ABOUT COTTOLENE.

FROM "MARION HARLAND"

FORTITON, N. J.

I have made thorough tests of Cottolene and have no hesitation in recommending it as preferable to lard. This superiority manifests itself especially in frying. Cottolene, when melted up, is as clear as water; it sets down hard and will stand a higher degree of temperature without searching than will any other frying medium I have ever used. The same portion of Cottolene may be employed twice and even three times. The articles fried in it under my care have covered a wide range, embracing croquettes, fish, fritters, both vegetables and fruits, egg plant, hominy, mush, fried bread, etc. In none of these could there be distinguished the unpleasant taste frequently noticed in food cooked in lard. Nor is the slight odor that comes from hot Cottolene as disagreeable or pervasive as that of boiling lard. I have also found Cottolene admirable for quick browning; they are devoid of the pork flavor that often permeates lard-shortened biscuits. Mixed with butter and used in bread dough, Cottolene is also good. Such a substitute for lard should supercede it in every kitchen where hygiene and appetizing effects are studied.

Cottolene has been used for the past two months in the kitchen of my mother, Mrs. Terhune, ("Marion Harland") with most satisfactory results. Her opinion of its merits coincides with mine.

We are showing excellent styles in many lines on which our efforts to get more have resulted in absolute success. This because all hands operate very cautiously, owing to the loss of last year, so that the first stirring business broke up the stocks of price styles. Hard styles can always be bought in any quantity.

An improvement in all the departments of trade seems at last an established fact. Certainly the general conditions for re-employment of prosperity in a moderate way are favorable, and our prediction is that the onward march will be steady.

TESTIMONY IN REBUTTAL.

MISS POLLARD'S EVIDENCE SUBSTANTIATED

Calderon Carlisle On The Stand To Prove That Miss Pollard Did Not "Fix" The Christmas Card—Two Colored Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The most interesting testimony yesterday was that given by Miss Louise Lowell, the type writer who had done copying for Col. Breckinridge at the capitol, and Mary Vancey, a colored cook at the house of Mrs. Thomas, with whom Miss Pollard lived from February to May of last year. Miss Lowell swore that she had copied for Col. Breckinridge letters in his handwriting to "My Dear Sister Louise," and "My Dear Spittie," and her synopsis of these showed that the letters were of an amatory character.

Mary Vancey, the colored cook, swore positively to an acknowledgment by Col. Breckinridge of his intention to marry the plaintiff. According to the witness, Col. Breckinridge complimented her on her cooking, and on one occasion the plaintiff named, said, "We want you to come with when we go to house-keeping in the fall."

Not 40 persons were in attendance this morning besides the newspapermen and interested parties to the case. Dr. Mary Parsons, a bright looking little physician who says she attended Miss Pollard at the birth of her child, February 3, 1888, was called by the plaintiff, but the defense made a hard fight against allowing her to testify as to who wrote the paper pinned to the dress of the baby which was brought to the Washington foundling asylum. Finally, Dr. Parsons was allowed to testify.

She said she went to the foundling asylum in a cab and Aunt Mary, the colored midwife, carried the baby into the asylum. The baby, said the witness, was one born to the plaintiff. When Dr. Parsons had gone that Mr. Schuler, for the defense, made another fight against the testimony as to the identification of the handwriting on the slip of paper, holding that it was not evidence in rebuttal, and that it did not matter whether Miss Pollard or anybody else wrote it. It will be remembered that Miss Pollard says she wrote the name "Dietz Carlisle" on the paper, while the paper itself has on it "Dietz Downing."

Judge Bradley decided to admit the evidence of Mrs. Parsons, and Carlisle showed the slip of paper pinned to the dress of the foundling, and the slip of paper with the name "Dietz Downing" written on it.

"Do you recognize that handwriting?" asked Carlisle.

"That is my handwriting," said Dr. Parsons.

To Shelby she said she had given the slip to "Aunt Mary" to pin on the child. She examined the slip and said there were pin holes in it, indicating that it had been pinned to something.

"Aunt Mary McKenney was the next witness. She is an old colored woman, and testified that she knew the plaintiff in February, 1888, as 'Mrs. Hall' when she had a child at the home of the witness on 2nd street this city. 'Mrs. Hall,' she said, 'was also suffering from heart trouble.' Aunt Mary said that Dr. Parsons attended 'Mrs. Hall' and described taking the child to the asylum."

Mrs. Mearns was recalled to disprove the testimony of Breckinridge that Miss Pollard was not in Washington on "one of the last days in August, 1892," the time fixed by the plaintiff when the alleged promise of marriage was made.

