Emulsion of GOD LIVER OIL, With Port Wine.

Under the above title we offer a new combination of God Liver Oil in which the nauseous taste of the oil is completely masked by the use of Port Wine and Aromatics. At the same time the tonic and digestive properties of the wine render assimilation easy. From those who cannot take God Liver Oil on account of its disagreeable taste and difficult assimilation we confidently solicit a trial. Recommended in Pulmonary Disease, Coughs, Colds and General Debility.

DEATH OF CAPT. M. J. FAGG

A PROMINENT FIGURE IN ASHEVILLE.

Deceased was a Native of Tennessee, But Had Lived Here Many Years—To be Buried Tomorrow.

Death has again removed a prominent figure from Asheville. Capt. M. J. Fagg died at his home on North Main street this morning.

For the past three months Capt. Fagg had been unwell, suffering from a kidney and bladder affection, but it was not until three weeks ago Sunday that he went to bed. His condition was anxiously watched by solicitous relatives and friends, who hoped for a favorable termination of his illness. At times he seemed improved, but not for long, and for several days past the condition of the patient was known to be extremely serious. At 4:30 o'clock this morning the end came.

Marcellus Jefferson Fagg, a son of the late Col. John A. Fagg, was born about 65 years ago in Maryville, Blount county, Tenn. At the age of 12 or 13 years he came with the family to North Carolina, and lived near Hot Springs, in what was then Buncombe county. A portion of his life was spent in Alabama, in which State, in the town of Lowndesboro, Lowndes county, he was married in 1854 to Miss Asenath Miles.

Capt. Fagg was in the Confederate service, and was captain of a company in Adams' Alabama regiment of cavalry. For 18 months he was in the service there, and came home on account of illness, and did not again enter the army for active service. He removed to Asheville in 1866 and this has been his home since that time. He was at one time a prominent contractor in railroad construction, portions of the Western North Carolina and Asheville and Spartanburg railroads having been built under contracts held by him.

Asheville contained no more prominent and well known figure than Capt. Fagg was, and although not engaged in any active business here he took a pride in the city that had grown up under his eye, as it were, and was ever ready to tell the visitor of the attractions Asheville had to offer. He was a kind and genial settler. He was a great friend of the railroads and was prompt to attend the many meetings held here looking to the bringing of railroad lines to this place. No meeting of this character seemed complete without him, and his presence was a guarantee to the fact that attention always given a man of experience and good judgment.

Capt. Fagg was a man of very extended acquaintance and his friends are legion. He was of splendid physique and an enthusiastic lover of the chase. He had many excellent qualities, a kind heart that did not withhold sympathy when it was needed, a warm friend to those who had cultivated his friendship and a man whose business judgment carried with it great weight. As a husband and parent and as a citizen of Asheville who had the confidence of all his death is greatly deplored. He had accumulated considerable property, among this being his extensive property on North Main and Merrimon avenue, and plantations in Alabama.

Mrs. Fagg and one daughter, Mrs. T. E. Malloy, Jr., survive Capt. Fagg. His niece, the daughter of Capt. H. C. Fagg, now Mrs. Wallace Maxwell, had always been so near the heart of the deceased that he had come to think of her as a daughter. One brother, City Tax Collector H. C. Fagg of Asheville, and a sister, Mrs. W. R. Ray of Paint Rock, also survive him.

The funeral procession will leave Capt. Fagg's late residence promptly at 10:45 tomorrow morning. The funeral service will be held at Central M. E. church, South. The pallbearers will be: Col. J. M. Ray, J. E. Rankin, Capt. J. P. Sawyer, A. Soudler, F. N. Waddell and T. W. Patton. Honorary pallbearers: A. H. Baird, W. E. Breese, Lewis Maddux, Dr. S. Westray Battle, Dr. H. B. Weaver and Dr. W. D. Gilliland.

Capt. Fagg was a member of Swannanoa lodge No. 648, Knights of Honor. He was also the oldest living member of Mt. Hermon lodge, A. F. & A. M.

The door of the Western Carolina bank is draped out of respect to the memory of Capt. Fagg, who was a director of the bank. During the services at the church tomorrow the bank will be closed.

PROF. DICKEY COMING.

He Will Remove to Asheville in June of This Year.

J. H. Tucker, esq., tells THE CITIZEN it is certain that Prof. J. S. Dickey, who was here prospecting a few months ago, will remove to Asheville, at the close of the present term of his school. Prof. Dickey is principal of the Lexington, Miss. Normal college, an institution that has near 500 pupils. Mrs. Dickey, whose health is not good, has been visiting Asheville for the past four summers. It was found that her stay here was very beneficial, and this fact turned Prof. Dickey's eye to Asheville as a permanent location. His recent visit resulted in the determination to come. He will establish here a school on the plan of the one he is at present conducting.

IN THE REVENUE OFFICE.

Notes Picked Up in One of Uncle Sam's Departments.

Collector Carter took the reins of the revenue office at the close of business yesterday afternoon and the "shop" is moving along as smoothly as though changing collectors was a part of the daily work.

