Emulsion of COD LIVER OIL, With Port Wine.

Under the above title we offer a new combination of Cod Liver Oil in which the nauseous taste of the oil is completely masked by the use of Port Wine and Aromatics. At the same time the tonic and digestive properties of the wine render assimilation easy. From those who cannot take Cod Liver Oil on account of its disagreeable taste and difficult assimilation we confidently solicit a trial. Recommended in Pulmonary Disease, Coughs, Colds and General Debility.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

IT WILL BE OBSERVED IN ASHEVILLE.

Special Exercises At The Schools and a Session of The Continental Congress—Parade In The Morning.

The program for Washington's birthday is completed for the celebration at the Orange street school. The celebration will take place in the evening, the exercises commencing promptly at 8 o'clock. The first feature on the program to attract particular notice will be the Continental Congress, representing the exciting time just before the signing of the Declaration of Independence. President Hancock will be represented by Francis Smith. An animated debate will be started by a motion of Mr. Wythe of Virginia, in the person of Bertie Cooke. Other parts will be taken as follows:

Rutledge, S. C.	Herbert Reynolds
Lewis, N. Y.	Fred Miller
Whipple, N. H.	Raymond Haskell
Deane, Conn.	Rufus Fitzpatrick
Paca, Md.	James Ware
Bartlett, N. H.	Owen Smith
Stockton, N. J.	Frank Plunkett
Dickerson, Penn.	Leon Whitlock
Sherman, Conn.	Drayton Miller
Humphrey, Penn.	Will Way
Witherspoon, N. J.	Joe Justice

The earnest and able representative, Penn, of North Carolina, will show his patriotism through Milton Reach. John Adams will again exhibit his fiery eloquence through the medium of Allen Miller. The cool and masterful spirit of Samuel Adams will attract attention in the person of Isador Shayer, Jefferson in that of Slayton Fakes, while Lee, of Virginia, will make some telling remarks through Edgar McInturf. Audson Charles will type the shrewd and practical Ben Franklin, and the benign countenance of Washington will be pictured in the person of Willie Wolfe, jr. Appropriate recitations will be given by Misses Maude Waddell and Mary Nichols. Chas. A. Webb, esp., will address the school on the "Life, Character and Times of Washington."

After these features a reception will be given by Lady Washington and a brilliant collation of distinguished ladies. Some of the parts taken will be as follows:

Lady Washington	Nora Ware
Mrs. Hancock	Daisy Cooke
Mrs. Lee	Della Miller
Mrs. Rutledge	Lottie Cobb
Mrs. Wythe	Ger. Walser
Mrs. Jefferson	Mabel Randolph
Mrs. Adams	Coira Perry
Mrs. John Adams	Clara Lipinsky
Mrs. Lewis	Mollie Bernard

There will necessarily be some anachronisms in this, but this will hardly lessen the interest of the occasion. Nellie Curtis and Theodosia Burr will be present, regardless of history, and will be typed by Misses Lottie Wells and Ellen Cobb. There will be young lady singers, and the entire program will be interspersed with music by the Glee club of the school. The place of assembly will be in the hall of the Orange street building, and the room will be lighted and decorated for the occasion. The report that refreshments will be served to the public is a mistake. The patrons and all interested in public school work, will be cordially welcomed, and the only charge for admission will be prompt attendance and good attention.

Montford Exercises.

At Montford avenue school the day will be celebrated with recitations and singing, stories of Washington given by children and teachers, and other exercises. In the 5th grade Nat S. Rogers will give a talk about Washington's youth, and an interesting occasion is expected. One of the features of the 4th grade exercises will be quotations by members of the grade, from Washington's "Rules of Conduct." In some of the grades no very special preparations have been made, the teachers preferring to celebrate the day by regular recitations, to make up time lost on account of the furnace. Exercises commence about 11 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

At Bailey Street.

Mavor Patton will address the Bailey street children, the exercises commencing at 10 o'clock. The celebration will take place in Mrs. Featherston's room, where there will be a soldier and flag drill by the boys in Miss Drummond's grade; songs and recitations by Miss Hatch's grade; and Mrs. Featherston's grade will sing "Mt. Vernon Bells," and other songs will be sung by all the children. Sadie Emanuel will recite an interesting story from Washington's life. Rhea Featherston will recite "Our Country," while an incident from Washington's life will be given by Burk Mitchell. One of the most interesting features, and a thoroughly patriotic one, will be the raising of a large flag over the school, the flag being a gift to the building by the Bailey street children.

The exercises in the lower grades at Orange street will consist of songs, recitations, drills, etc., and will commence about 11 o'clock. Most of the rooms will be decorated for the occasion.

