A BRECKINRIDGE SESSION

THE EVIDENCE IN FAVOR OF THE CONGRESSMAN

A Witness Who Could Not Identify Miss Pollard and a Woman Who Refused To Marry Her Betrayed—Was It Miss Pollard?

WASHINGTON, March 14.—After recess in the Pollard-Breckinridge case yesterday the time until half past two was occupied in reading a mass of depositions taken at various places. Then two black-robed, kindly faced sisters entered and one of them took the stand. She said she was Sister Cecilia, of Pueblo, Col.

Sister Cecilia said she did not recall any person of the name of Burgoyne who was at the asylum while she was there. The four volumes of Irving's works, which the defense tried so hard to have excluded, was shown Sister Cecilia, and she said books resembling these had been presented to her by a female patient at the asylum. Witness had met Miss Madeline Pollard since coming to Washington and had once received a letter from her.

Court had assembled and the clerk was calling the jury this morning when a door to the left of the judge's bench opened and Miss Pollard came in. It was her first appearance since her sensational exit on Monday, when she was borne from the chamber by Mrs. Buchanan and Miss Ellis, and fell half fainting at the door. Miss Pollard was pale but was self-possessed.

The court room was crowded when the crier rapped for order. Col. Breckinridge and all his counsel were present. Calderon Carlisle of plaintiff's counsel had come in a minute or two earlier, escorting Sister Cecilia and a companion in bold orders, who is required by the rules of the order to accompany a sister called for duty in the world. Sister Cecilia saw Miss Pollard enter, but they did not exchange greetings.

Calderon Carlisle began the proceedings by containing his examination of Sister Cecilia, which was suspended yesterday.

"Sister Cecilia," he asked, "have you a good memory for faces and names?"

"Not very good for faces, but for names, yes," was the answer.

"Can you positively say that Miss Pollard was a patient at the Norwood founding asylum while you were in charge?"

"I cannot, sir."

"Can you positively say that she was not a patient at the asylum during that time?"

"No, sir."

"Now, Sister Cecilia, state the grounds for that belief?"

"I object," said Butterworth; and then followed another legal tilt over the admissibility of the question involving an opinion.

Judge Bradley held that if the question was put to identify the plaintiff with some one in the asylum at a given time it was competent; but if it were put to have the witness draw conclusion for the purpose of making that identification the question was not competent. The question was overruled, and the plaintiff noted an objection.

Then Mr. Carlisle asked if the sister could state anything about the identity of the plaintiff with the patient in the months of May, June and July, 1885.

She objected, and the question was withdrawn. Sister Cecilia said she would answer questions by Carlisle, then stated that there were two ladies in the asylum who went veiled because they feared being recognized by visitors. Carlisle then asked if she ever sent any patients back to Cincinnati in carriages.

"Yes, three or four," was the answer.

The spectators and jury became intensely interested at this time, for they understood that every point in the description of the asylum given to her counsel by Miss Pollard, was being put forward for identification by the witness.

In answer to other questions Sister Cecilia said the name Burgoyne of Burgoyne was on the record of Norwood asylum as a patient there.

Major Butterworth asked Sister Cecilia a question or two about when she left Cincinnati, and said she might be needed in a day or two to answer more questions. Sister Cecilia said she would remain in Washington until court was through with her, and was then excused.

Carlisle then read the deposition of Mrs. Kate Perry Kane, a physician of Cincinnati and member of the firm of which Dr. Belle Buchanan Lenoir is one. Mrs. Kane recognized Miss Pollard as the young woman who came to the house of Dr. Perry and Buchanan in 1885 and was known as Miss Louise Wilson. It was understood that Miss Wilson was recovering from confinement. At one time Miss Wilson had gone to meet her betrayer, and when she returned told the deponent she had met the man, but it was impossible to marry him. She loathed him she said. Miss Wilson said the man had offered to marry her to clear things up, but she disliked him so that she refused. This was a married man in 1885 while Miss Wilson, whom the deponent said was Miss Pollard, had said her betrayer offered to marry her.

FOR HON. JOHN W. STARNES

"Democrat" Suggests Him For Asheville's Next Mayor.

EDITOR THE CITIZEN.—As a Democrat, I wish to present the name of Hon. John W. Starnes to the voters of Asheville as a suitable candidate for Mayor. Mr. Starnes is a Simon pure Democrat and his financial ability and his ability in every other way is unquestionable. If Mr. Starnes is the choice of the Democratic convention, and I honestly believe he will be, I feel confident that the city's interests would be looked after with great care and discretion. Mr. Starnes is too well known to the business men of Asheville to need any introduction at my hand. Now, Democrats, let's get together and put out a good straight ticket and work hard to elect it. Democrat.