Stamp Deputy R. S. Galloway of the Winston office came here yesterday to give in the stamps of his office to the new administration. Statesville and Mt. Airy report theirs by registered mail.

H. P. Watson, deputy collector for Davidson and Forsyth, and Deputy Collectors John G. Tatham of Murphy, and H. N. Wells of Clyde are here on departmental business.

Approves Benham

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Secretary Herbert this afternoon sent a cable message to Admiral Benham telling him of the receipt of Minister Thompson's report on the De Gama affairs in Rio harbor and endorsing, in the name of this government, Admiral Benham's action in protecting American interests, and informing him that the future is entrusted to his discretion.

A BATTLE ON THE BORDER

MEN FROM TWO STATES HAVE A FIGHT.

Road Workers in Madison County, N. C. and Green County, Tenn. Come Together—Fourteen Reported Wounded and Six Dead.

News comes to Asheville of a terrible fight, with fatal termination, which occurred on Saturday last on the border between North Carolina and Tennessee.

The story is to the effect that on the day in question a number of men assembled in Greene county, Tenn., to work a public road that led across the line into North Carolina. At the same time a force of men met for the same purpose in Madison county, the road which they were to work being a continuation of the road from Greene. The road forces worked until they met on the State line, when, from some unknown cause, a fight ensued between the representatives of the two States. The report says 14 men were badly injured and that six have died from the effects of their wounds.

The scene of the battle is 25 miles from a railroad and the nearest town is Greeneville, Tenn., 20 miles away.

An Account From Marshall.

MARSHALL, N. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—News reaches here of a fight near the Tennessee line, in which Alfred Rice was killed and Wm. Norton and Cling Norton wounded. It is understood that Higgins Norton did the shooting. No one has been arrested as yet.

DOWN TO DEATH.

Alfred B. Chunn Falls From a Trestle and is Killed.

J. P. Bishop and C. H. Chunn brought news to the city today of a sad accident which befell Alfred B. Chunn near his home at Acton, west of Asheville, last night. The victim of the accident had been attending prayer meeting at the Acton Methodist church, and about 9 o'clock started for his home a half mile distant, in company with a party that included Clarence Hawkins, Will Felmet and Misses Lucy Felmet and Daisy and Ida Hawkins.

In order to avoid the muddy road the party decided to cross on a trestle on the Murphy branch of the R. & D. This trestle is about 200 feet long and 30 feet high. Mr. Hawkins, carrying a lantern, preceded the party. Mr. Chunn was walking between the guard rail and the track rail, and when about half way across was seen to fall over the side of the trestle down to the rocks below.

The members of the party hurried to the spot where Mr. Chunn's body had fallen. It was found that his skull had been crushed by falling on a rock, and he died in a few moments after his companions reached his side.

Mr. Chunn had been suffering from pains in the head yesterday and had been in bed part of the day, so that it is not known whether he stumbled and fell or was seized with apoplexy.

The dead man was about 28 years old and had a wife and one child. His remains will be interred tomorrow at 11 o'clock at Acton church.

MURDERED PERHAPS.

The Body of Jack Parris Found in the Woods.

CANTON, N. C., Jan. 31.—The dead body of a white man, named Jack Parris, 55 years old, was found in the woods yesterday about three miles from Bushnell, a small station at the junction of the Tuckasee and Tennessee rivers. The day before he was missing he was seen with a good sum of money for one in his circumstances, and the opinion is extant that he was killed for the money. Some foul play about the body seem to justify the suspicion that he was murdered.

Parris' wife is dead, and he has been living with some of his children near Wilmot, Johnston county.

The body is still in the woods awaiting the arrival of the coroner. The inquest may develop something, but there is no clue as yet.

IN THE HEAD.

Ed. Robinson Assaults Chas. Blackwell With a Rock.

Chas. Blackwell, the colored fireman at S. C. Moorman & Co.'s tobacco house on North Water street, reported to Foreman E. J. Gregory today that Ed. Robinson, a colored man who has been employed in the building, had struck his "Blackwell" dinner. Mr. Gregory ordered Robinson off the place a little later, as the fireman was sitting in the door of the boiler room, cleaning the flues, Robinson struck him in the temple with a rock. Blackwell was taken to his home, and given medical attention. His wound is an ugly one, but is not considered very serious. Robinson skipped and has not been arrested.

THE BOND ISSUE.

The Republicans Were Already To Do As Carlisle Has Done.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The bond resolution by Stewart some days ago having been laid before the Senate, Mr. Sherman read an extract from a recent letter of Charles Foster, late secretary of the treasury, explaining that the only preparation which he had made for issuing bonds had reference to three per cent. bonds, a bill for which had passed the Senate about a year ago, and which it was supposed would pass the House. Stewart argued against the secretary's authority to issue bonds under the provisions of the resumption act.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

The hearing of the motion for a new trial in the case of Prendergast, the assassin of Mayor Harrison, was again continued for two weeks yesterday.

