today and immediately took up the thread of office life at his desk in the government building. His stay in Franklin was for the purpose of preparing cases for court, but a notice from Judge Armfield to the sheriff saying that there would be no session of the court made it unnecessary for Mr. Elias to remain longer away.

Mr. Elias said that he had received intimation that charges had been made in Washington against his personal character, but that he would come out of the investigation unscathed and fully vindicated. He said further that he had no doubt of his confirmation.

They were working directly under the bed of the river, when it broke through the roof of the mine.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 20.—About 20 cases were reported yesterday and one death, Mrs. J. P. Mullin, wife of the gentleman who died last week. Surgeon Paget says that the outlook is favorable for a large increase in cases during the next 15 days, but the mortality will be small. The sudden chilly atmospheric change warrants his prediction.