At Catholic Hill there will be general exercises in all the grades.

The patrons and other friends are cordially invited to any and all of these exercises.

The Parade.
The Asheville Light Infantry and the cadets of Bingham school will observe tomorrow, Washington's birthday, by having a parade. The Light Infantry will leave the armory at 9:30 a. m. and proceed to Amess' drug store, intersection of Haywood street and Patton avenue. There the Bingham cadets will be met at 10 o'clock. The line will form there as follows: Maj. Davis and staff; Asheville Light Infantry, Capt. White Smith commanding; Bingham cadets, Capt. J. Frank Graham, commanding. The companies of the Asheville fire department will also take part in the parade with the A. L. I. and the Binghamites.

The line of march will be: Up Patton avenue to the square; thence by South Main street to Southside avenue; counter-march to the square; thence over North Main street to Starnes avenue; thence back to the square, where the parade will be dismissed.

The city banks and the internal revenue office will observe the day by closing.

THE CAT CAME BACK.

Tale of a Feline With the Traditional Nine Lives.

'Tis a big, useful cat, and yellow at that, and it looks out for rats in the store of Powell & Snider, no rat e'er defied her but it went after lots gone before. Last night about eight, so the chroniclers state, Mr. Snider went to lock up his safe, to preserve till today, that they mightn't go 'way, the "tin" from the hands of a "thief." He shoved in the books and filled up the nooks and then pushed inward the door; felt something push back but gathered up slack and "was locked in" as often before. This morning they say, awhile after day, Mr. Snider came up to the store, and wanting his books from their overnight nooks, turned the lock to open the safe door. With a rush very stout the door opened out, with a quickness that "couldn't be beat," while five books or more fell onto the floor in a promiscuous heap at his feet. But, stranger than all, just after the fall, (Mr. Snider was regaining his hat) from out of the vault, with no sense of fault, stepped the identical old yellow cat!

The story is done, it made heads of fun—all wonder at that yellow cat's powers—it had spent the night in that safe so tight, and is no worse for its squeeze of twelve hours.

BUSY JAMESTOWN MILLS.

How The Logic of Events Has Answered Calamity Howlers.

JAMESTOWN, Feb. 18.—This city has three mills manufacturing worsted goods and one large mill manufacturing cotton warp. The proprietors of all these plants have of late been writing letters and sending petitions to congress signed by their operatives with the intention of influencing its members against the passage of the Wilson bill, claiming that they have suffered great loss of business through fear of its passage. They made this an excuse for cutting the wages of their employes one month ago. Today, however, after the passage of this bill by the House and a certainty of its passage in the Senate, these concerns are running with a full force of hands, (the cotton mill until 9 p. m.), and have been obliged to advance the wages of their employes to the old schedule. Their orders for the spring and summer trade are larger than they have experienced for years.—N. Y. World.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Senator Mills Thinks It Will Be Reported This Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Mr. Mills, Texas, has withdrawn from the Senate committee on finance. Mr. Mills says: "I am not a member of the committee and only went on it as an emergency. Vest came to me and said Jones, of Arkansas, was ill, McPherson away from the city sick, and Vance down in Florida trying to recuperate his health, and he wanted me to join with him in getting the bill in some sort of shape, so that the work could be done in good time. Under such conditions I went to work with him and Jones, who was soon thereafter able to join us. McPherson has recovered and is now in the Senate doing his work, and being a member of the committee it is no more than right that he should go on with it in my stead as I was but temporarily filling his place." Mr. Mills thinks the bill will be reported this week.

NO QUORUM

Where are the Democrats Who Care Paid to Work?

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—After the reading of the journal in the House Reed asked for a report from the sergeant-at-arms under the order to arrest absentees. That official reported that all the absentees were either in Washington or en route hither except those sick and excused, and seven others who had been sent for. Reed asked if any were under arrest. Sergeant-at-arms Snow responded that there were none. Reed remarked that there was no difficulty in arresting Republicans yesterday, and insisted that the others should be arrested. Speaker Crisp thereupon directed Snow to execute the order.

Mr. Bland moved to take up the seigniorage bill and the yeas and nays were ordered without division. The vote resulted yeas 159, nays 10; 10 short of a quorum.

IT'S AN OFF YEAR

And Pennsylvania Goes Away, Away Off.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—The latest returns received today from yesterday's election show that Galusha Grow for congressman-at-large has a plurality exceeding 150,000. The Democrats were completely routed in Berks, the banner Democratic county, with majorities ranging from 75,000 to 100,000. York county, another solid Democratic stronghold which could generally be relied upon for a majority of 3,000 to 4,000 for the Democratic candidate, gave Grow 300 plurality. The three principal anthracite coal counties, Luzern, Lackawanna and Schuylkill, all slip over to the Republican column.