All Done.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The following cable message was received today by Flint & Company from E. C. Baker of the Brazilian cruiser Netherby: "Rio Janeiro, March 14, 1894. Finished in good shape."

It is believed from the above that the rebellion in Brazil is at an end.

Rio Janeiro, March 14.—The insurgent fleet surrendered yesterday.

A CHAPTER ON SCALES

They Do Not Weigh Alike—Adam and Alice.

That all scales do not weigh alike, although they may be popularly supposed to do so, is shown in the case of Samuel Barleson, who lives on Ivy, and who yesterday brought eight dressed hogs to Asheville. The young man had contracted with McIntire & Sherman, butchers in Central market, to deliver to them 13 hogs and the eight he brought yesterday were in part fulfillment of the contract. To weigh the hogs, registered 87 pounds in total. When McIntire & Sherman weighed them the beam went up at 825 pounds, a loss of 62 pounds. When the hogs had been weighed the butchers wanted to retain $15 as a guarantee that the remaining five hogs would be brought. Barleson, not liking his treatment, called on Deputy Sheriff J. M. Morgan, with the result that a process of claim and delivery was gotten from Justice Frank Carter. The hogs were delivered to Barleson and then were found to weigh 825 pounds. This morning the butchers took the hogs, which weighed, or the final weighing, 877 pounds, and gave bond, and the case was continued by consent until the 20th.

This morning Adam Hallman, colored, was in Justice Carter's court on a charge pressed by Alice Hallman, his wife, to the effect that he had struck and knocked her down. On the trial Adam, who, while not the original first man, is the first man of his household, swore he had given Alice $1 of the $2 he had in his pocket and told her to prepare his morning meal so that he might go to his work. Alice wanted the remaining dollar and, in trying to get it, tore Adam's pocket. Then it was, Adam said, that he pushed her and she fell across the bed, but he did not strike her.

Justice Carter acquitted Adam, and adjourned the prosecution frivolous and malicious and ordered Alice to jail for non-payment of costs. Just before getting to the jail the woman concluded to pay the costs, about $2.50, and did so, with cash extracted from her stocking. About that time Adam returned with the money to pay the costs, and the trouble is over.

AMONG THE CURIOS.

Many Interesting Articles in Manager McKissick's Apartments.

Manager E. P. McKissick of the Battery Park hotel has received the cartoon used at the annual banquet of the Gridiron club in Washington bearing the legend, "The Pride of Fattery Park."

The cartoon is an artist's sketch of the manager, four feet by five, and pictures the host with cheeks the roseate hue of an Italian sunset; he is clad in the apron and cap of a chef, and stands guard in a battery whose cannon are champagne bottles from which the corks and haz make missiles and streaks as they volley at imaginary foes. The cartoon has been hung in the bachelor apartments of Mr. McKissick and will feature share honors with the many objects of interest there.

Among the keepsakes and curios that have a history are a sword voted Mr. McKissick at a fair in Charleston in 1888; two fine specimens of taxidermy, a red headed woodpecker and an owl; a copy of the original ordinance of secession with autograph signatures; an artist's proof of actor Charles Kean; the twisting outlers of Rocky mountain sheep and an Indian pot, the find of Tench Coxe at Green River.

The collection of bric-a-brac in the den has lately been enriched with a pair of Revolutionary rifles from the homestead of a South Carolina ancestor. The articles are a dirk with deer foot handle, and a canteen. The drinking vessels is of tin but totally unlike canteens of modern times, being curved or indented to fit the wearer's hip, and is covered with coarse canvas, the corner strap is a narrow strip of webbing and the stopper, cut from a knot of persimmon, is fastened to the rim of the flask by a buckskin whang. The dagger and canteen swing from the resting hooks of a heavy rifle, curiously inlaid with silver ornamentation, which Mr. McKissick recently obtained from the paternal roof tree at Union, S. C.

THE QUEEN'S ADDRESS

Motion Amending It Passes the Commons.

LONDON, March 14.—The House of Commons by a vote of 147 to 145 passed Mr. Labouchere's amendment last evening to the reply to the Queen's speech recommending the abolition of the veto power of the House of Lords.

The House of Commons was crowded today. Sir William Harcourt announced that the government had taken advice from all available sources and had decided to make the declaration that the judgment given last evening in amending the address did not show the nature and well considered decision of the House of Commons. This was a grave question, and the government would not present the address as amended to the Queen. Consequently the government proposed to bring up a new address, and mounting merely to an acknowledgment of the speech from the throne. The motion to rescind the address and substitute one merely acknowledging the Queen's speech was agreed to without division.

