REV. J. S. BURNETT DEAD
WE' NORN'S MINISTER DIES THIS MORNING

He Was a Native of Tennessee, but He Spent the Greater Part of His Life Here and Was Loved by Who Knew Him.

The light of one of the noblest and best lives ever given to mortals went out with the death of Rev. J. S. Burnett, which occurred early this morning at the residence of Rev. Mr. Burnett's brother-in-law, Capt. J. R. Dulose, on Pine street, this city.

Mr. Burnett had been in ill health for four or five years past, and had been calmly awaiting the going down of life's sun, which to him meant but a transition from earthly scenes to the blessed inheritance in the world beyond.

Rev. J. S. Burnett was born 73 years ago, and was a native of Tennessee. He entered the ministry while young, in the Holston conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in which conference the Asheville, Ga., circuit was included until its transfer to the Western North Carolina conference a few years ago. Mr. Burnett removed to Asheville and was the first pastor to minister to the Methodist congregation here after this church was made a station. This was many years ago, and the house of worship stood about where Central church now stands.

Mr. Burnett won the hearts of his little flock and the friendship and admiration of every one who knew him, of whatever denomination. And this estimation of the goodly man has always been held by the people here, who have known him closely through all the changes in years.

At three different periods of his life Mr. Burnett was stationed at Asheville. With the exception of a residence at Cantonburg, during a portion of the war, he spent his life here, his home being the place now owned by C. S. Cooper in Beaufort.

Mr. Burnett was married four times. His first wife was Miss Mary Eliza Alexander, an aunt of Col. J. M. Ray of Ramoth. She died in 1840. His second wife was the daughter of W. Woodruff of this city. His third marriage was to a Miss Tucker of Statesville. His fourth wife was Miss Sallie Spauld, a sister of Mrs. J. R. Dulose, who survives him.

Five children were born to Mr. Burnett, the fruits of his first union. Of these only two are living, Capt. Wiley Burnett, a prominent lawyer of Albion, Ga., and William Burnett, owner of the Bank of Spartanburg, S. C. First gentlemen were with their father when he died.

Mr. Burnett was a truly good man, in the fullest sense of the term. He dealt with the strict conscientiousness of his full duty in directing souls to Christ; a heart overflowing with kindness and love to every man, a nature that drew to it and influenced by good every one with whom it came in contact; such a man this good man was, and there lives not the man or woman today who can say aught of Mr. Burnett that does not testify to this wondrous loveliness of his character as a man and as a minister. To the hundreds, yea, to the thousands who have known him in the years he spent here the memory of Mr. Burnett's death will come as a blow, and into each heart will come a sense of a personal loss in his disease. He lived and died a man of God's own image, pure, just and noble.

One instance may be here related which will serve to show the estimation in which Mr. Burnett was held in the Holston conference, and the reverence he severed his connection with the conference. When he re-entered the conference he was given charge of the church at Knoxville, which was the most prominent station in the Holston circuit. Mr. Burnett in latter days loved to meet his friends and talk of times gone by. Readers of THE CITIZEN will remember an article published in this paper no longer ago than September, in which he related a reminiscence of the experiences of the mountain circuit rider, brought to mind by the publication of an article by his friend, C. K. T. in the same issue. One of the paragraphs of Mr. Burnett's letter follows:

"The times have certainly changed for the better, at least on the material side, in favor of the Methodist circuit rider. True, they don't all, even yet, but very downy places to light when the great iron wheel of the itinerancy gives them their annual revolution, but this is changed, that your well-kept, nicely-barbered and artistically-tailored clergymen of today see the ruggedness of early years we see distant mountains—through a delicately softening mist.

The funeral services over Mr. Burnett's body will occur at 12 o'clock tomorrow at Alexander's chapel, seven miles north of the city, where several members of his family were buried. The funeral procession will leave Capt. Dulose's residence on Pine street promptly at 10 o'clock.

