The Hawaiian constitution, not yet adopted, is as though a protection for an oligarchy as could be desired by the men placed in power with the aid of the United States government at Honolulu.

There has at last appeared a spark of humor in the Ohio campaign waged by the miners. At McClainville a few days ago, coal-miners faced the militia with the evident intention of laying down their arms and flight with fists.

It is a strange thing, when you stop to think of it, that such a committee as this from Havemeyer before the Senate Judiciary committee should not have subjected him to arrest and trial.

He was asked about the contributions of the sugar trust to the campaign funds of political parties and said that the records of the trust showed that such contributions were made, but they were made to the state committees.

FROM THE PEOPLE.

Editor The Citizen: The revolution is political when it is made on the basis of a quarrel with village and warring neighborly. Expressions of candidates generally consist of the subject of most political controversy.

A Suggestion.

Editor The Citizen: In your paper of the 14th inst. there appeared a notice of a meeting to be held in the city of New York on the 21st day of this month in the interest of Southern industrialism.

This meeting will doubtless be one of much significance to the South, and it seems to me that it should not only allow the opportunity to present views being represented, I suggest, therefore, that a public meeting be called for the purpose of relieving a obligation to this meeting in New York to present the beauties and advantages of Asheville.

There are a number of gentlemen I would name who would represent our growing mountain city with credit, but I know of no one who will do so more creditably than Capt. Nat. Atkinson, and I therefore nominate him to be appointed as one of the delegation herein suggested.

A Citizen of Asheville.

The Senate is slow on the tariff, but those who are familiar with past legislation on the tariff tell us they are making as good time as could be expected.

They haven't lowered the record by any means, even if they haven't moved all the way. They haven't lowered the record by any means, even if they haven't moved all the way.

Summer Homes Guide Book.

The Passenger department of the Richmond and Danville railroad has issued a Summer Homes Guide Book, giving a complete list of more than 100 hotels, boarding houses and resorts on and near its line in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama.

Summer excursion tickets are now on sale at reduced rates. Copies of "Summer Homes" can be had by applying to W. Murphy, Richmond and Danville railroad ticket agent, or to W. A. Turk, general passenger agent, Washington, D. C.

PLAN OF ORGANIZATION

Of The Democratic Party of North Carolina.

ROUNDS OF THE STATE. DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. Raleigh, N. C., June 12, 1904.

1. The unit of county organization shall be the township. In each township there shall be an executive committee, to consist of five active Democrats, who shall be elected by the Democratic voters of the several townships in meetings called by the county executive committee.

2. The several township executive committees shall convene at the meetings of the several county conventions, or at any time and place that a majority of them may elect, and shall elect a county executive committee, to consist of not less than five members, one of whom shall be designated as chairman, who shall preside at all of the said county meetings.

3. The county executive committee shall call a township convention by notice given at least ten days before the meeting of the township convention, to be held in the township, and shall elect a township executive committee, to consist of not less than five members, one of whom shall be designated as chairman, who shall preside at all of the said township meetings.

4. Each township shall be entitled to send one delegate to each county convention, to be held in the county, and to vote thereon as a unit. The delegates to the county convention shall be elected by the township executive committee, and shall be elected by the township executive committee, and shall be elected by the township executive committee.

5. The chairman of township committees shall preside at all township meetings. In the absence of any chairman, the township executive committee shall elect a chairman, who shall preside at all township meetings.

6. The several county conventions shall be held in the county, and shall elect a county executive committee, to consist of not less than five members, one of whom shall be designated as chairman, who shall preside at all of the said county meetings.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The original of Dodo, Miss Marjory Tennant, of London, is said to be so quick at repartee that young men are likely to fight shy of her.

—Dr. Millie J. Chapman, the vice-president of the International Organization of Homoeopathic Physicians, is a Pittsburgh woman who has been self-supporting since she was ten years of age. She studied medicine in Cleveland, graduated in 1874, and since that time has been practicing in Pittsburgh.

—Zola lives in a fine house in the Rue de Bruxelles, Paris, furnished with a luxury which his literary profits permit him. Japanese paintings greet the eye on entering, and the staircase which leads to the first floor is carved of expensive wood and adorned on the first division with medieval figures of men and horses in life size.

—Arthur G. Brand, liberal, who was elected to parliament from Cornhill, Berkshire, was sung into his seat by Mrs. Brand. A speech from the candidate and a song from his wife were the drawing features of his election meetings, and it appears to be conceded that her singing is what did the business.