DeGama has complained to Admiral Benham of his humiliation by the American ships and asserts that he yields to superior force.

The physicians attending Geo. W. Childs announce that although he passed a restless night, his condition is unchanged.

The health of the ear has so far improved that his physicians pronounce him to be entirely out of danger.

IT COMES TO THE VOTE

CRISP CLOSES THE TARIFF BILL DEBATE

The House Crowded To See The Closing Scenes—Pickpockets Present—The Bill Reported To The House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Interest in the closing hours of the tariff debate was shown this morning in the attendance in the House. The public galleries were thrown open at 9 o'clock and within five minutes were packed. Meanwhile the corridors in the vicinity of the private galleries were filled with an expectant crowd, in which ladies chiefly predominated; and when these were opened it was seen that their capacity was not sufficient to accommodate a fraction of those present. It was a miscellaneous crowd, for it contained, in addition to the usual number of respectable sight-seers, certain representatives of the light-fingered gentry. One of the victims of the pickpockets was Maj. Wilson, messenger of the House agricultural committee.

The members were slow in gathering, and when the gavel fell not more than a score were on the floor. Keel put in an appearance at a quarter to 11. As his portly figure elbowed its way through the crowd of pages, messengers and others groused about the Speaker's desk, he was recognized by the spectators in the galleries, who rose to their feet and cheered him wildly. Reed seemed embarrassed by the plaudits of the multitude and left the floor and sought seclusion in the rear of the chamber. He did not reappear until the session began.

A generous round of applause greeted the arrival of Crisp. He came in at 11 o'clock and immediately ascended the Speaker's chair. Mr. Wilson, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, was reported this morning to be in a nervous and exhausted condition, as a consequence of his severe labors in connection with the preparation of the tariff bill during the past four months. He spent a restless night and is suffering from a severe cold. It is his purpose to start, within a few days, for the city of Mexico in the expectation that a change of scene and rest will restore him again to health.

Immediately after the reading of yesterday's journal Mr. Lockwood made the point of no return, but a roll call closed the presence of 221 members. At 12 o'clock the committee rose and the tariff bill with amendments was reported to the House. Reed of Maine took the floor in opposition to the bill and a loud applause.

Reed concluded his remarks at 1:32, amid deafening applause and cheers from the galleries and members on the floor. Crisp's appearance at the desk of Charles A. Messersmith, president of the House, was the signal for applause. The floating population of the House drifted over to the Democratic side and stood around Crisp. The Speaker said that conceding that the cause of protection had been prosecuted by its strongest advocates he would address himself to the task of showing that that policy could not be maintained consistently with justice and the rights of the people of the United States. Reed had pointed out that prosperity and a high rate of wages had been reached in this country, and said that they were due to protection; but he gave no reason in proof that they were due to protection. Crisp said that this form of argument had been met and overthrown years ago by the gentlemen from New York, S. S. Cox, from whose well known speech on this topic Mr. Crisp quoted.

Robbed by The Cashier.

ELLSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 1.—The Planters bank was burglarized Monday and robbed of all its money. Yesterday Cashier J. B. Clark, who was esteemed highly by all, admitted he was the perpetrator of the crime.

JUST IN NORTH CAROLINA.

—Franklin Press: Mr. F. R. Hewitt of Hewitt's was in town Friday gathering information concerning our railroad interests to lay before a syndicate who are now interested in building from Almond station to Franklin. Mr. H. thinks the prospect good for building the road, and expects that a survey will be ordered soon.

—Winston Sentinel: Christian Reid, who resides on Elm street near First street, while doing some excavating in his stable struck a tremendous bed of rats and killed 120 rats in that number of minutes. The animals were of an unusual size.

—John Allen Johnson, the notorious counterfeiter who shot and almost killed Deputy Marshal John Upchurch at Raleigh last summer is now in the penitentiary at Brooklyn, N. Y., at the head of the collar-and-cuff department.

—Alexander McPherson, a negro desperado, has been captured in Cumberland county. It is believed that he is concerned in the murder of the McDowd family, in Moore county, two years ago.

—The Statesville hackmen have formed a trust and put up the price of a ride between the station and the town to 50 cents. Commercial travellers have been walking to show their dislike to the new plan.

—In Warren county a little daughter of a citizen named Wilson was burned to death. Later his little son was missing. The body has been found in a mill race, into which the little fellow had fallen.

—The creditors of Brodie L. Duke of Durham are being paid in full in the first, second and third classes, those of the fourth class receiving 15 per cent.

—Roanoke Beacon: Our farmers have killed—and the best part of it is—have packed away more meat this year than they have for many years past.

—At Wake Forest College Tuesday Rev. John W. Ray of Knoxville was married to Miss Lucy, daughter of Professor Luther R. Mills.

—Shelby Review: The first bale of cotton ever raised in McDowell county, was grown this year by a man by the name of Walker.

—The directors of the North Carolina railway have declared a 3 per cent. semi-annual dividend.

—During last year the enrollment in the graded schools of Statesville, was 589.