The pallbearers will be Messrs. F. Stokely, W. W. Warrick, W. H. Bond, Jas. W. Sawyer, Julius Alexander, James M. Alexander, J. S. E. Bard, James Webb, James H. Merriman and Joseph S. Adams.

CRIMINAL COURT
Samuel Harper's Sentence Reduced To Five Years.

In the Criminal court yesterday afternoon Judge Jones heard the counter affidavits of the State regarding the conduct of the Harper jury. E. H. Britt, T. F. Hunter, T. F. Orr, D. W. Brenton and W. P. Chesborough, members of the jury, testified that the only communications with outside parties had been the court while sitting on the bench. They had not been approached or tampered with in any manner and there had been no improper conduct whatsoever. One juror had taken three drinks of whiskey during the trial and another had held whiskey in his mouth at one time while suffering from toothache. None were under the influence of whiskey in the slightest degree; the liquor was not furnished by anybody connected with the jury, and that if it had appeared that any member had been under the influence of whiskey he would not have hesitated a moment to get inside the verdict.

The motion for a new trial was overruled and the solicitor asked the judgment of the court.

Mr. A. J. Jans made a plea for the mercy of the court in the sentence and stated that he did not believe the prisoner of sound mind.

Clerk Young and Dr. R. W. Cooper testified that they had known Harper many years and that they believed him to be but little better than insane.

The judge said that he had been impressed by Harper's demeanor during the prisoner's presence in court, that he was minded to grant a new trial in view of all the circumstances and the recommendation of the jury he would make the sentence seven years in the penitentiary.

Harper was brought into court this morning and on motion of his counsel the court ordered the judgment in the case stricken out and a judgment to be entered ordering the term of imprisonment five years.

Sheriff Broadshire left this afternoon for Raleigh, having under his care Samuel Harper and Alford Moore, who were sentenced to the penitentiary at this term.

AN OLD WELL
Brings Fresh Into Public Notice Again

In years gone by there were two "public wells" in court square, one on either side, a short distance east of the court house. As time wore on and the laws of health were better understood the wells were filled up. Still later the court square fence was set in several feet which placed the old wells outside the fence. When north Court Place was paved the embankment over the old well at about 100 feet from the well were seen several very early thought of. Today, however, Health Officer E. J. Noland discovered a cavern in the sidewalk alongside of the old well large enough to admit of a person's head. Workmen were sent to the spot and on excavating found a cavity of some size under the pavement, caused by water that had found its way beneath the floor and paving. The hole was sealed and the old well again returns to "private life."

He Ran Away Behind His Ticket Even In Tammany Strongholds—McKinley's Majority Mounts Upward as on Wings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Additional returns from election districts in this City show how disastrous a candidate Maynard has been to the Democrats. He ran 34,000 behind his ticket. In New York county, the plurality of McKee, Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, was 64,975, while that of Maynard was only 30,817.

The Republicans gained three assemblymen in this city, carrying the eleventh and twenty-second and twenty-seventh district. The result in this last named district, was a great surprise, as Croker's pet candidate, Webster, was running there.

The returns show that not even in Tammany strongholds were the bosses able to keep Maynard up with the ticket. The Legislature will stand: Senate, Republicans, 18; Democrats, 14; Independent Democrats, 2 total, 32. Assembly, Republicans, 75; Democrats, 53, total, 128.

The President's Interest.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The President did not show intense interest in the returns Tuesday night. Early in the evening the President went out to his country home, instead of remaining at the executive mansion as is usual on election nights, and the returns he received were only those of sufficient importance to be telephoned out to Woodley by Private Secretary Thurber as the latter received them from the telegraph wire at the White House.

This is Agonizing.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Official returns are in from three fourths of the 88 counties, and with official figures from the remaining counties Governor McKinley's plurality is placed at $3,791 and his majority over all at 30,000. The Senate will stand: Republicans, 25; Democrats, 5. House: Republicans, 56; Democrats, 21.

Republicans Here Too.