Poisoned at a Wedding Feast.

BOSTON, March 14.—At an early hour this morning all the physicians in the Jewish district at the North End were aroused from their slumbers to attend patients suffering from a malady resembling poisoning. The afflicted had been guests at the marriage of Harry Fenold of Worcester to Miss Margolis in Menot hall last evening, and at heartily. About 60 cases are being treated. No fatalities are reported.

Colored Vote To Be Organized.

LA POTTE, Ind., March 13.—Leading colored men have begun organizing the 40,000 colored voters of Indiana, and the politicians, especially the Republicans, are looking on with apprehension. A lodge is to be formed in every city and town in the State, and the organized voters acting together are not only to demand political rights for the negro, but hold the balance of power.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The President sent to the Senate today the following nominations: Geo. M. Adams, pension agent, Louisville, Ky.; W. W. Dege, postmaster, Norfolk, Va.

THREATENED BY A JAP!

HARSH TALK TO AN AMERICAN ADMIRAL.

Our Commander in Honolulu is Asked To Do Police Duty And Then Given a Set Back—A Gaudy Story, However.

SYDNEY, N. S., March 14.—Passengers by the steamer Arawa, just arrived here, give an interesting story of recent events in Honolulu.

They assert that a subject of Japan was recently arrested in that city for a trivial offence and placed in jail. He escaped from jail and swam out to the Japanese warship. The authorities appealed to the American admiral, asking that he demand the surrender of the Japanese.

The commander of the Japanese warship refused to give the man up, and threatened that if the American admiral boarded his ship he would give him half an hour to leave, or, if he refused, the American flagship would be blown out of water.

According to the story of passengers the escaped prisoner was unmolested.

IN THE BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Reception Given by the Progressive Commercial Club.

The members of the Progressive Commercial club of the Southern Business college were at home to their friends last evening in the Business college halls, and the young ladies and gentlemen of that society proved themselves worthy of the title "progressive." The club contains a number of jolly and talented members. There was a good crowd present. The large halls were well lighted and furnished a pretty place for a reception.

While there was no formal program, yet there was plenty of good music during the evening, the principal feature of which was several excellent songs by the Business college male quartette, composed of H. Millard, first tenor; T. J. West, second tenor; F. Roberts, first bass, and J. C. Brooks, second bass. The institution is proud of its young quartette.

The assembly was also favored with a piano solo by Miss McCrary and a baritone solo by Prof. M. M. Lemmond, accompanied on the piano by Miss Scharle. These numbers were very much enjoyed. At 10 o'clock the assembly was invited to gather around the commercial desks where they were served with refreshments.

The club received a letter from Vice President and Mrs. Stevenson, expressing their sincere regrets that a previous engagement prevented them from accepting an invitation to be present.

The reception was a very pleasant affair.

TO STOP IN STATEVILLE.

Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson On the Way to Washington.

Vice President and Mrs. Stevenson left Asheville on the 2:30 train, after a stay of nearly a week. They go to Statesville, the home of Gen. Stevenson's ancestors, this evening and will remain there a day, when they will proceed direct to Washington.

The distinguished couple came to Asheville for rest and on this account no formal functions were given in their honor.

They were not exclusive, however, and many Asheville people met them and were charmed by the courtesy of the Vice President and the winning sweetness of Mrs. Stevenson. This visit will not be forgotten by those who met them.

Gen. and Mrs. Stevenson were delighted with Asheville. The weather during their stay here was well nigh perfect. In a talk with THE CITIZEN Gen. Stevenson took occasion to allude to Asheville in these words:

"I have greatly enjoyed my visit to Asheville and have never known a more beautiful place. The hospitality of its people is only equalled by its delightful climate and surroundings. I know of no better place for rest and recreation, and commend Asheville most heartily to all who seek pleasure and health."

RESUMING BUSINESS.

Large Iron Works in Pennsylvania Starting Work.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 12.—Signs of returning confidence in manufacturing circles continue. All the departments of Cambria iron works, at Johnson, which have been idle, resumed business this morning. The Johnston steel works, at the same place, also started up after an idleness of three months. About 2,000 men went to work for the two corporations.

It is announced today that the Bradlock wire works plant at Rankin, near Pittsburg, holds the record since Saturday, turning out more steel than any other single roll mill in the world. The record has been held for a number of years by the Joliet, Ill., wire works, whose rod mill turned out 243 tons of wire rods in 12 hours. The output of the Bradlock works for Saturday, a turn of 10 hours, from 6 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m., was 254 tons, breaking the record by 11 tons. A big run of steel was made every day last week, which indicates the receipt of large orders.—N. Y. World.