Mrs. Mearns produced her traveling house account book which showed that Miss Pollard had returned to Washington August 31, 1892. Plaintiff had claimed that she reached Washington during the last week in August, of that year from a trip north, and that Breckinridge met her at the station and proposed marriage that day in the carriage.

Much to the surprise of everybody, the next witness was Calderon Carlisle, Miss Pollard's junior counsel. He took the oath and was asked by Judge Wilson to tell the circumstances relating to the discovery of the Christmas card which, it is claimed, was found by Miss Pollard in a box she had given to the Newwood foundling asylum. The deposition of Sister Agnes, which was read some days ago, conveyed the inference that Miss Pollard or one of her attorneys, who had been with her when she visited the asylum last December, had put the card in a box to more clearly identify Miss Pollard with the asylum and help the plaintiff's case. Carlisle said that when he went to the asylum with Miss Pollard and Mr. Johnson, only he and Sister Agnes, and the mother of the child, which the card was found, about ten feet away from the table where the books were, Carlisle said he opened one of the books and found the Christmas card which was then torn at the edges or partially torn as it was now. It was enclosed in postboard with an invisible net, which Miss Pollard recognized as one she had worn, and some dead flowers. The defense had tried to show by expert testimony that the words written on the Christmas card were written within a few years and surely not so long ago as 1888, in reference to this, Carlisle said: "I swear to you on oath that these words, 'complements of W. S. D.' were written on this card when I took it from that book and that no one but myself could have put the writing there during the time we were in the library."

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION—Mr. Blanton's Reply.

The wheels of time revolve on and on, regardless of attempts at reconciliation and harmonization, and thus it is that the city Democratic convention for the nomination of municipal candidates is here. The convention called for the meeting of Democrats on March 10 will be held in the present house this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

So far as appearances go, it looks now as if the convention will be a thoroughly harmonious one. That ex-Mayor Clinton Blanton will be the nominee for Mayor is generally believed. As to the Aldermanic candidates, it is said that the nominees will be James Sevier, Sec. and Ward W. J. Hough, Fourth ward, and W. V. Low, 1st ward.

Mr. Blanton is still in the race for the nomination, and this morning renewed his intention, in the event of his nomination, of "showing some mighty good roads." He is of the opinion that if the contest be between him and Mayor Patton he can defeat the Mayor by a vote of 500 majority. The placing in the field of a straight ticket, Mr. Blanton thinks, would reduce his majority some, but he would not be adverse to a three-cornered contest.

Richmond Pearson Announces His Candidacy For Congress.

Richmond Pearson, who is looking for a situation in Congress, hoping to get the place now held by Congressman W. T. Crawford, today announced his candidacy for the Nineth. In his opening gun Mr. Pearson vows a favoring of the protective tariff, the restoration of silver and an income tax. These are on the national issues.

Regarding State matters, he wants a repeal of the county government system and the State election law. Then he goes on to put himself squarely in opposition to the Democratic party of the State and Nation.

This particular contribution by Mr. Pearson to campaign literature is not long.

DEATH IN THE TEA KETTLE.

A Child Drinks Therefrom And Dies This Morning.

Helle Pritchard, the three years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Pritchard, and who live just east of Beaman, suffered a fearful death this morning.

At breakfast Mrs. Pritchard placed the tea kettle just off the fire on the table. Before the mother realized what the child was doing it had drawn into its mouth and swallowed a draught of the scalding liquid. The agonized mother immediately sent for medical aid and did everything in her power to alleviate the child's sufferings, but all efforts proved unavailing and the child died about 9 o'clock.

The Nebraska Elections.

OMAHA, Neb., April 3.—The returns from a large portion of the principal cities in Nebraska show that the fight this spring is not on party lines, but is confined largely to the question of prohibition or high license. Towns that have been hitherto for license have decided to try a new policy, and others which have been capably strong for prohibition have dropped as far the other way.

Mills Property Burned.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—A special from Thomson to the Evening News says: "About 6 o'clock this morning the Mc Duffie mill property was burned by a spark from an engine. L. W. S. Sacks store was partly destroyed. Insurance, $1,200, loss, $1,500."

The State Bank Tax.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—A paper which Mr. Swanson of Virginia has been circulating for a caucus of House Democrats, to consider the repeal of the ten per cent. bank tax, has nearly 150 signatures. Tuesday night is the date set for holding the caucus.

Hanged the Trio of Murderers.

NEWPORT, Ark., April 6.—Three train robbers, J. L. Wyrick, Thos. Brady and Albert Mankler, who killed Conductor W. P. McNally at Oliphant, Ark., November 3, last, were hanged here this morning.

WAS SHE DRUGGED?

The Story of Mrs. Addie Hines, Formerly of Asheville.