COLLEGE BOYS' MURDER

Sophomore Releases Chlorine Gas to Strangle Freshmen.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 21.—About 30 freshmen of Cornell university were strangled last night by sophomores releasing a large quantity of chlorine gas in the dining room where a freshman banquet was in progress. It was with great difficulty that the freshmen were resuscitated. A colored woman employed as a cook died last night from the effects of the gas, and Thomas McNeal of Pittsburg, Pa., one of the students, died this morning.

A Republican Just Squeezed In.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 21.—The excitement over the four-cornered majority contest here was intense last night and the vote was so close that no candidate was declared safe until the last returns, received at 3 o'clock. The result was as follows: Andre, Rep., 969; Stratton, Dem., 924; Thompson, Ind., 932; Reed, citizens, 781.

Congressman Wilson's Health

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 21.—A special from Aguas Calientes, Mex., says Congressman Wilson and Tarney have arrived from El Paso. Wilson is feeling so badly that the party decided to stop over here two or three days to give Wilson the benefit of hot baths.

UNDER THE CAR'S WHEELS

ALONZO H. MONDAY MEETS HIS DEATH.

The Young Man Jumps From a W. A. & S. B. Car in Front of One on the Asheville Line on Depot Street And Is Instantly Killed.

Alonzo Hilary Monday, a son of A. C. Monday, living on Depot street near the Glen Rock hotel, was run over and instantly killed by car No. 8 of the Asheville Street Railroad Co., Motorman Dan W. Brown and Conductor J. M. Barker, at 12:45 today. The accident occurred a short distance below Mr. Monday's residence and 125 feet from the mouth of Bartlett street.

The body was frightfully mangled, the face being unrecognizable. The top of the skull was crushed in, both arms and both legs were broken and from a horrible wound on the left leg the shattered bones protruded.

Charles Monday was sitting in his father's doorway, saw the car strike his brother and ran to his assistance, but was too late to save him.

The Carmen's Statements.

Conductor Barker's statement to THE CITIZEN is as follows:

"We had left the freight depot on the uptown trip, about 12:45. We met the Sulphur Springs car at a point between Monday's store and the crossing where the Sulphur Springs line leaves Depot street. A man jumped off the rear end of the Springs car and in front of our car, and about two feet from the front of our car. Mr. Brown, the motorman, reversed the car, but it rolled perhaps six feet before it could be stopped. We found the body of the man, Mr. Monday, under the car, and between the machines. The car had to be jacked up before the body could be taken out. The body was taken out by Charles Monday, a brother of the man run over."

Motorman Brown's statements much the same as Conductor Barker's. He says that when Mr. Monday struck the ground he, Mr. Brown, caught at the young man in an endeavor to avert the accident, but missed him. Just then the car struck him and he was thrown directly under it. Mr. Brown did not see Mr. Monday until he was in the act of jumping. The car had no current and was running about two miles an hour.

Mr. Brown is one of the oldest employes on the Asheville street railway, and officers of the company say they have never had a complaint regarding him.

W. A. & S. B. Employes Tell of It.

Ed. Sudderth, a conductor on the Sulphur Springs line, said: "I was on my rear platform looking backward. As I turned my head to the front I saw Lon Monday in the door and at the same instant he stepped toward me and got on the car step. He struck me with a cigarette box and swung off the car between the tracks and I heard the Asheville motorman shout at him. He kept on hollering and began to wind his brake. By this time Lon was in the center of the Asheville tracks and threw up his hands as the car struck him. I stopped my car and ran for help to get the boy out. His head was crushed and his body was doubled up so we couldn't get him out till the car was jacked up. Emory Snider, the motorman of Sudderth's car, said Monday got on the car in front of his father's store and as he passed he touched the motorman in the side, but said nothing, going right on through the car. "The Asheville car was passing me when Monday stepped off the rear end. I heard the Asheville motorman shout, 'Look out!'"

The Second

This is the second fatality since the establishment of the Asheville street railway. On the night of September 21, 1889, a car ran over and killed Mitchell K. Morgan, on Southside avenue.

Two Killed in Accidents.

Thos. Monday, a brother of Alonzo, was run over and killed on January 26, 1891, by a shifting engine in the yards of the Western North Carolina railroad here.

The Inquest

Coroner McBrayer was notified and the inquest over the body began about 3 o'clock.