—Walter Besant, though he writes a great deal about love and takes even more on that interesting topic, does not look like a man of sentimental inclinations. His high forehead and his full beard suggest a scientist, and he is a middle-aged man. He enjoys a great personal popularity in London because of his genial nature and sunny disposition.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Yates, who a few weeks ago was elected mayor of the town of Onongua, New Zealand, has been made a justice of the peace. This position, of course, gives the lady power to sit in the police court and adjudicate in small cases of assault, drunkenness, etc. Australian women are elated at what they consider a great victory for their fraternal equality.

—Gen. Grant's "Memoirs" which Mark Twain's firm published, are said to have returned a larger reward than any other book ever written in this country. Up to the present time the Grant family has received $140,000 in royalties from the publishers of the work, while the sale still continues.

—Barrie, the novelist, is thirty-four years old, but so boyish as to look younger. His figure is slight and small, his face pale, thin and sensitive, and his head rather too large for his body. On the small desk at which he writes the pipe belted in "My Lady Scotland" usually lies ready for use. "I fully intend marrying some day," he told an American visitor, "if only to have the convenience of using my wife's hairpins to clean out my pipes."

—Mrs. Malignon—"I'd rather her the hull family sick than you." Mr. Mulligan—"So would I."—Hullo.

—He—"I spoke to him in French, but he didn't understand me." She—"I don't wonder. He's a Frenchman."—Till bits.

—Your son played football at college. "Yes, an odd." "Quarter back?" "Oh, he's nearly all back. He lost only an ear and a hand."

—Like a book.—Sam—"Do know Mrs. Taylor?" Dick—"Like a book." Sam—"How's the book?"—"Full of words."—Detroit Free Press.

—Young Medical Practitioner—"I can truthfully say that I never lost but one patient." Dr. Longyear (grimly)—"What have you been doing for a living since he died?"—Chicago Record.

—A book agent attempted to sell a Frankfort politician an encyclopaedia. "Encyclopaedia?" exclaimed the Frankfort man. "Not don't want. Wouldn't have time to ride it."—Philadelphia Record.

—Passenger—"What time does this train reach Blankville?" Porter—"At half-past seven in the morning." Passenger—"Well, then, you may wake me at eight o'clock, for I don't want to dress in a hurry."—Inter-Ocean.

—"What you rooming on the top floor?" said the first drummer. "I thought you were too afraid of fire?" "There won't be any fire here to-night," said the second drummer. "I overheard the landlord say that his insurance had run out."—Indianapolis Journal.

—Indignant Customer—"Say, when you sold me that horse you told me that he had as much sense as a man. I find that the woman around the house can't manage him at all." Dealer—"Well, that not only sense as a man, but that he has even more."—Indianapolis Journal.

COSTLIEST MEAL ON RECORD.

It Was Served by a Roman Aristocrat and Cost Nearly $250,000.

In 1470 George Nevill was installed archbishop of York, England, and gave a feast of extravagant cost. Here are some of the supplies for the mighty spread: Eighty fatted oxen, 3,000 ducks, 10,000 sheep, 2,000 chickens, 4,000 hogs, 4,000 turkeys, 2,000 geese, 200 tons of ale, 40 tons of wine and other things.

The total cost of Nevill's banquet was upward of $150,000. But the very costliest meal ever served, says the St. Louis Republic, as far as history ever shows, was a supper given by Aelin Verna, one of the most lavish of the latter-day Roman aristocrats.

The supper was only intended for a dozen persons, yet its cost was 6,000 nesteria, which would amount to $145,500 (or $150,000 more than Nevill's feast) in English money, or nearly $250,000.

The celebrated feast given by Vitellius, a Roman emperor of those degenerate days, to his brother Lucius cost a fraction over $200,000. Suetonius says that this banquet consisted of 2,000 different dishes of fish and 7,000 different fowls, besides other courses in proportion.

Vitellius, fortunately for the world, did not reign very long, otherwise the game preserves of Libya, Spain and Britain would have been exhausted. It may not be out of place to mention here that it is recorded as a curious point of history that a single dish on the table of Emperor Hadrian cost $250,000.

Intersect Pronunciation. Good old Deacon Thayer, who was school trustee in the town of Mendham, Mass., once said, when addressing the village school: "A correct pronunciation is of the utmost importance in this world and the world to come." But how many people have it? We heard three words mispronounced yesterday by persons far more than ordinary culture and the errors are all common ones.

Before "desuetude" was dropped from its own desuetude by the president, few persons pronounced it correctly. Very many persons habitually rhyme "squalor" with "holer" and hardly anyone pronounces "paraisel" correctly. Boston Gazette.

What a Woman Can do

She can say NO and stick to it for all time to come. She can also say NO in such a low, sweet, voice that it means YES. She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her enough pencils. She can buy meats at James Wolf's stall in the City Market, and delight her husband's heart and save his purse excessive strain.