Senator John M. Campbell gives this Circles the full history of the woman Addie Hines, referred to in an article reprinted in this paper from the Knoxville Tribune yesterday. Mr. Campbell says that the woman and her husband, Charles Hines, worked for him four years, the former as cook, and the latter as chamberman. About a year ago Mr. Campbell secured the services of another man and Hines took service with a gentleman from Piqua, O., who was then staying at the Battery Park. When the Ohio man left Charles and Addie Hines and their two sons went to Piqua with him and became servants of his household. Charles and the son are still there.

Addie came back to Asheville Wednesday afternoon and wondered about the city for an hour or two, when she went to Mr. Campbell's. There it was noticed that she paid no attention to the children, although she was formerly a mother, and was especially fond of them. Other queer things were noticed and it was concluded that she was demented. The woman came uptown, but returned about dark, walked to the upper table and took two or three lines of food, then asked to the kitchen and went to the sink to get water. This she repeated, and finally Mr. Campbell sent her to the house of her brother, Robert Hadley, on Madison street. It was expected that she would be sent to Union, S. C., her old home, this morning, but on the way to the depot she took another notion and by the time she had been persuaded to go the train had left.

Mr. Campbell is of the opinion that the woman, who had been working for good wages in Piqua, started to visit her people and had a nervous breakdown, and that she was not to be trusted. The Hines woman is about 40 years old.

SOUTH RECOVERING FAST.

ENCOURAGING INDUSTRIAL NEWS

Steady Financial Improvement—Railway Affairs Brighter—Capital Coming Into The South—Land Sale.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The Manufacturers' Record in its weekly review of the business situation of the South says: "The total liabilities of the railroads in the whole country for the first three months of 1894 were $10,000,000 more than for the first quarter of 1893, but in the South there was a decrease of $77,000, indicating the steady financial improvement in the South since the rest of the country. President Tuxton of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company says: 'If the production had been made three years ago that pig iron could be made, and at a profit, too, comparatively small, though it be at $7.50 a ton at Birmingham, or anywhere else, the production would have been deemed the emanation of a disordered mind. And the dream of a few years since has become the reality of today.'"

Railroad affairs are much brighter. Several important railroad enterprises are getting in shape for active construction work.

Very noticeable interest in mining property is being aroused in the South, and several large companies have been organized recently. The number of outside capitalists speculating in the South continues to increase, and several extensive land sales have been made for raising fruit and grain crops.

Car Builders Looking For A Location South.

If J. O. Rice, R. & Co., agent at Asheville, has received the following letter from S. G. Craig, division freight agent of the R. & O., at Chicago:

"I am advised that Messrs. T. W. Rice and Brown, New Castle, Pa., recently burned out, and are now prospecting with a view of establishing their works at some point in the South. I wish you would mention this to the prominent men of your place, and suggest that they take the matter up with these gentlemen and see if they cannot secure their location here."

This letter Mr. Rice has sent to Mayor Patton, with the hope that the information may be of benefit to the city. Mayor Patton at once placed himself in communication with T. W. Rice and Brown and today sent them the following letter:

"I am informed through the officials of the R. & O. Railroad company that you contemplate a change of location and are considering the advantages of coming South. Many citizens of this place think that facilities especially favorable to your business can be had here. I am not sufficiently informed of the requirements of your business to express any opinion on this point, but I will be very glad if you will send an authorized agent to look into the matter, and during his stay here I beg he may be my guest and promise to do all I can to aid him in arriving at a conclusion."

TO MR. REYNOLDS.

A Complimentary Concert by the Leo Wheat Company.

The program given last evening at the Grand by Leo Wheat and the Tuxedo quartette was, if possible, an even more excellent selection and brilliant rendering in the complimentary concert given to J. P. McKelvie, "Uncle Sam's" at the Battery Park parlors, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. In contrast to the small house that greeted this quartette last evening, the rooms were crowded not only with the guests of the hotel, but with lovers of music from the city. Verdict of the Tuxedo quartette was rendered by the quartette, and it played in answer to an encore "The British Patrol," which was brought down the house. It was a thoroughly enjoyable occasion.

ANOTHER PROCLAMATION.

CHIEF JUSTICE Rescued in Darlington and Florence.

DARLINGTON, S. C., April 6.—The governor's jury has rendered its verdict, finding McLenahan for the killing of Norment, Cain for the killing of Richmond, and finding that Richmond killed Penner, and finding that Penner shot and killed Norment. The verdict was returned in the report to Governor Tillman, but it is understood to encourage the facts that have been published. The governor is now making out the commitments for the two men.

COLUMBIA, April 6.—Governor Tillman has issued a proclamation restoring the civil status in Darlington and Florence.
